MRS. ROBERT WITHERS had an experience recently that sounds utterly fantastic . . . Seems until recently she drove to Traverse City daily to attend school . . . all of which made it necessary to leave here pretty early . . . She was driving along the road out south of Charlevoix near the Farmer farm when she saw something big and black come out of the ditch and stop on the abandoned road near the trunkline . . . Not believing her eyes (and, we might add, not a bit afraid she was so surprised) she backed the car up to get a better look and there it was . . . a big black bear . . . She watched it for a time before it lumbered off toward Lake Michigan . . . And what was she thinking all the while? . . . "Bob will never believe this" . . . So if anyone hears of a bear in the area, don't say we didn't warn you.

* * *

DID YOU HAPPEN to see a copy of the June Town and Country magazine . . . If not you missed quite a story entitled "Top Drawer Reservations," an article about Harbor Point and Charlevoix's own Chicago Club, the people who live there and what they do . . . Written by Fanny Butcher of the Chicago Tribune staff, it also carried with it a beautiful picture of fireworks over Round Lake on Venetian Night . . . Charlevoix's getting up in the world . . . making Town and Country, don't you think? But aren't we lucky!

* * *

THE SECOND BIG holiday weekend of the summer's comin' up during the next few days . . . There'll be scads of cars on the highway with all kinds of drivers trying to get all kinds of places in three short days . . . So won't you be careful . . . twice as careful as usual . . . Remember that it's your life and those of your loved ones you're protecting . . . And we'd like to count you among the living, come next Monday . . . So have a whale of a time but be careful.

Guild Notes . . .

The Guild was organized in 1954 for the purpose of working in behalf of the new Charlevoix hospital which at that time was nearing completion.

Since then the Guild has come a long way and has become so much a part of the hospital that it's as if it had always been a service group.

The treasurer's report presented at the annual meeting recently shows that it has become a major part of the hospital. During the fiscal year which ended early in June, the gross receipts total $3,507.33 and expenditures $3,513.63. At the end of the year there was a balance of $221.18 on hand in the general fund and $603.23 in the nursing scholarship savings account which is financed by candy sales.

Among the equipment purchased for the hospital last year was an operating room light, a special clock for the labor room and a new library cart.

In addition, the Guild provided favors for trays on all major holidays of the year, gifts for all patients at Christmas time, magazines for the library cart which is pushed through the hospital three days each week. It supplies not only reading material but other items stocked on the cart for the convenience of the patients. At Christmas time the Guild also decorates trees in the hospital and decorates the exterior with garlands and lights.

The Guild also accepts contributions in honor or in memory of someone and sends attractive cards to the honored one, or the family of the person being honored, as the case might be. Last year $275 was contributed to the Guild in gifts and memorials.

The new solarium will be shown to the public later in the summer. The Guild will assist at the open house planned at that time.

Charlevoix — IN UNIFORM

Pfc. Charles M. Hooker, has returned to Fort Lewis after participating in Exercise "Indian River," a giant maneuver testing the Army's new pentomic concept of battle.

The exercise pitted 5th Infantry Division troops against "aggressor" forces in an 18,000-man battle fought at the Yekima Firing center. The Firing Center spreads across 267,000 acres of central Washington north of Yakima.

Pfc. Hooker is assigned to the division's 2nd Battle Group 39th Infantry as a telephone-radio operator.

Troops in "Indian River" were involved in every phase of modern warfare — atomic, chemical-biological-radiological - psychological and even guerilla fighting. The pentomic organization enables fast movement and wide dispersion to cope with such weapons.

Simulated atomic blasts and devices which harmlessly simulate radioactive fallout and detection added realism to the training.

Pfc. Hooker is the son of Harry Hooker.

Miss Anne Baumgartner, superintendent of the Charlevoix hospital (left) and Mrs. Louis Hamlin, surgical nurse, show the new operating room light purchased for the hospital by the Women's Guild to Mrs. E. D. Hawley, past president, and Mrs. G. B. Saltonstall, Guild president who assumed her duties last month. The Guild has selected for its project this year a similar light for the delivery room.

Women's Guild To Buy Special Hospital Light

The Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Hospital will raise funds this summer for a light for the delivery room at Charlevoix hospital, according to Mrs. G. B. Saltonstall, president of the Guild.

The decision to purchase the special delivery room light as its project for the year was made at the annual meeting of the Guild held recently. Miss Anne Baumgartner, superintendent of the hospital, presented a list of needs at the hospital.

C. of C. Arranging Business Displays

A new service will be offered shortly at the Chamber of Commerce booth on Bridge st., Thomas Symons, secretary of the Chamber has announced.

Books are currently being compiled which will carry information regarding all types of facilities and services available in the community.

These will be divided into categories and compiled into books which will be shown to people making inquiries.

For instance, if a member of the Chamber of Commerce has a resort operation such as cabins or motels, information about the facilities along with a picture or pictures will be placed in a book which will be placed on an easily accessable rack. Another will be devoted to eating places and a third to services.

In this way people requesting information about various facilities the community offers may make a choice from information found in the books. This service will be given to members of the Chamber of Commerce.

The woodchuck is commonly known by a variety of local names, including ground hog, whistle pig and eastern marmot. Actually, the animal is a big, clumsy, ground-dwelling member of the squirrel family.

65 Brownie Scouts Attend Annual Summer Day Camp

Sixty-five Brownie Scouts have completed a week of Day Camp at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun club under the direction of the Charlevoix Girl Scout Council.

Playhouse Opens With Popular Broadway Comedy

First nighters at the Petoskey Playhouse Saturday evening were enthusiastic in their praise of the satirical comedy "Visit to a Small Planet" which opened June 28. With an unearthly ability to lift rifles fifteen feet in the air and set flower baskets dancing in space, he was riotiously funny with his elegant English accent and swaggerng style.

Beginning July 8, Charlevoix play-goers will have an opportunity to see "The Song of Bernadette" at the Petoskey Playhouse, featuring a full cast of Broadway players and the St. Frances Xavier church choir.

Farmers Must Pick Right Crop For Top Income

Selecting the "right" crop to grow this season can put extra profit in the pocket this fall, declares L. H. Brown, farm economist at Michigan State University.

"Aim to produce the crops that will give the highest value per acre and still use the land according to what it can do best," the economist says.

The job of crop selection consists of fitting the crop to the capability of the land and then shooting for high yields.

Generally speaking, land of low capability will produce its highest value of crops if it is kept in hay and pasture from 50 to 70 per cent of the time. On the other hand, high capability land will produce more profit if it is growing higher value crops like corn and wheat most of the time.

Brown lists another reason for going after top yields of the "right" crop. It's the easiest source of farm income.

Why? Farmers have been able to reach a higher level of efficiency with crop production than with livestock," the economist says.

Labor requirments for corn, for example, have been cut from about 30 to 10 hours per acre over the past 20 years. But labor needed to care for one dairy cow is still around 10 hours—only about five hours less than two decades ago.

But don't get rid of all the livestock, Brown cautions. Livestock markets feed that is frequently hard to sell for cash and it also provides a market for labor which might find a poorer or even no market elsewhere.

CAA Marks 20th Birthday As Police of Airways

This far-reaching branch of the Department of Commerce manipulates the Nation's crisscrossing airliners as though they were puppets on electronic strings. Its purpose is to keep the air safe.

Marking its 20th birthday on June 23, the CAA looks back on an era of seam-bursting growth in American aviation. Some 100,000 miles of airways weave an invisible road map above the United States and its territories. Commercial aircraft fly the paths at regulated intervals and altitudes. CAA controllers at 29 Air Route Traffic Control Centers keep tabs on each plane with radar and radio communication.

Commercial flights in the 1920's were relatively haphazard affairs, the National Geographic Society recalls. In aviation's youth, soon after World War 1, a pilot navigated by peering from his open cockpit to follow a railroad or a river.

Mail planes, carrying meager cargoes of air mail, settled down at dusk, transferring mail sacks to trains for overnight transportation. This fly-by-day method chipped 22 hous off coast-to-coast mail service and roused enthusiasm for aviation's commercial possibilities.

When night flights started, farmers lit bonfires to guide the erratic biplanes on their way.

Pilots and air service operators urged government supervision of aviation for the sake of uniform safety rules. By 1934, three federal agencies — the Post Office Department, the Department of Commerce, and the Interstate Commerce Commission — shared control over commercial aviation.

The Civil Aviation Act of 1938 replaced these three authorities with one. Under the Department of Commerce, the CAA supervises the safety of aircraft and licenses commercial and private pilots; it sets up rules of the airways, provides aids to navigation, and helps build airports.

By the CAA rules of the road, a 'plane flying on instrument flight rules (IFR) occupies its own reserved block of air 25 to 50 miles long and 2,000 feet thick. In effect this air space moves with the plane from one traffic-control segment to the next. All information about it passes from controller to controller.

When an airliner gets within 20 miles of its destination, control generally passes from the local center to the CAA airport traffic-control tower. Gazing thru green-tinted picture windows, a local controller spots the plane and radios landing instructions.

When visibility is limited, radar takes over. The pilot has a choice of using his instrument land system (ILS) or of being "talked down" by a controller scanning a precision- approach radar screen. ILS activates a cockpit instrument that tells the pilot the moment he wanders off his proper glide path. At the airport, a CAA controller monitors the approach on radar.

First thing the passengers know, the airliner's wheels are on the ground — and the skilled technicians of the Civil Aernautics Administration have accomplished another miracle.

Proper Moisture Content in Silage Avoids Troubles

Putting up silage at the proper moisture content is the best way to avoid trouble from spoilage, according to Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent.

Silages that are either high in protein, high in water or low in sugar are apt to ferment poorly. The result may be smelly silages which are low in acids that are necessary for good preservation and palatability.

One — Wilt to the proper moisture content (65 to 70 per cent). At the proper moisture content, preservatives do little or no good in improving fermentation. Adding ground grain will help improve feeding value.

Two — Adding ground grain to soak up some of the excess water will improve fermentation a little and may increase feeding value.

Three — Adding molasses helps fermentation and improves acidity. But it may cause increased seepage in silage that is already too damp.

Four — Adding bisulphite is helpful only with moderately over-damp silages. Here it decreases the offensive odors, and may improve palatability somewhat but it has little effect on feeding value.

Five — Other chemical preservatives act much like bisulphite. Use of these on extremely damp silage is futile. Drainage is excessive, and fermentation is poor in spite of the preservatives. Very offensive silages generally result.

Corn silage generally ferments without trouble. It is high enough in sugar, low in protein and is rarely excessively damp as long as it has partly ripe ears.

Hunting and fishing opportunities in Michigan are famed thruout the nation and the state annually lists more combined hunting and fishing license holders than any other state.

Observatory to Be Built On Papagos Sacred Peaks

Men with "long eyes" want to rent the Papago Indians' Mount Olympus. The Indians are willing. Congress will soon be called on to approve the arrangement.

Astronomers — the Indians call them "long eyes" — plan to build the United States National Astronomical Observatory on Kitt Peak, a 6,875-foot rise on the Papago Reservation in Southwest Arizona. It is the traditional home of the Papagos' ancient gods.

Most Papagos now are Christians, but any contract entered into by the tribe will have a clause prohibiting the astronomers from disturbing the sacred caves on the peak where the spirits dwell.

Situated about 40 miles southwest of Tucson, Kitt Peak stands in rolling desert where there are no permanent streams and few year-round springs, the National Geographic Society says. It is a land of cactus, mesquite, ironwood, and paloverde.

The Papago Reservation, totaling 2,774,374 acres, is the home of about 7,500 Indians. Mineral deposits in the area have been exploited since the 18th century. Millions of dollars worth of silver were taken out in the boom of the 1880's.

Today the Indians gain their basic income from livestock. They also werk off the reservation, weave baskets, and make pottery.

Highways across the reservation bypass the Papago villages, both to cut the traffic hazard and to give privacy.

Curiously, Kitt Peak gets its name, not from an Indian God, but from a Mrs. William F. Kitt, whose brother surveyed the area in 1893.

The Peak was chosen for the new observatory after a three-year study of possible sites. Astronomers were anxious to find a place where weather conditions would complement those in southern California, which has the world's three largest telescopes, located respectively on Palomar Mountain, and Mts. Hamilton and Wilson. The California weather cycle gives clear skies in summer and fall; Arizona normally has clear winters.

After the choice had narrowed to five possibilities, instruments were installed on each to check visibility, wind direction and strength, temperatures, and other factors affecting clear, viewing. Kitt Peak was judged the most favorable location.

The observatory will be built for the National Science Foundation by the Association of Universities for Research in Astronomy, Inc. Included in "AURA" are the Universities of California, Chicago, Harvard, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio State, Wisconsin and Yale. Other institutions may join as the project progresses. When completed, the National Observatory will be open for research to qualified scientists all over the United States.

The Foundation's present plans call for a 36-inch and an 80-inch telescope. The latter will be United States' fifth largest.

Why does oil go in clear and come out DIRTY?

You'd be amazed at the dirt and sludge that builds up inside your engine as it operates...as much as a pound in every 2500 miles of driving!

If that dirt were allowed to cling to engine parts, you'd soon have a mighty big repair bill... but instead, your motor oil seizes the dirt and holds it in suspension where it can do no harm.

Then, when you drain your oil, out comes the dirt with it.

In addition to its greater cleansing action, 5D Koolmotor actually acts as several oils inside your engine. Provides light 10W grade performance at starting...medium 20 grade performance for warm-up...and heavy 30 grade performance once your engine is hot.

Result: it increases power, stretches gas mileage, keeps your engine new. Change over to 5D Koolmotor Oil this week.

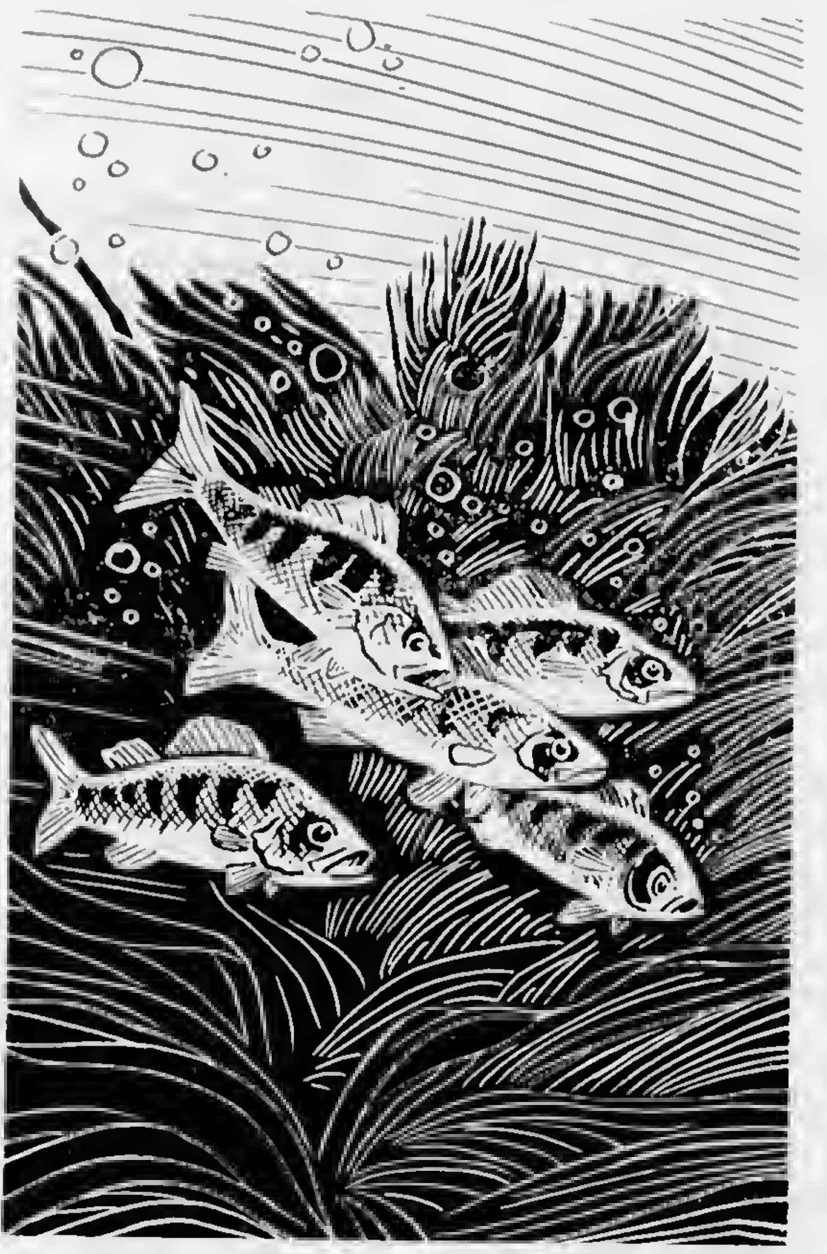
Our Wild NORTHERN NEIGHBORS

By Harold E. Kohn



The Eatingest Fish

There are at least one hundred and forty species of fishes in Michigan waters and they represent twenty-eight different families of fish. Among these many species will be found some of the world's gamiest and tastiest members of the finny tribe, and none has been caught so frequently by so many people as has the yellow perch. Many a child had caught his first fish in perch waters, using a worm, a crude stick and line, and a simple cork bobber. And the old, experienced, skilled fisherman may still find excitement fishing for perch with light fly-rod equipment.

Perch are handsome fish, having a graceful elliptical shape and a yellowish color with from six to eight broad dark bands that stripe them from back to belly. They are hatched early in the year. When the water temperature is about 50 degrees Fehrenheit in the spring, the perch breed. While the female is laying the eggs in a zig-zag gelatinous "rope" the male fertilizes them. Before long, in a mere week or so, the young perch hatch. By the end of the first year of life the youngsters attain a length of two and one-half to three and one-half inches. Under normal circumstances a perch twelve inches long is apt to be at least six years of age. A perch is in his dotage at eight years, but occasionally an old grandpa may reach twelve years of age.

Besides "yellow perch" this fish is called by many other names: American perch, lake perch, river perch, striped perch, ringed perch, convict perch, raccoon perch, jack perch, red perch, the names indicating local ways of designating the fish's geographical location or appearance. But one of its most flattering names is "the eatingest fish" in America. If that expression implies that our perch friend is the tastiest fish caught in this country, some of us would nominate the brook trout or the bluegill to run against him in any popularity test. But for conferring taste and ready availability, the yellow perch has no peer. The white, sweet flaky flesh is firm and delicately flavored, and fresh perch can be eaten over a greater portion of the year than any other northern Michigan fish. This fish can be found in lakes, ponds, and streams from Canada to the deep South and from western Minnesota to the Eastern seaboard, and it is being widely introduced into new areas. In some places, lakes have become "perch bound" because perch have thrived so well, have bred in such prolific numbers, and have so completely vanquished their competitors that few other fish are left, and even the perch are runts due to overcrowding and lock of food supply. Minnesota lakes especially have suffered from this problem.

By nature the yellow perch is carnivorous and predaceaous. It likes worms and crawfish, crickets, grasshoppers and grubs, flies and other insects. But it is especially fond of minnows, which it hunts down while swimming in small schools just off a lush growth of underwater plants, or close to pilings, docks or bridges here minnows tend to lurk in tangles of vegetation or timbers.

Most perch taken from Lake Charlevoix, Round Lake and Lake Michigan range from one fourth of a pound to one pound in weight, with an occasional thriller exceeding a pound and a half. In 1865 Dr. C. C. Abbot established a world's record for yellow perch when he caught a four pound, three and one-half ounce specimen at Bordentown, New Jersey. This record stands to this day and considerably dwarfs the prize perch we see taken in northern Michigan fishing contests and pictured in outdoor sports magazines. But a perch need not be record size to make your mouth water when you see him lying toast-brown in a frying pan. When the table is set, and the family has gathered, and the dining room atmosphere is heavy with the fragrance of frying fish, size counts little. Just pass the perch, please.

Girl Scouts Have Active Week at Camp Sea-Gull

Charlevoix's Girl Scouts have concluded another successful year with a week of Troop camp at Camp Sea-Gull on the north side of Lake Charlevoix.

A softball tournament was a new feature introduced this year. Team D was the winner and received the trophy bats with their names inscribed on them. Canoe trips were enjoyed by Troops 10, 11 and 12 with the entire camp taking an all-day canoe trip Thursday followed by a camp fire. Archery, taught by Robert Bergmann and tennis by Jill Stewart were two other sports that were popular.

The waterfront in charge of Joan Nelson was by far the most popular place at camp. Boating, canoeing and swimming were taught there.

Camp crafts were also enjoyed by all campers. Mrs. Lloyd Arnold taught the girls to make lanyards, bracelets and key chains; Mrs. Ray Wood was in charge of Suji wire art and taught the girls to make many clever figures; Mrs. Edward Lemcke introduced two new crafts, sand painting and collages. A number of pretty pictures and clever designs were completed in these crafts.

The camp was again under the direction of a resident camp council composed of Mrs. Robert Bergmann, president of the Girl Scout council; Mrs. Lester Smith, program chairman; Miss Nelson, waterfront director and Mrs. Robert O. Pearl, camping chairman.

They were assisted by the following; camp cook, Mrs. George Dean; nurse, Mrs. Bergmann; storekeeper, Mrs. Smith; food committee, Mrs. George Bergmann, Mrs. Harry Stewart and Mrs. Robert Bergmann; camp visitor, Mrs. Herbert Campbell; leaders, Mrs. Clifford G. Riley, Mrs. George LaBlance, Mrs. James Gallagher, Mrs. R. G. Bennett, Mrs. Ray Wood, Mrs. Lloyd Arnold, Mrs. Lyle Arvilla, Mrs. Pearl. Mrs. Ralph Hamilton showed slides and movies to the campers.

Camp aides were Vickie Miller, Janice Burns, Madelyn Rabach, Barbara Jarvis, Marilyn Novak, Sandra Ulrich, Katherine Oleksy, Kay Ulrich, Carol Belfy, Jill Stewart and Sue Gill.

Mothers assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Robert Neff, Mrs. Robert Martin, Ms. Robert Miller, Mrs. Frank Novotny, Mrs. Larrie Tuomela, Mrs. John Schroeder, Mrs. Gordon Freedman, Mrs. Walter Moore, Mrs. Max Novak, Mrs. James Hiller, Mrs. Glenn Snider, Mrs. Gerald Selph and Mrs. Waren Allison.

A Touch of Greatness

By

Harold E. Kohn

The Use of Time

Hunting in American forests and fields was once far more a game of stealth than it is these day. More patience was needed, more cunning. The rifleman had to approach nearer his game than does his modern counterpart because his gun would not shoot so far or as accurately as today's high-priced rifles, and there was no such thing as a repeating or semi-automatic gun to give him second or third chances if he missed his target with the first shot.

So the early hunter developed an unhurried attitude. Haste meant noise from which frightened game shied away. Hurry meant a wasted shot and long minutes of delay in recharging his muzzleloader.

Most early Americans would have appreciated the saying of Rodin, the sculptor, "Slowness is beauty." They did not slaughter a great deal of game, only what they needed, and that slowly, stealthily. They did not cultivate vast sweeps of land, but small forest openings, carefully and patiently. They did not have a great, long list of friends to whom they felt social obligation, but a few friends who lived near and who would delight in unhurried fellowship at the table and fireside. They did not read many books, but if they could read at all they knew a few books thoroughly. They believed, to use Gandhi's fine phrase, "There is more to life than increasing its speed."

Some of earth's blessings come to us in profusion. God allows us many flowers at one time, hosts of friends, variety of foods. But one thing he parcels out frugally—time. Everyone, the billionaire and the beggar alike, gets only a moment at a time. Nearly everything else on earth can be accumulated, but time cannot be hoarded. People talk lightly about "saving time" and purchasing "time-saving" devices. But time cannot he literally saved and banked as money can. No one ever has two moments at once. The big question about time is, therefore, not "How can I save time?" but "How should I spend it?"

Consciousness of the scarcity of time makes some people hurry through their hours. They greedily gulp them down. Others who are wiser, savor time, tasting the flavor of every moment. The difference is like that of two hungry people called to a table where food is scarce. One bolts his food and it is gone, and the effects are wholly physical and animal. The other does not rush but relishes every morsel, and the effects are both physical and spiritual, bodily pleasure being mixed with appreciation, discrimination, and gratitude.

Our forefathers used to sing an old hymn "Take Time to Be Holy." We could well revive the hymn, or at least the principle it proclaimed. In a world chock full of meetings, assignments, schedules and appointments, organizations to run, and social obligations to meet, time for the cultivation of faith and character seems scarce. It is not offered to us: it must be seized, wrenched from our too-full program of living. You have 168 hours in every week. Let us say you spent 56 hours of last week at work, and 56 hours is a rather liberal amount these days. If you spent eight hours of each twenty-four sleeping and dressing, that is another 56 hours out of last week. Now that left you 56 hours of last week to do other things, of which possibly 12 hours were consumed eating. You still had 44 hours left over. What did you do with them? In all the hysterical haste of last week's living did you lay aside any hours for self-improvement and helping others?

There is no sense of our saying, "I want to be a better person" and then spending no time in soul cultivation any more than there is in a young woman saying, "I want to be a nurse, but I don't want to spend any time in nursing school." We would judge a young man foolish who declared, "I want to be a scientist, but I shouldn't think it necessary to spend time in college," and we would laugh at a youngster who claimed "I'm going to be a concert violinist, providing I don't have to waste valuable hours practicing on the violin. Just schedule some concerts for me!" But people commonly think goodness of character automatically follows wanting to be good. It does not. The inner life takes time to develop as does a fallow field that must be plowed, and disked and sowed and weeded.

How can we best use our hours to become better people?

Frequently employ scattered moments of the day to think of God. Do this in addition to laying aside clusters of time for personal devotions at the beginning of the day. Link your littleness to God's greatness, your weakness to His power.

Take time for great soul stimulating, mind-stretching books and for stirring music. Enjoy the beauties of nature, not be quick glimpses of the stars or a hasty look at a sunset, but by setting aside fifteen or twenty minutes for slow assimilation of the Creator's handiwork.

Find some secret spot to which you can retire from life's frenzed pace and reflect upon the glorious possibilities of everyday living, the opportunities for fellowship, the goals worth living for, the things worth doing and the basic certainities and assurances that steady us.

Take time to be unselfishly useful, doing the good that no one can repay, to people who may never find the time or the interest to do good to you in return. Cheer the downcast. Lend a helping hand where needed. Play with little children. See what you can do to make your community and your world better.

A New Yorker took an oriental friend on a tour of that great metropolis. They started out on a subway train and after riding for a few moments the train made a stop and the New Yorker grabbed his Chinese friend, pulled him to the door, pushed him across the crowded platform and into a rapid transit express train. Soon they reached their destination, and the big-city man explained proudly to his visitor that by changing trains they had saved two minutes. The Chinese looked with mixed amusement and wonder at the American and quietly asked, "Now, what significant thing shall we do with the two minutes we saved?"

Well, what are we doing with the extra moments, freed of labor, that an advanced civilization has given us?

Softball Results

Rain cut the softball schedule to only three nights of action last week but the leaders in all three leagues posted wins to tighten their holds on first place, according to Dean Davenport, softball director.

This week will feature another full week of play in all three leagues with the Cardinals meeting the Red Devils at 6:30 p.m. and American Mold taking on Boyne City in the nightcap at 8:15 p.m. tonight (Thursday).

Because of the holiday, there will be no games Friaday night.

However, on Monday the schedule will be resumed with two Class A games being played. American Mold will play the Airport Inn at 7 p.m. with Boyne City and the U. S. Coast Guard clashing at 8:30 p.m.

* * *

ON TUESDAY the Pirates will play the Tigers on Field No. 2 and the Devils will take on the Red Sox at Kilpe field at 6:30 p.m. with Freedman meeting Ellsworth at 8:15 p.m.

On Wednesday the VFW squad will play Edwards in the Class B league at 6:30 p.m. and Boyne City will take on Freed man at 8:15 p.m.

In the Class A league Freedman went 10 innings with the Coast Guard in a real pitcher's battle before Norm Helm's double in the bottom of the tenth gave them a 3 to 2 victory.

The servicemen scored in the first on Joe Armstrong's single and Harvey Cole's double and added another in the second on two errors for a 2 to 0 lead.

Freedman picked up singles in the fifth on Dsvenport's triple and in the sixth on singles by John Swanson and Helms.

Pitchers Ted Potter of Freedman's nine and Ed Culbertson of the Coast Guard then wheeled through the line-ups striking out 15 and 18 men respectively before Helms doubled Swanson home with the winning run.

* * *

THE AIRPORT INN stayed right on Freedman's heels by racking up their second win. Again the Coast Guard was the victim, this time by a 1 to 0 score.

The only run of the game came in the sixth inning when Ron Cunningham drew a walk, stole second and third and then scored on an infield out.

Ellsworth stayed in the thick of things by winning two games during the week. They dumped American Mold 11 to 1, collecting nine runs in the sixth inning and then won over Boyne City 2 to 1 in a rain-soaked five-inning game.

IN PEANUT LEAGUE action the Pirates picked up two wins to take over undisputed possession of first place. They dumped the Dodgers 7 to 4 with Rick Miller and Chip Terrill each collecting a double and two singles. Brendon LaBlace, Bob Odmark, Jerry Stewart and Herb Marme each had two hits for the Dodgers.

Later they defeated the Red Sox 10 to 4 with Miller accounting for four hits.

The Cardinals got into the win column by defeating the Red Sox 7 to 6. Tom Maxwell scored the winning on Nick DeYoung's single. Rick Grunch had three hits for the Red Sox.

Take Registrations For Annual Frank Poole Tournament

Golfers interested in competing for the Frank Poole trophy and the city golf championship are urged to register as soon as possible for the two tournaments held at the municipal golf course.

Deadline for entering the fifth annual Frank Poole trophy tournament has been set for July 10, according to Keith Carey, manager of the municipal golf course. This tournament is played on a handicap basis. Dr. Lyle Ance is the defending champion.

Entries for the second annual city champion tourney will be accepted until later in the month but those planning to enter are asked to enter as early as possible. This tournament is played in flights.

Perry Smith and Mrs. Grover Geneit were the winners of the mixed two-ball foursome event held at the course over the weekend. Tieing for second place were Mr. Genet and Mrs. John Swanson and Dal Henry and Mrs. William Supernaw. Twenty-eight couples were entered in the special event.

News Round-up at Camp Charlevoix

Camp Charlevoix opened on last Saturday for the thirty-third season, with boys from Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, New Jersey, New York and from Alaska and Venezuela. They arrived by car, train, bus and plane.

Once again a very fine staff has been assembled with counsellors coming from twenty-four different colleges and Universities. Mr. Harry Bingham, principle of the Charlevoix High School is back for his 24th year, as business manager; Mrs. Harry Bingham and Mrs. Bill Townsend are his assistants; Bill Townsend, Coach at Fountain City, Indiana, director of activitie is back for his third season; Joe and Helen Shaw, from Oxford, Ohio, are back for their tenth year as cooks, assisted by Dave Warren, also of Oxford, Ohio. Cy Pick, Coach at Utica, Michigan, is the new head of Waterfront activities, with his wife, Mrs. Sally Pick being the tutoress.

Saturday evening the program got underway with the Annual Pillow Fights held in the clubhouse. Among the winners were: Parky Smith of Flint, John Foley of Grand Rapids, Mike Huber from Royal Oak, Mike Roberts from Detroit, and Tom Steffe from Flint. New campers were introduced, and the camp started off the season by learning a few of the camp songs.

On Sunday morning the first chapel service was held in the outdoor chapel with Ken giving the talk. He chose as his subject, "Building a Reputation." The counsellor's choir song, and it was a most impressive service held in the lovely chapel among the pines and facing the blue waters of the lake.

In the afternoon, the boys were all given their physical examinations and tested for their swimming ability. In spite of a rough lake, we found that we have only 25 non swimmers in camp.

Sunday evening the vesper services were held. One of the counsellors, Bob Kelly, gave the talk at Senior Vespers.

We would like to thank all the parents who so thoughtfully brought books to camp to add to our library. It was so very kind of you, and they will add many hours of reading enjoyment to the camp library.

Judge Proposes Juvenile Jury

A traffic court jury composed of juveniles to deal with juvenile traffic violators was proposed by Probate Judge William Downs, guest speaker at the Kiwanis club dinner meeting Monday evening.

A court of this type has been operating with remarkable success in Muskegon for a number of years, Mr. Downs said. He contends the idea could be equally as successful in Charlevoix county.

Operating under the direction of the probate court, the juvenile jury is set up with the co-operation of the public schools. Juvenile traffic violators are given a choice of appearing before the juvenile jury or the probate court.

Years Precipitation Below Average Despite Recent Heavy Rains

The recent heavy rainfall after months of scarcely any precipitation has been the main topic of conversation during the past week.

The downpour on June 30 totaled 2.33 inches according to data compiled by Harry W. Ladd, cooperative observer for the U. S. Weather Bureau, as compared with 2.66 inches during the first four months of 1957.

According to figures compiled over a period of years, the normal precipitation averages about 30 inches per year or 2.5 inches per month. During 1955 the precipitation totaled 24.17 inches, in 1956, 24.48 inches and last year 28.59 inches.

• • •

DURING THE first five months of this year the precipitation totaled only 4.65 inches with the rainfall for May, 2.07 inches, accounting for nearly 50 percent of the total. In June a total of 3.83 inches fell with 2.33 inches falling within a short time on the last day of the month.

Even the snowfall has decreased, adding to the seriousness of the situation.

During the winter of 1955-58 the snowfall totaled 84 inches and the following season 92 inches while last winter the total was only 48.75 inches.

ACCORDING TO figures made available by Mr. Ladd, in only 20 of the past 42 months has the rainfall averaged two inches or more. The heaviest rainfall during that time was the 3.83 inches which fell in June.

This lack of precipitation over the 3½ year period has created great concern among farmers as well as persons interested in forestry and conservation for it has taken its toll on all fronts.

The rainfall during the past week, while not ideal for the resort business, was welcomed by all residents of the north country despite the damage it did.

Program Shaping For Venitian Event

Things are shaping up for the annual Venetian Night festival scheduled for the last weekend of July, according to Tom Symons, secretary of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Thus far the response has been good and many new entries are expected.

The program committee headed by Dean Davenport has made arrangements for booths in East Park and for a number of special events including a doll and pet parade tentatively scheduled for Friday afternoon, July 25, a baseball game, canoe and boat races and several other things which are presently in the formative stage.

• • •

ONE NEW attraction which is sure to please is a gymnastic team from the National Gymnastic Camp near Williamsburg where several former Olympic champions are members of the faculty.

The coronation of Venetian Queen Wanda Russell, a parade, band concert, variety show, Soap Box Derby and a street dance are also being planned, making for a complete program during the festival weekend.

Car Crash Fatal To John K. Reed, Local Manufacturer

John K. Reed, 51, president of Paul - Reed Inc. plastics firm here, was killed last Thursday afternoon when the car he was driving left the road and struck the C & O viaduct nine miles north of here on US 31 near Bay Shore.

Mr. Reed was returning from a trip to Petoskey at the time of the accident which was reported at 1:45 p.m. by a passing motorist.

Sheriff Glenn E. Rose said that Mr. Reed apparently blacked out as he neared the viaduct. Examination revealed that he made no attempt to pull the car back on the road after it ran off the right shoulder and no braking marks were visible. Mr. Reed was thrown from the car by the impact. Dr. L. E. Grate, county coroner, said death was due to multiple injuries.

Funeral services were held at the Metcalf funeral home in Grand Rapids Saturday. Burial was in Restlawn cemetery there.

Born in Luther, Michigan, July 14, 1906, Mr. Reed had lived in Grand Rapids before coming here 14½ years ago. He was a foreman at the Grand Rapids water works and also was associated with the Chris-Craft Company in Grand Rapids before coming here with the Foster Boat Company. He had been a partner in the Paul-Reed company.

He was a member of the Congregational church, the Clinton Consistory and the Saladin Shrine of Grand Rapids.

He is survived by his wife, the former Hazel Owen whom he married in Grand Rapids in 1931 and a daughter, Mrs. Byron K. (Colleen) Wright of Charlevoix.

Schools Ask Extra Mill for Operating Expenses Next Year

Voters have three important decisions to make at the annual school election next Monday. With four candidates running for directors on the board of education, the electors will select two. A proposal to assess an extra mill on the state equalized valuation will be decided by ballot and a third ballot, if approved, would grant the school board permission to sell the Washington school property.

The annual meeting of the Charlevoix school district will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in the school band room. Reports of the school operation for the current year will be presented.

In an effort to stimulate more interest in school affairs, the Charlevoix Parent-Teachers association is sponsoring a drive Monday to encourage residents of the district to vote at the school election and attend the annual meeting in the evening.

Mr. Smith filed nomination petitions for another term while Mr. Hawley declined to seek the office again.

In the race for membership on the board of education for the first time are Mrs. Henrietta Weisler of Norwood township and Gordon L. Freedman of Charlevoix. Also in the race is Fred Willis of Charlevoix.

• • •

FACED WITH AN estimated budget deficit of $13,745.00, the board of education will ask the electors to raise the tax rate limitation one mill for a period of one year for operational expenses. If approved the school tax rate would be increased from seven mills to eight mills.

Approval would [illegible]oduce an additional $11,828.00 with a 100 percent collection of taxes, still leaving an estimated budget deficit of $1,917.00.

Estimated income to meet the 1956-59 school year budget amounts to $239,070.00, according to Supt. R. G. Bennett, with $157,190.00 derived from state grants and services.

It is estimated that the present seven mill property tax will bring in $70,380.00, based on 65 percent collection. Delinquent tax collection is estimated at $11,000 plus $500.00 in interest.

• • •

THE SCHOOL BUDGET for the current year was based on an estimated income of $247,230.00. The actual cost of operation was kept closely in line with the budget, Mr. Bennett states.

Major increased expenses in the 1858-58 budget are reflected in instructional costs and maintenance of school plant.

Election polls will open in the high school building from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m. Monday. All qualified electors in the school district may vote all three ballots. There is no restriction requiring electors to be property owners.

LAST WEEK WE had the pleasure of doing a story about one of our senior citizens . . . a man who has been so much a part of the community for so long that we sort of taka him for granted . . . We mean Will Bellinger who's contributed so very much time to the music in Charlevoix . . . The city council commended him in a wonderful resolution they adopted . . . we know it echos the sentiment of the entire community.

We'd like to tell you about that story . . . Bill wasn't very smitten with the idea of having a story done . . . So while trying to get one we discussed everything . . . but everything . . . but we finally came up with enough info . . . after an hour or so . . . But it was great fun and we're happy that we had the assignment . . . We hope, too, that Mr. Bellinger will continue to take an active role in community affairs.

REMEMBER Lewis Reimann who started Camp Charlevoix out at Ironton more than a quarter of a century ago . . . It's grown into one of the finest in the country since its early days when only a few youngsters came to northern Michigan under the guidance of this grand man from the University of Michigan . . . Though he hasn't been associated with the camp for quite some time he's still interested and often stops by as he did last week . . . And he's still plenty busy . . . writing books about this grand state of ours . . . plus a Guide for Camps . . . And those wonderful ones "When Pine was King," "Between the Iron and the Pine" and "Incredible Seney" . . . all about the U.P. as you can readily see . . . Mr. Reimann is doing what more people should do . . . put in writing the history of the early days in Michigan.

• • •

AND IT RAINED . . . how it rained . . . According to Harry Ladd who compiles percipitation figures for the U. S. Weather Bureau a total of 2.33 inches of rain fell Monday . . . More than we had the first four months of the year . . . How about that? . . . And as tho' that was enough it rained some more . . . right thru the July 4th weekend . . . We're hoping that from now on it will rain only at convenient times . . . and that we'll have beautiful sunshiny days so that everyone can get their fair share of Vitamin D . . . and a chance to do everything you have planned . . . We're keeping our fingers crossed that tha days will be the best ever during the last weekend of the month.

But gripe as we will about the rain, tha farmers were happy about it . . . so really we can't say too much.

• • •

A WELCOME to all the golfers who are here for tha tournament . . . They're amateurs from thruout the state, as you know, but we're willing to bet that some of them would do a bit of alright in pro circles . . . Wonder who the 1958 champ will be.

FOR THE FIRST time in the lifetime of many of us another star is being added to Old Glory . . . If memory serves me correctly the last time this happened was back about 1914 when Arizona joined the Union . . . And now Alaska becomes No. 49 . . . And about time we think . . . Certainly Alaska has earned that right . . . But what a mess it's going to throw the history books into . . . As though school kids today don't have enough history from this century.

Alaska, like Hawaii, has been seeking statehood for a long time . . . and last week marked the accomplishment of that goal . . . Remember we said that Alaska sought statehood . . . This is a far cry from the way another nation we know acquires 'states' . . . Aren't you glad you live in a part of the world where a territory, such as Alaska, seeks your country out rather then in a country that gobbles up minor countries or territories . . . We are 49 now because someone wanted to join us . . . It makes one realize more than ever that we're right in our way of life and government . . . Oh, sure, some things could be different . . . but it's still the best thing we've seen and until something a heck of a lot better comes along we're staying with it.

Smith-Postmus Vows Exchanged At First Congregaiional Church

The First Congregational church here was the scene Saturday afternoon of the wedding of Cynthia Louise Smith and Dr. Roger Wendell Postmus.

Parents of the couple are Captain and Mrs. Hubert Esterly Paddock and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Postmus of Kalamazoo.

Arrangements of white gladioli and peonies and lighted tapers in candelabra formed the setting for the double ring ceremony at which the Rev. Harold E. Kohn officiated.

A prelude of traditional music and the wedding march was played by Mrs. Charles Bellinger who also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Lee Moerland who sang "Through the Years," Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an intermission length gown of white Chantilly lace and Italian silk for her wedding. The gown was fashioned with an elongated lace covered bodice, short sleeves, and a square Sabrina neckline trimmed with seedpearls and irridescent seqoins The back of the bouffant skirt was draped with a large soft bow. A crown headdress of Chantilly lace trimmed with seedpearls and sequins secured her fingertip veil of bridal illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white glamelias and ivy.

Mrs. Rudy Scharschmidt of Batte-Creek, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Joan Wood of Ann Arbor, Mary Harrington of Flint and Patsy Ratigan. They wore identical gowns of pale blue lace and silk organdy fashioned on princess lines. The lace bodices had petal scalloped necklines and flared skirts of silk organdy over taffeta. They wore matching headress of blue lace with noseveils and carried cascade bouquets of yellow carnations.

William Postmus of Kalamazoo assisted his brother as best man. Ushers were Claude Wezeman of Oak Park, Ill., Dr. Glenn Kleinbarger of Chicago, Ill., Vane Smith and Douglas Smith, the latter two brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Paddock selected a green silk print sheath dress with matching jacket, white accessories and a corsage of white glamelias for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Postmus, mother of the bridegroom, wore a light pink voile dress, matching pink flowered hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of white glamellias.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors in charge of the Pilgrim circle. Assisting were Mrs. William Paddock of Park Falls, Wis., aunt of the bride, Nellie Westveer of Grand Rapids, Jeanne Nagel of Hamburg, N. Y., Janette Fitzsimons of Grosse Pointe and Mrs. Felix Scharschmidt of Markesan, Wis.

Wedding guests were present from Ellsworth, Flint, Grand Rapids, Battle Creek, Elk Rapids, Fremont, Ann Arbor, Grosse Point, Kalamazoo, Chicago, Markesan, Wis., Park Falls, Wis., and Peoria, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Postmus, parents of the bridegroom, entertained at a rehearsal dinner at the Grey Gables Inn Friday evening.

Song of Bernadette Opens at Playhouse

Tuesday night, playgoers witnessed an inspiring presentation of the "Song of Bernadette" at the Petoskey Playhouse. A full cast of Broadway players, including Elizabeth Davis as Bernadette Soubirous, brought devout simplicity to the beloved story of faith. The St. Francis Xavier church choir, under the direction of Guy Huybrecht, was a special feature of this unusual production.

On Thursday night, a full-benefit performance will be given by the St. Francis Xavier Church, at the Playhouse.

Since the year 1958 marks the 100th anniversary of Lourdes, "The Song of Bernadette" will be held over two weeks at the Petoskey Playhouse, according to the director, Bentley Lenhoff.

A special children's matinee will be presented at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Guild Notes . . .

First major event was a bake sale last week which brought in some $120 which will be applied toward the cost of the lamp . . . $1,535. Fran Martin, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, would like to thank all those who worked and who baked for the event. Thanks also to the telephone committee which did such a fine job of contacting the Guild's more than 100 members.

Right now Mrs. Gordon L. Freedman is busy selling tickets and making reservations for the fifth annual fashion show and luncheon at the Weathervane Inn . . . Polly Kay and Shop of the Gulls will be showing the latest in summer and fall fashions at this popular show . . . Paul Olseo of the Weathervane dining room has promised a wonderful luncheon to round out the event . . . If you don't have your ticket call Mrs. Freedman, Mrs. G. B. Saltonstall, Mrs. E. D. Hawley, Fran Martin or stop at either of the shops mentioned above . . .

Mrs. Hawley of the gifts and memorials committee reports that a contribution has been made to the Guild in honor of Mrs. Albert Wachenheim's birthday anniversary by Mrs. Clarence F. Coleman and Mrs. James Coleman . . .

Correction: Mrs. Jack Grubaugh is secretary of the Guild and not Mrs. Robert O. Pearl as was stated last week. Apologies!

A thank you to Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff who has given a copy of her latest book, "The Haunt of High Island" to the library cart in memory of her nephew, Lt. Loren Ward Crandell. Juveniles hospitalized at the local hospital as well as adults will find this exciting reading . . .

There's a new shipment of candy in, according to Mrs. James Hiller, chairman of the candy committee . . . If you'd like some, just call her and she'll be happy to supply you with some . . .

A 'well done' to Mrs. Edward Lemcke who designed and, with the assistance of her committee, made the attractive balloon posters advertising the Guild bake sale last week . . . And to Margaret Milner who designed and made the equally eye-catching posters telling the world about the forthcoming style show and luncheon next Tuesday . . . And a 'thank you' to Mrs. Ralph Hamilton who always places them in the most strategic places. And to the same Mrs. Hamilton another low bow for making the attractive aprons (which matched the posters) for the workers at the bake sale . . .

To Mrs. Richard Malpass of East Jordan and Mrs. Charles Bellinger a big 'thank you' for serving as pushers of the library cart during the winter and spring months. Such faithful service makes this project possible. And a welcome to Mrs. Stanley Epstein and Mrs. Alfred Browe who have taken over the job for the summer.

• Mrs. J. K. Wagner and daughter, Jan, of Midland, who are spending the summer at their Bay View cottage, visited last week with her mother, Mrs. A. C. Belding, and other relatives.

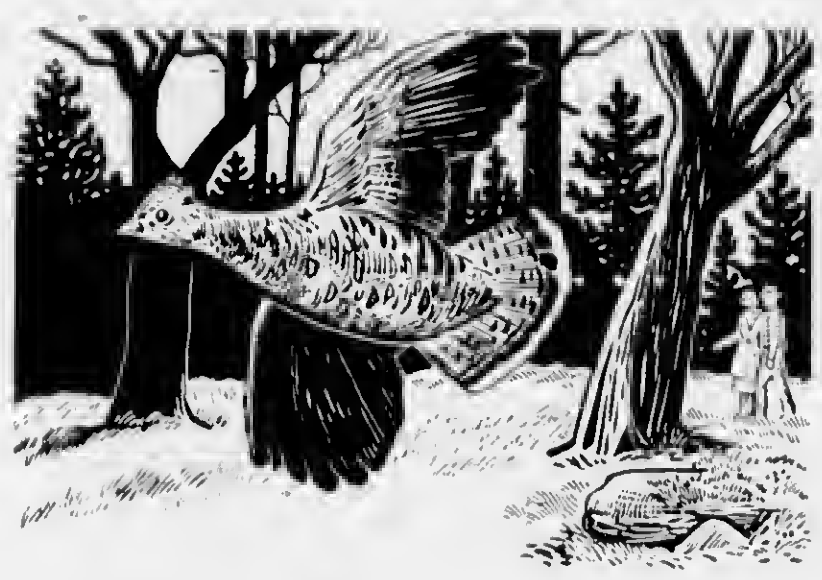
Our Wild NORTHERN NEIGHBORS

By Harold E. Kohn



Ruffed Grouse . . .

Just as the whitetail deer are Northern Michigan's most symbolical mammal, so the ruffed grouse are the North's most typical bird. Not that they are more plentiful than other birds, for chickadees, bluejays, white-throated sparrows, and many other species probably outnumber them, but they typify the wildness of the North, its ruggedness and hardiness. They epitomize the mystery of wilderness and incarnate the beauty of sun-and-shadow-dappled forest aisles. The "Thump! Thump! Ka-thump!" of a cock grouse's drumming is a music that bridges the centuries and links the first Michigan Indian to the most recent tourist.

The thunderous explosion of a grouse taking flight is one of Nature's most exciting sounds. And the sight of this artful dodger speeding on whirring wings amidst trees and brush, narrowly veering away from likely disaster, is a baffling one to behold. We see ruffed grouse often at Hidden Brook, and the experience never loses its fascination. The last grouse seen in flight was as impressive as the first.

The recuperative powers of the ruffed grouse after injury are astonishing and indicate the fundamental vitality of these Northern neighbors of ours. These hardy birds, in spite of their uncanny maneuvering ability, occasionally suffer accident. They have been seen striking the branch of a tree, falling to the ground in a daze, and arising again to fly away unhurt. Autopsies performed on the bodies of grouse taken by hunters have shown part of the crop to have been torn away by accident, and healed again, and fair-sized twigs embedded in a bird's muscles and inner membranes without apparent inconvenience to the creature.

Most grouse infants are hatched in a shallow nest beside the base of a tree or against an old stump or mossy log or in thick brush near a forest's edge. (But grouse mothers will on rare occasions be unconventional and lay their eggs in abandoned crows' nests, forgetful of how chicks, being precocious, might climb out of the nest and tumble to the ground far below). The whitish eggs will usually number between eight and fourteen and take from twenty-one to twenty-three days to hatch. The young birds can run for hiding almost as soon as they are hatched and a few days after birth they can flutter for short distances. A mother grouse teaches her wee youngsters the lessons of obedience, and her discipline is credited with saving their peril-packed lives many times a day, for they scatter and hide or come scurrying to her at her first command and thus often escape the talons of hawks and owls and the fangs of prowling mink, bobcats and foxes. But in spite of all her precautions a hen grouse sometimes loses must of her flock. One ruffed grouse mother was closely watched by a naturalist and it was noted that ten of her eleven eggs hatched successfully. Of these ten, one chick was killed by a hawk, another strayed away and apparently froze to death. Others fell prey to carnivorous mammals. When fall arrived only four of the original ten grouse survived. This percentage is thought to be average for a game bird of this type.

Feeding on buds and fruits, green leaves, acorns and beechnuts, chicks grow rapidly and before many months have passed they are indistinguishable from their elders. Their buff-and-mahogany-colored bodies, spotted with gray and barred with black, may attain a length of nineteen inches and a weight of nearly two pounds. Whether seen strutting down a forest trail or zigzagging on beating wings among hardwoods and conifers, this beautiful creature deserves the title sportsmen and naturalists have bestowed upon it, "King of American game birds."

Eating is a favorite activity among the Ifalik islanders of the western Pacific. They talk of food incessantly. Their word for happiness means literally "my belly is good."

Slim's "Pickins"

Slim Thomas who owns a used-car lot on the highway proved more than once he can think fast. Last week, for example, a young roofing salesman came in to say he couldn't keep up the payments on a car he'd bought.

Someone else would have begun to talk about refinancing—or repossession of the car. But Slim looked the fellow up and down and asked him how'd he'd like a part-time job.

Now Slim's got a new salesman. The new fellow's holding down both jobs and keeps his car too. Everybody's happy.

From where I sit, our town is lucky in having a fellow like Slim around. He's not only a good judge of a used car, but of character, too. Maybe it's because he understands others—and respects their viewpoints. Slim's one fellow who'd never try to "sell" you out of choosing a glass of beer with your meal, just because he prefers coffee!

NOW! WONDERFULLY NEW, THRIFTIER WAY TO BUY GASOLINE!

America's six finest gasoline grades (OCTANE RATINGS) custom-blended to fit any car today

Custom Blended
BLUE SUNOCO

© 1958, SUN OIL COMPANY

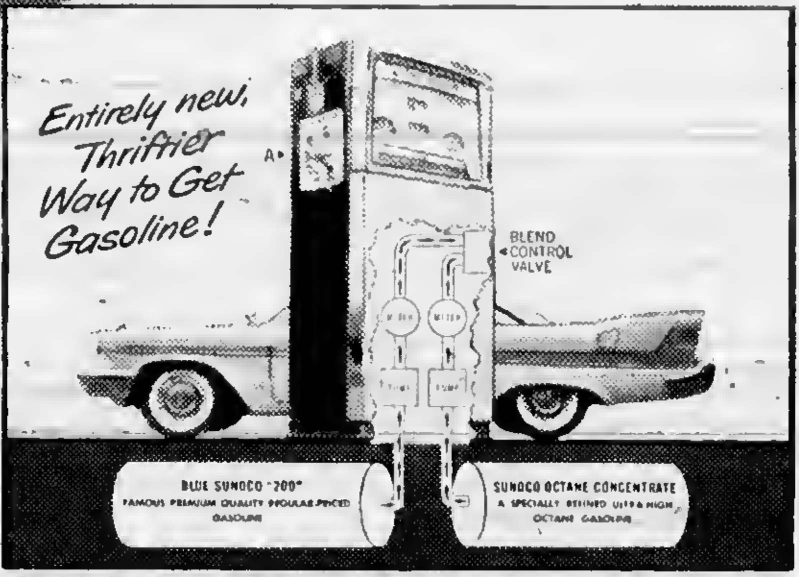
This you can have! Today's big difference—in gas costs, and performance—something 3 out of every 5 car-owners have never been able to get, up to now!

- EXACT OCTANE-STRENGTH YOUR ENGINE NEEDS
- HIGHEST-OCTANE "REGULAR" PRICE GAS ON THE MARKET
- SAVINGS UP TO $1.00 A TANKFUL OVER OTHER "PREMIUMS"
- MOST MILES PER DOLLAR...SMOOTHER, KNOCK-FREE POWER

It's the big difference, all right. You'll feel and hear it from your engine . . . count it in what you save on gas.

Cars are not unlike men—in what they need to do their stuff. Few men can eat, or thrive on identical food.

Two cars of the same make, model, age and even the same mileage can vary as much as 8-10 octane points in what they need to perform best! It's hopeless to expect that all the cars running today can be correctly powered on 2 or 3 "ready made" gasoline grades. That's what Sunoco's brilliant new blending pump corrects . . . by custom-blending on the spot the right fuel, for every car it fills. Ready and waiting, today! Come see for yourself!



Entirely new, Thriftier Way to Get Gasoline!
A
BLUE SUNOCO "200"
FAMOUS PREMIUM QUALITY REGULAR-PRICED GASOLINE
SUNOCO OCTANE CONCENTRATE A SPECIALLY REFINED ULTRA-HIGH OCTANE GASOLINE

THIS IS WHAT HAPPENS: Dial (A) is set for any one of six "custom blends" desired. This precisely controls proportions drawn from each of two tanks. In one, premium quality straight Blue Sunoco '200', higher octane than any gasoline at "regular" price; in the other tank, Sunoco Octane Concentrate higher than any car needs. Meters and control valve accurately deliver exact octane called for by selector-dial setting.

SOME EXAMPLES: CARS AND THEIR CUSTOM-BLEND NUMBERS:

'55 Chevrolet — 6, V-8	200	'57 Plymouth—V-8 Deluxe	210
'57 Chevrolet V-8 DeLuxe	220	'55 Oldsmobile	210
'55 Ford — 6, V-8	200	'56 Pontiac	210
'58 Ford V-8 DeLuxe Models	240	'58 Edsel — Ranger, Pacer	240
'56 Dodge V-8 Power Pack	210	'58 Cadillac	240
'56 Buick Special	220	'58 Mercury — Power Pack	260
'56 Buick — All Others	230	'58 Rambler	200
'57 Plymouth — 6, V-8	200	'58 Imperial	260

News Round-up at Camp Charlevoix

The first week of Camp Charlevoix started off with the campers being taken around to all of the activities for a short introduction as to what was being offered in that activity. It was a fine opportunity for the old campers to meet the new men on the staff and the new campers to see what Camp Charlevoix has to offer.

That evening at the dinner table, the boys made their choices of activities for the first week.

Tuesday was the day of the Big Blow. Winds up to 82 miles an hour hit camp and set all the sailboats loose, and took out [illegible] sections of our lo[illegible] [illegible] much excitement [illegible] as they were all [illegible] the shore watching the s[illegible] struggle to take care of everything.

THE ACTIVITIES were in full force on Wednesday and boys were interested in getting started in their chosen group.

Thursday, rain, and activities were still held indoors.

Friday, the fourth of July, rain, more rain, and still more rain. The fine program we had set up for the day had to be postponed.

This was movie day, with the day ending with the fine feature picture The Glenn Miller Story. The boys enjoyed it a great deal, and asked if we could show it over again. However, this is impossible.

Saturday the regular activities were held during the day and in the evening an All-Camp Quiz show was held with the Greys coming out on top.

* * *

THE ENTIRE CAMP is divided into two sides, the Greens and the Greys. All competition all summer is between the two sides. At the end of the season the losing team has to put on a banquet for the winning side which has its name engraved on the wall of the clubhouse.

The teams have elected their captains and lieutenants, the following boys emerging as the winners: Junior Greens, Hugh O'Neill, captain, with Jeff McLean and Tom Steffe, as Lieutenants; Junior Greys, Mark Gardner, Captain and Stim Schantz and Potter Orr as Lieutenants.

In the Intermediate Section, the Greens elected Neil Funk, captain with Tom Conrad and Dick Ward as his helpers. The Intermediate Greys chose Jon Steffensen as captain, and Gary Grimes and Freddie Gagle as Lieutenants.

There is much rivalry between the two sides and some boys insist on being on the same side year after year.

* * *

AT THE SUNDAY morning chapel service, our director of activities gave the talk, his subject being "Developing Your Personality."

In the afternoon, the annual Green and Grey track meet was held with the Greens winning in one section, and the Greys winning in two, thus the Greys picked up another point.

It was a glorious warm and sunny afternoon and the campers had a great time.

Some of the boys who won events were: "Butch" Wardwell, Fred Tucker, Bob Hicks, Bob Lohman, Clair Maxon, David Sawyer, Stim Schantz, Bill Lambert, Neil Funk, Richard Moon, Potter Orr and Kirk Marchwald, and Jeffrey Coffin.

* * *

WE SENT OUR five cowboys down to Traverse City to ride in the Traverse City Horse Show, taking five of our horses down, Squaw, Champ, Rex, Patches and Short Top.

We were delighted with the results as we took seven ribbons to add to our collection, and Don Halbeisn, our Head Cowboy, was high point winner in the show and received a trophy for his work.

Many compliments were paid the pride of our stable "Squaw."

* * *

SUNDAY EVENING we had our Fourth of July outdoor barbe-que. Our cooks, Joe and Helen Shaw and David Warren cooked huge beefs over an outdoor fire on a spit, and the boys loved the meal.

We ate along the shore and there was even beef left over, everyone having more than their fill.

After a campfire of songs and stories, the boys sat on the grass along the shore and watched our annual display of fireworks.

The boys went to bed late, about ten o'clock, tired after our postponed Fourth celebratin, but very happy.

The camp council, made up of a representative from each cabin, has been chosen, with the following boys being elected to this honor: Mark Coltrin, Howie Morgan, Charles Dolph, Keith Harrison, Stim Schantz, Potter Orr, Howie Holmes, Colin Munro, Tom Davis, Roger Witherill, David Hause, Chip Coakley, Neil Funk, Jon Steffensen, Ace Hoyt, Hank Holste, John Reedy, Larry Johnson, Jim Cahalan, and David Meisner.

THE SEASON IS well under way and boys are having a great time. Already several of the first four weekers are asking if they can please stay the second period, too.

The nature men have built a glass snake-pit which is most interesting to our many snake lovers.

Several of the boys are busy working on a camp newspaper which will be the first time campers have wanted that in fifteen years. The boys are busy gathering news, etc.

We are off to a great season with about the finest staff we have ever had. Everyone is happy and above all having "fun."

Great plans are being made for the carnival which will be at three o'clock on Saturday, July 19th. Hope to see many of the parents on that date.

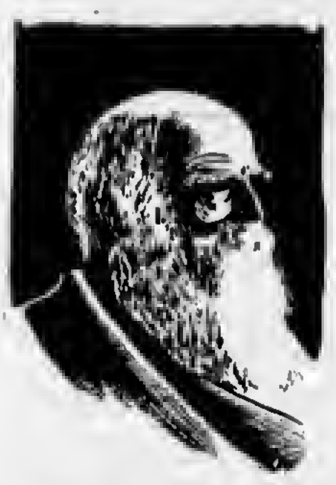
A Touch of Greatness

Inspiration from great lives

By Harold E. Kohn

Make Room for Solitude



WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT

We Americans are great greeters, quick to say a friendly "hello." Our big cities have welcome committees to hail famed newcomers, and "welcome ladies" to salute new residents of the community. (We have even developed a way of bidding welcome to growing seasons by naming a "Cherry Queen" for the cherry season, a "Peach Queen," "Sugar Beet Queen" and "Strawberry Queen" for the growing and harvest periods of those edibles.) But we are not so adept as saying "goodbye." We tend to linger in a world of crowds and fail to make enough departures into quiet seclusion. We are too much like the African of whom Trader Horn reported, "The savage, when reparated from his kind, pines like a dog. The first thing education teaches you is to walk alone. Aye, you can sure stand on your own spear when you've learned the word goodby and say it clear."

"The world is too much with us," said William Wordsworth well over a hundred years ago. His warning is even more timely now. The earth is more crowded than ever—and more solidly pocked with feverish activity. Even a "man's castle," his home, is equipped with radio, telephone and television so that he can keep a constant hold on the busy world [illegible] should try to escape him. William James once put it, "The great source of terror to infancy is solitude." If that is so, many of us have a bad emotional hangover from infancy.

But even those who profess a longing for aloneness too seldom go after it with earnest intent. Busy people often remark, "If I could only find some time to be alone!" Time for solitude is seldom accidently found, like a nickel in the gutter: it is made, cut out of the day as window space is sawed out of a wall. Some of the world's most idle people have "little time for solitude" and many of the most fruitfuly active have regularly taken out of every day some time to be alone. Knowing that clear thinking vivid use of the imagination, and recovery of morale are seldom experienced amidst the uproar of crowds, the world's great have established some oasis of solitude where their spirits could be briefly refreshed and readied for the world once more.

A poet known to nearly every literate American was William Cullen Bryant. He has been given the title of "father of American song," because he was the first poet in America to receive wide acclaim in England and Europe. At only seventeen years of age he wrote his poem on death, "Thanatopsis," famed for its grace and beauty. His quietly appreciative, contemplative poem, "To a Waterfowl" was written in his twenty-first year, and it has endeared Bryant to the hearts of poetry lovers everywhere. When he was still a young man, barely out of his twenties, he moved from Massachusetts to New York to assume a literary editorship, and soon after became one of the editors of the New York Evening Post. In 1829 he became role editor of this same paper and for nearly fifty years held that position, with all the duties such preminence brought with it, a great number of speeches, a heavy correspondence, and trips to Europe and the West Indies. While in this post he crusaded continuously for the common good, promoting free discussion of political and social issues, encouraging refrms, and stimulating the intellectual life of New York in a way that was revolutionary in American journalism. But in spite of being caught up in a dizzy whirl of editorial duties, Bryant always found time for solitude. Hardly an afternoon passed that he did not seek isolation by escaping from the city. He would emerge from his office and walk leisurely to the rock-and-tree-lined bays above Canal Street, or he would direct his steps toward the groves guarding the banks of the Hudson River. There he would wait to be reminded of life's elementals, so often lost amidst haste and industry, fuss and fret, and the convivial sociability of his fellows. He would be aware once more of his eternal origin and his far destiny. Bryant knew character has a need for society and fellowship, and just as deep an urgency for isolation.

It has always been so with the world's great leaders, whether poets or artists or sculptors, whether statesmen or scientists or saints; they have maintained a balance between sociableness and solitude. Bryant's contemporary, Ralph Waldo Emerson, led an active social life. He was a club member, a lecturer to great crowds or listeners, and a charming host in his Concord home to the prominent men of New England. He travelled to Europe to meet some of the noble men of his time, and savored every hour he spent in the home of Thomas Carlyle in England. But, altho he loved crowds and company, he carefully guarded his solitude, finding his faculties at their highest power only when alone in forest, field or study. He purchased a woodlot by Walden Pond, just outside Concord. At the water's edge he cut away a few trees to give him a view, and there herepaired to bathe, to read, and to meditate. Solitary communion with nature was Emerson's mode of finding inspiration. As a man Emerson was a social creature. But, being also an artist of words and demanding perfection of himself he needed solitude too, the aloneness that excites a playful imagination, and he provided for it.

Henry David Thoreau, Emerson's friend, prized solitude. "I love to be alone," he said. "I never found the companion that was so companionable as solitude."

Before Hawaii became civilized the chief privilege of a Hawaiian king was his right to privacy. So powerful was the taboo against infringing upon a king's solitude that if he ventured out of his palace all commoners within sight were forced to fall on their faces or risk instant death. Even the badly withdrawn introvert would agree that the Hawaiians carried the desire for privacy to ridiculous lengths, but we have gone too far in the opposite direction. The soul who loves solitude is made to bow down to a world of crowds, so that one Americism complains that the bathroom is the only refuge for the retiring spirit, and that retreat is festooned with dripping nylons.

If you are to have any privacy these days you will obtain it only by grimly planning for it, for solitude is not plentiful enough to find lying around loose. Find a place, a corner in the basement, a closet with an inside lock, or better yet a bench in a park or a stump in the woods. Go there at a specific moment every day. Stay for awhile if no more than fifteen minutes, and see what aloneness can do.

Solitude gives us a chance to examine and know ourselves, to find out how much of the brute and the angel has been mixed in our blood. Seclusion, wisely used, washes off the cosmetic of flattery and the mud of criticism and introduces us anew to the hidden self. It frees us from the interest and entertainment others have provided, and throws us back on our own resources of memory and meditation, of opinion, personal philosphy and faith. Privacy ushers out all other company and ushers in the Great Companion, whose still small voice is so often drowned by the din of less meaningful conversation.

We are made for society and solitude, to be with the crowd and to be alone. The crowd gets more than its fair half of the innings these days. Give solitude its turn.

Rosemary DeCamp Stars in Role at Cherry Playhouse

Rosemary De Camp stars in "Separate Tables" the week of July 13 at the Cherry County Playhouse in Traverse City, Michigan. Miss De Camp will play two roles in the Terence Rattigan drama, which consists of two complete plays set in an English seaside resort.

"Separate Tables" won the New York Critics' Award for the best foreign play last year. During its successful Broadway run, both Margaret Leighton and Geraldine Page undertook the difficult double role.

Miss De Camp has won fame chiefly for two characterizations—as Margaret, Bob Cummings' sister on his popular television show, and as Dr. Christian's secretary on the radio program, which was on the air for 17 years.

"Separate Tables" will run from Tuesday, July 15, through Sunday, July 20, at 8:30 p.m., with a Thursday matinee at 2:30

Beaver Island Mill Manager Fatally Injured

St. James, B. I. — An Elmira man who was managing the McDonough sawmill here was killed Monday morning in an accident at the mill located 12 miles southwest of St. James.

He was Wilbur Taylor, 44, of RR 3 Elmira, who died enroute to the island Medical Center after being struck in the chest with a 2-inch piece of lumber thrown with great force by the whirling saw. He was thrown 15 ft. by the impact.

Fellow workmen at the mill which makes croquet materials for a Grand Rapids firm told Sheriff's Deputy Elston Pischner that they believe the saw struck a knot in the log which was being cut into lumber. When the knot failed to yield to the saw, it threw the piece of material, striking Taylor who was managing the operation.

The body was returned via plane to the Winchester Funeral Home here and then taken to the Miller Funeral Home in Mancelona. Funeral services will be held at the Alba Methodist church at 2 p.m. Thursday with burial in the Alba cemetery.

Mr. Taylor operated a turkey farm in the Elmira-Alba area of Antrim county and had come to Beaver Island last spring to operate the McDonough sawmill. The mill was within a week of completing operation for the present.

He is survived by his wife and three children, two daughters and a son, all at home.

Freedman and Smith Win Membership on Board of Education

Voters of the Charlevoix school district gave their approval to a one-mill tax levy for a period of one year by the slim margin of three votes 253 to 250, in the annual school election here Monday.

At the same time they approved the sale of the former Washington school property at the corner of Petoskey ave. and Burns st. and elected two trustees for three year terms.

The tax levy approved by the voters will raise $11,800 to be used for operating costs.

Gordon L. Freedman who polled a total of 338 votes was elected to the board of education to succeed E. D. Hawley who was not a candidate for re-election after serving 15 years.

Incumbent Albert H. Smith tallied 230 votes to win re-election to the board for the fourth time.

* * *

OTHER CANDIDATES were Fred W. Willis who polled 187 votes and Mrs. Charles Weisler who received 185.

The proposed sale of the former Washington school property on the north side was approved by a vote of 403 to 99.

The building has not been used as a school since 1928 when the present elementary school was constructed. At various times it has been leased as office space.

At the annual meeting Monday evening reports were given by the board of education and Supt. R. G. Bennett on the operation of the school.

COST OF SCHOOL operation came in for some discussion when Ted Miller presented figures comparing the cost of operating the Charlevoix school with costs at Boyne City and East Jordan.

Supt. Bennett justified these differences because of the fact that Charlevoix employs more experienced teachers and endeavors to assign fewer students to each teacher thus giving the teacher more time for each individual child.

Mr. Miller concluded his remarks by urging every economy possible but recommended a five-mill tax be levied to be placed in a sinking fund for a new high school.

He asserted this procedure would be a savings to the taxpayers if and when a new school is constructed

The P.T.A. which conducted a telephone campaign and distributed leaflets was credited with bringing out the record vote in Monday's election. Mrs. E. D. Hawley, president of the P. T. A. would like to thank those who conducted the telephone campaign and the youngsters who distributed the leaflets for their role in bringing out the voters.

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

SOMETHING NEW has been added along Bridge st. . . in case you hadn't noticed . . . The flower boxes with the beautiful rose-colored petunias at the Polly Kay shop . . . It certainly adds beauty to the street . . . And to our way of thinking, an idea that could be copied up and down the avenue . . . How about it?

* * *

HAVE YOU ENTERED your boat in the Venetian boat parade yet? If not you'd better get with it . . . And how about the sweepstake that's going to be part of it for the first time . . . See Tom Symons and he'll tell you all about it.

* * *

THE "CHRISTMAS in July" story we did this week sort of reminded up and we're doing the same for you . . . Five months from next Friday will be Christmas . . . so have you started your Christmas shopping? . . . So I'm a bit balmy . . . But you wait and see, five months from today you'll be wishing you'd heeded our warning . . . So don't say we didn't tell you.

* * *

FROM OUR FRIEND. Galo Hines, in Sherman Oaks, Calif., a note with reference to something we mentioned earlier regarding the deer that ventured into town . . . He said that he looked out his window overlooking San Fernando Valley only recently and saw a plump spikehorn not more than 25 ft. away . . . After looking right at him with a "shoot me if you dare" look in his eye, the deer kicked up his heels and ran away . . . He said that they often see red fox and quail and hear the coyotes howling up in the hills in back of the house . . . And all this within eight blocks of Ventura Blvd., the main highway through the valley . . . He added that he'd like to come home this summer to see Big Mack as well as all his friends but doesn't think he'll make it . . . So to Galo, 'hi' and we hope you'll make it next year . . . Long time no see.

* * *

SUMMER has finally arrived in Charlevoix . . . or at least it was still here as this was written Sunday night . . . And, boy, was it welcomed . . . The beaches were crowded . . . people who haven't ventured near the water this season were there . . . And there was an equally big gallery at the Belvedere golf course as Glenn Johnson carried out his threat to take the Michigan Amateur for the fourth time in five years . . . Quite a boy, that Johnson . . . And traffic . . . don't know where they're coming from or where they're going but there sure are a lot of people on the move . . . And many of them are stopping here . . . And a major part of our summer visitors are here and we're so glad they're back.

As long as it's the good ole summer time, let's enjoy it as much as we can . . . How's about the beach party you've been promising the kids, or that boat trip on the lake . . . Get them in now 'cause summer's a fleeting thing and it isn't around too long for us to enjoy.

* * *

WE UNDERSTAND the American Legion hall is all done up in a new coat of paint looking real pretty for all to admire . . . a "well done" to all those fellows who do thing the hard way . . . with their own hands . . . because it's the only way it will get done.

Playhouse Drama To Play Second Week at Petoskey

On Tuesday, July 15, the Petoskey Playhouse on Crooked Lake at Oden, presented a special children's matinee performance of "The Song of Bernadette."

Sisters of the various holy orders, including Dominican, Sacramentine, Notre Dame and Franciscan made a modern pilgrimate to othe scene of the play, coming from such places as St. Ignace, Harbor Springs, Cross Village, Cheboygan and Mackinaw City.

Priests from Gaylord traveled the 75 miles to pay homage to the story of the French girl Bernadette, whose devout faith and sincere devotion earned her a place in Sainthood.

Because of the unusual attendance resulting from enthusiasm and interest in the inspirational drama, the Petoskey Playhouse is holding "Song of Bernadette" over for an additional week.

After a half-hour had passed, Mr. Keller noticed wavelets spreading from beneath an overhanging bank. He looked more closely and detected the nostrils, forehead and eyes of the fawn appearing above water. The rest of the animal was submerged and safely hidden from the bewildered dogs.

Octane Blending Pumps Installed By Sunoco Dealers

A revolutionary method of selling motor fuel which has been drawing crowds at automobile shows all over the country has been introduced here and in surrounding areas.

Featuring a recently invented blending pump, the new method enables each car owner to select the motor fuel which closely matches the octane needs of his particular automobile.

The local debut of the unique system, called Custom Blending, was announced recently by William L. Stanek, manager of the East Jordan Co-operative Company, local distributor. The new blending pumps are now in operation at the South Side Service Station here.

It offers a choice of six progressively higher octane grades of motor fuel, all dispensed from a single automatic blending pump. Each blend of fuel bears an identifying number, ranging from 200 to 260, and each is priced comoetitively according to octane quality.

Mr. Stanek asserted that the top blend — Blue Sunoco 260 — is the highest octane motor fuel ever introduced at service stations in the U. S.

The need for such a wide selection of fuel quality, he said, is shown in studies by automotive engineers of his company that many motorists waste money buying highor octane gasoline than their cars require.

The fifth annual fashion show and luncheon sponsored by the Women's Guild of the Charlevoix hospital at the Weathervane Inn Tuesday was said by Mrs. G. B. Saltonstall, president of the sponsoring group to be the most successful ever held by the Guild.

More than 160 guests gathered at the Inn for the luncheon and the fashion show which followed. Polly Kay Inc. and the Shop of the Gulls presented 'around the clock' fashion as well as a prevue of fall fashions.

Modeling the lovely costumes were Mrs Samuel Freedman, Mrs. W. C. Schade, Mrs. W. R. Wood, Mrs. James Coleman and Mrs. Arthur Rouse of Boyne City who represented the Polly Kay shop and Mrs. Robert Allen of Petoskey, Mrs. Frank Rothchild, Mrs. Gordon L. Freedman, Susan Schleman and Sue Grate for the Shop of the Gulls.

Mrs. Chester Belfy and Mrs. Andrew Essenberg jr. were the commentators. Mrs. Saltonstall and Mrs. Karl Schultz, vice president of th Guild, welcomed the guests.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Sidney Lowenstein who won the gift donated by Polly Kay and the Blinko glass jug donated by Hess Furniture; Mrs. William Porter of East Jordan, the gift contributed by the Shop of the Gulls; Mrs. John P. Wilson, the gift donated by Schroeder & Hovey Drug and Mrs. Charles Sessions of Ann Arbor, the gift donated by Central Drug.

Courier Will Aid State Promotion to Expand Industry

The Courier is taking part in a year long promotion campaign designed to benefit the Charlevoix area by bringing about a better understanding of the benefits and responsibilities concerned with the location and expansion of industry.

Twenty six ads are scheduled to appear durnig the next 12 months, dealing with the general subject of industrial-community relations.

More than 200 of Michigan's newspapers are expected to respond favorably to a letter from Robert S. Marshall, president of the Michigan Press Association, which explained the program and asked newspaper publishers to pledge space in their columns for the quarter page institutional type advertisements.

The ad series was created by an MPA Industrial Promotion Committee with F. Granger Weil, executive vice president of the Port Huron Times Herald, as chairman. It is undertaken in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Economic Development.

Publishers were told by Mr. Marshall that the donation of their newspaper space could play an important part in benefiting the state in general and their individual community in particular.

The sport of curling, increasingly popular in the United States, was introduced to Canada nearly 200 years ago by Scottish troops stationed in Quebec. A kind of shuffleboard on ice, the game gets its name from the motion of the rounded stone as it slides toward the scoring area.

Ottawa Indians To Present Annual Pageant at Harbor

A colorful parade will again precede the annual Ottawa Indian Pageant and Naming Ceremony in Harbor Springs this weekend.

Beginning at 7:00 p.m., bands, marching units, and floats will proceed along Main Street to the vast Ottawa Indian Stadium where an all-Indian cast will present "Waug-Ga-Nuk-A-Sa" — Land of the Ottawas, written and dirtoted by Susie Shagonaby of Harbor Springs, descendant of the area's first settlers.

Following the colorful Naming Ceremonial, conducted by Ottawa Chief Pipi-Gwa, the pageant, consisting of six episodes, will tell the story of the migration of the Ottawas from Canadian and New York state areas to Northern Michigan, and the establishment of villages along Little Traverse Bay.

During the Naming Ceremony, when distinguished visitors are presented Indian headdresses, a traditional ritual will be staged adopting the white brothers as honorary chiefs into the Ottawa tribe.

Two performances of the pageant have been scheduled by the Harbor Springs Chamber of Commerce; Friday and Saturday, July 18 and 19 at 8:30 p.m. in the stadium.

Schedule Farm Management Tour For Two Counties

Charlevoix county farmers and their families are invited to the 1958 State Farm Management Tour on Thursday, July 24, according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. For the first time this tour will be held in Northwestern Michigan. This is close enough so that everyone in Charlevoix county should have an opportunity to attend.

There will be two stops on the tour. The first will be at Victor Woodham's farm located one mile east of US 131, 11 miles south of Kalkaska. This is a dairy farm and here you will see the latest in regards to forage production and the operation of their dairy herd.

The second stop is at the Orville Walker farm at Kalkaska. Emphasis here will be on potato production and sandy soil management.

The noon program will be held at the Kalkaska farm and will start with a chicken barbecue. Folks are encouraged to bring their own picnic lunch if they wish to do so. The main speaker for the noon program will be Dr. John Hannah, president of Michigan State University.

Everyone is urged to mark the date. of Thursday, July 24, on their calendar for this State Farm Management Tour. Rebman suggests that folks get together and fill up several cars to save transportation on this tour.

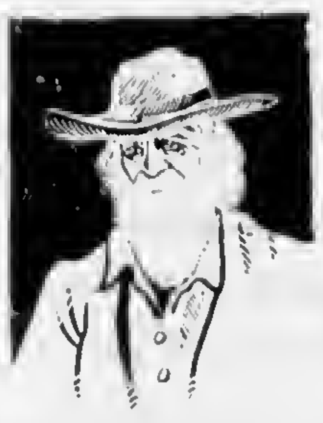
Birds in the Heart



JOHN BURROUGHS

John Burroughs, the naturalist, was visiting with his next-door neighbor when she asked: "Mister Burroughs, why is it that you have so many birds over at your place and I have none in my yard?"

Burroughs had been watching the birds flitting about in her shrubs and trees, and he answered, "Lady, you will not see birds in your yard until you have birds in your heart."

Our interests and appreciations condition our seeing. They determine where we direct our attention, the things that engage our consideration and concern, and how we interpret what we see. A second-grade teacher tells that she asked her class if anyone could name the four seasons of the year, and one little fellow answered, "Yes, ma'm, football, basketball, baseball and marbles!" That lad saw the seasons through his appreciation of sports.

The greedy people, out to get all they can from everyone, look through their covetousness and see everyone as stingy. One of Andrew Carnegie's nephews was the grasping kind. When Carnegie died, he left that nephew a million dollars, but the nephew was outraged at the terms of the will because old Andrew had left 365 million dollars to pubic charities and had "cut me off with one measly million," as he put it. An avaricious soul will see the most generous relative as miserly because covetousness is never satisfied no matter how much it is fed.

Seeing is more than an ocular experience involving eyes. It is always a spiritual experience involving interest and appreciation. You notice birds if you have an interest in birds. You see most clearly the faults in your neighbors if fault-finding is your hobby. You discover good wherever you go if you delight in goodness. Said Jesus, "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God." God is what the pure in heart are interested in, and they will see signs of Him wherever they are.

High School Band Participates in Cherry Festival

Charlevoix was represented in the grand floral parade of the National Cherry Festival in Traverse City Friday by the Charlevoix high school band directed by C. A. Odmark.

While it was impossible for some of the Senior band members to be present due to summer working schedules, the Reserve band provided replacements so that the band which appeared in the parade numbered 50 pieces.

The Charlevoix unit was one of 30 bands and dozens of floats which participated in the parade, one of the longest in recent years. It was estimated the parade was four miles long and required two hours to pass the reviewing stand.

The local band returned home early Friday evening. The trip was made by school bus with Martin Elzinga and Earl Crandall as drivers.

News Round-up at Camp Charlevoix

The second week of camp started off by the riding department announcing that they had picked Dick Ward as the rider of the week in the advanced riding class and Jerry Mason as the winner in the novice group. Flags were made by Ruby with each boys name on a separate flag and these were hung outside the cowboy cabin for all to see for the entire week.

On Tuesday, Kent Gibbs took his cabin of boys down to Graves Crossing on the Jordan River for an overnight trip, the boys paddling the river the next day. The boys on this trip were: Wes Murfin, Jon Steffensen, John Deane, Tom Conrad, Kirk Bromley, Frank Witter and Chris Olsen. Two of the Junior Cabins were taken down to Whiting State Park for overnight. Monte McFadden and Glen Starke took the following boys: Ralph Miesel, Jerry Mason, Sandy Coakley, Stim Schantz, Tom Steffe, Andrew Marckwald, Russell Washburn, Keith Johnson, Howard Holmes, Sheldon Wardwell, Mark Gardner, Potter Orr, and David Spaulding. The cowboys took two cabins on an all-day horseback trip and the boys reported a lot of fun. The counsellors were Bob Schaeffer and Bill Evans. The boys on this trip were: David Meister, Jim Munsey, Clark Davis, Steven Eberbach, Kent Smith, Bill McMullen, Bob Butler, John Reedy, John Baird, Del Marshall, Tom Irmscher, Tom Wright, Dick Waterfield and George Smillie.

On Wednesday, in the morning the trips of Tuesday all returned and several more cabins took to the road. Phil Holliday and Bob Francoeur took their boys on an overnight horseback trip to Bay Shore. Their boys were: Sandy Killins, David Sawyer, David Hardy, Fred Appel, Jim Coleman, Colin Munro, Jeff Coffin, Phil Shirmeyer, Scotty Emmons, Harry Carlson, Ken McLean, John Foley, Dick Moon, Tom Coyle and Fletcher Cole. Cabins 1 and 3 were taken by truck down to Eastport to the State Park there and Dean Hoogenboom and Bud Campbell took their boys Mark [illegible], Wayne Hoose, Pablo [illegible], C. J. Shelly, Bobby Camp, Don Pickens, Berry Seidman, [illegible] Spred, John Dupree, Charles Dolph, Billy Lambert, Bobby Griswold, Bill Homer and Larry Kesse. The trip to the Sleeping Bear Sand Dunes down south of Traverse City is always a favorite with both staff and boys. Bob Kelly and Buzz Fender took their boys in the blue truck down there. The boys on this trip were John Mothershead, Fred Bissell, Leeds Davis, Tom Coakley, Jim Coyle, Bill Green, Jimmy Sprow, Clair Maxon, Greg Hefferan, David Craig, Ace Hoyt, Dick Ward, Mark Lindsay, and Fred Gagel. Late in the evening, a terrific storm came up and all camp vehicles were sent to bring the boys back from the horse trip and from Eastport. It was a most unhappy ending to what should have been a fine night out. The boys did gain much experience, but we still felt it was best to pick them up.

Thursday was a regular day in camp with the Sleeping Bear trip arriving home safe and sound with many tales of the fun they had.

On Friday we took several teams over to Camp Algonquin to have a full day of Intercamp Competition. After the day had ended, we found that each camp had the same number of victories, a tie in tennis, Charlevoix winning both [illegible] meets and both archery meets. Merrick Pease was high man for our riflery team shooting a 98 out of a possible 100. David Hardy was the high scoring archer for the day.

On Saturday night we had our first Indian Council Fire at which the new campers were challenged into the tribe of Charlevoix. Don Halbeisen, our head cowboy, gave the boys the challenge, telling them what they should accomplish at camp this summer.

At the Sunday morning Chapel service, David Plaut was the speaker. In the afternoon there was a Green-Grey Waterfront meet with the Greys winning three more points. They now have a 6-3 lead over the Greens. On Sunday evening, the regular Vesper Services were held.

This week the running of the [illegible] will take place and the boys are getting all excited. The Carnival is to be held the coming Saturday and already the boys are choosing the booth they want to have and all the week the craft shop will be a busy place for sign-making. [illegible] at the Carnival the proceeds [illegible] go to the three [illegible] which the camper council decided upon.

IN LONDON, Mr. V. K. Zzzu has just won last place in the phone directory from one Lewis Zzyuhla who had held it for years. Seems to us that as long as he keeps his phone and no Mr. Zzzzs move into town, Mr. V. K. Zzzu should be sure of his last place.

SPEAKING OF DIRECTORIES reminds us to remind you that the Yellow Pages is the world's best shopping list. Imagine, for instance, that you're traveling through a strange town, vacation-bound. Perhaps you need a dentist quickly or your car is acting up. Perhaps you want to replace that fishing reel you accidentally left home. Whatever you need, the quickest, easiest way of finding it is to reach for the nearest Yellow Pages. You'll be on target right away. It's so much better than driving haphazardly all over town.

AND SAY, BEFORE YOU LEAVE on your vacation trip, use Long Distance to plan it out. Call ahead to let folks know when you'll arrive and to make sure the motel or resort is expecting you.

IN THE OFFICE, they're talking about the new telephone assistant who reported to her supervisor that a man on the phone wanted help with a dead lion. Nothing in her training had prepared her for this particular emergency. The supervisor soon cleared up the matter satisfactorily. The gentleman calling was a Southerner. He was reporting a dead line.

NEA Told Vocational Education Program Must Be Revamped

High school vocational education programs must be revamped if the job-bound graduate is going to get ahead in a world which demands skilled manpower and vocational education courses must be geared more closely to the current needs of industry, the farm and the home, delegates to the 96th annual National Education Association convention in Cleveland were told.

Max Novak, Charlevoix school teacher, represented the Michigan Education Association at this six day meeting attended by 15,000 teachers and administrators.

In conference sessions, school leaders predicted that the following trends will affect all fields of vocational education in the near future: consulting personnel from industry, agriculture and the home will be called on to put more practical meaning in courses; new combination programs will be set up, uniting two or more fields; a closer collaboration will prevail between vocational teachers and guidance counselors at the high school level in giving students adequate occupational information and cyclonic changes in industry will require extensive retraining programs for unemployed workers displaced by automation.

* * *

ADMINISTRATORS made further predictions for these specific fields: business education where a greater stress will be placed on the vocational facets of business training and more on-the-job learning situations: vocational agriculture where teachers will emphasize the orientation of farms boys to jobs opportunities in related farming cupations; home economics where earlier marriages, larger families, decreasing divorce rates and increasing demands by the homemaker for prepared and packaged food, home economics programs will devote more emphasize to sound credit, consumer selection, home-and-family living, child development and problems of parenthood.

Students should be registered in vocational courses in terms of ability and interest.

The era is over when vocational education was limited to the training of the hands for operative skill.

Delegates were told that administrators who atempt to use vocational education courses for 'dumping grounds" for the misfit or the incorrigible are usually heading for trouble. Such students, in the presence of costly equipment and instructional supplies, often cause grief to all concomes are usually nil.

Need Entries for Soap Box Derby

Wanted: entries in the second annual Soap Box Derby to be held here Sunday, July 27, as part of the Venetian Night Festival.

Leonard Burns, chairman of the Kiwanis Club Soap Box Derby committee, said that the club had decided to open the local derby to youngsters throughout the county in the 11 to 14 year age group.

He also said that if the Soap Box Derby was to be a part of the forthcoming festival more entries were necessary. Application blanks may be obtained at the Charlevoix Cleaners.

This year all entries will have the same opportunity as sandbags will be used to equalize the weight load of each racer.

Pleads Guilty to Morals Charge

Helmuth F. Eckert, 47, pleaded guilty to a charge of gross indency when he was arraigned before Judge Charles L. Brown during a special session of circuit court here Monday.

His case was referred to the probation department for investivation. He will be sentenced later. He was released to the custody of a brother who resides in Alpena after furnishing a $500 bond which had been decreased from $7,500 at the request of County Prosecutor Marvey Varnum.

Earlier he had waived examination before Justice John Connolly who set bond at $7,500. He was held in the county jail after failing to furnish the bond.

County 4-H Judging School to Be Held At Whiting Park

The County 4-H Judging School will be held at Whiting Park on Wednesday, July 23, according to Clare Brown, county extension agent in home economics. Judging will be done in the following order: 10 a.m., clothing; 1 p.m., food preservation; 3 p.m., food preparation.

Girls must have been enrolled in this project during this calendar year in order for them to be eligible. They must be at least 14 years of age to judge in Gaylord, but county judging school is good experience for the younger girls

The three top winners in each of the county contests will be eligible to go to the District 4-H Roundup in Gaylord on July 30. It is at this roundup that winners are selected to judge at the State 4-H Show at Michigan State University from August 26-29.

Another way for a 4-H Club girl to earn an expense-paid trip to State 4-H Show is by giving a demonstration. This demonstration could be on clothing selection, construction; food preservation, preparation; dairy foods, yeast breads, or home management. Let her imagination run riot and the sky is the limit. However, any demonstration that can be done by one person should not have two peple performing. This is exceptionally good experience for the older club member and a little effort should provide a memorable trip to MSU.

Mrs. Brown states that if you would like a copy of some dairy foods demonstrations, not be to copied, but to give you some idea of how a demonstration should go call JU 2-6232, or stop in at her office in the Federal Building in Boyne City for them.

Also, if you would like practice giving your demonstration, bring it to Whiting Park on the 23rd. The more practice before a group, the more at ease you will feel.

One of the highlights of the Gaylord Roundup is the Share The Fun Contest. Any club having a talent act which would like to enter into this contest, please call the Extension office. Age does not matter here. Winners of this contest are also awarded trips to State 4-H Show in August.

DIGNITY
ANOTHER GREAT CADILLAC TRADITION

If there is one quality which is instantly apparent in a new Cadillac—it is most certainly the car's great dignity. Cadillac's regal bearing, its impressive stature, and its majestic design give it a presence that is uniquely its own. It is a rare pleasure to command such a motor car—and we think you will agree, once you've taken the wheel for yourself. Why not do so soon?

32nd Barbecue At Ellsworth Attracts Crowd

Ellsworth — The thirty-second annual beef barbecue and Ellsworth homecoming held July 4 was attended by an estimated 1,000 persons in spite some rain and cloudy weather in the forenoon and a heavy rain in the afternoon.

This is the first time in the history of the annual event that rainy weather was encountered.

As usual, the horsepulling contest drew a large number of onlookers, who were well rewarded for their interest in a contest that drew 11 teams, three in the lightweight and eight in the heavyweight division.

* * *

HENRY J. HEERES of Ellsworth won first place in the lightweight contest, winning the $40 prize with his 3080 pounds team that pulled 7000 pounds for 15 feet two inches.

Second prize of $30 went to Elmer Simpson of Lake City with a team of the same weight and pulled 7000 pounds four feet eleven inches.

Third place of $20 winner was taken by Ray Orcutt of Johannesburg, team weight 3100 pounds, pulling the same weight for three feet one inch.

In the heavyweight contest, Floyd Black of Charlevoix was first place winner. His team pulled 9500 pounds twenty-seven and one half feet, the required distance.

Rudy Lechner of Gladwin won number two spot when his team moved the same weight twenty-three feet six inches.

In third place was Lyle McClanathan of Charlevoix, whose team pulled the weight eleven feet seven inches, and fourth place went to Larry Reed of Bear Lake whose team made a distance of four feet, one inch.

* * *

THE BEEF committee, which had purchased a 1245 pound beef, was able to dispose of the meat, and with good weather, would have been far short in supplying the demand for the sandwiches which were very delicious and well done.

One unusual feature of the day was the air delivery of napkins, which had failed to arrive the previous evening.

Because of the heavy rain in the afternoon, the two softball games for the evening were called off.

All members of all committees are to be commended for the fine cooperation and zeal shown in preparing for the event.

Winners of the drawing held by Jansen-Richardson post, American Legion were: Emery J. Wilson, camera; second, Clark Moore, watch; third, Clarence Tornga, $10 dairy products and fourth, Peter Postmus, Grand Rapids, canned goods.

Softball Results

The City Softball race tightened this week as the first round nears a close, according to Dean Davenport, city softball director.

Ellsworth and Freedman's are now tied for first place following the latter's loss to Ellsworth by a 4 to 0 score.

Ellsworth must get by the improved Airport Inn team tonight (Thursday) and the tough Coast Guard squad tomorrow to stay in first place while Freedman must play the strong American Mold outfit Friday night and the Inn Monday to stay in the race.

A play-off Tuesday will be necessary if both teams win their remaining games. The second round will then start Wednesday.

* * *

OTHER GAMES scheduled for the week will include rained out games with a full schedule in sight for the first three days of next week.

In Class A Boyne City will play American Mold at 8:30 p.m. Monday.

Ellsworth's victories during the week included a 4 to 0 win over Freedman and a 2 to 1 win over American Mold.

The Coast Guard split two games, downing Boyne City 6 to 0 and losing to Airport Inn 4 to 1 in an extra inning game.

Freedman's dumped Boyne City 12 to 5 in a five inning game called because of the rain.

* * *

IN THE JUNIOR league, VFW stayed in first place by trimming Edwards 14 to 4. In another game, Edwards defeated Browe Electric 16 to 11.

Safety Week Stresses Many Farm Hazards

Next week, July 20-26, is National Farm Safety Week but it's up to farm families to use safe practices 365 days a year, insists Richard Pfister, extension agricultural engineering safety specialist at Michigan State University.

"It's a job for the whole family to be alert for hazards for safe living," says Pfister. "They need to quiz themselves about hazards that may be found on the farm, home, on the highway or in recreational activity. They must be especially watchful for hazards around machinery and unsafe climbing devices, the two most common areas of farm work injury."

About 12,800 lives each year are taken by accidents to farm residents. More than a million farm residents are injured. In fact, farming claims more "on the job" deaths than any other major industry, reports Pfister. This points out the need for strong accident prevention efforts among all farm people.

The theme of this year's emphasis is "When You Work For Safety — Safety Works for You."

"This clearly indicates that safety doesn't happen — it must be planned," says the safety specialist, "Planning for greater safety on your farm may be the most important planning that you have ever done!"

'David Crockett' Assured Kids He'll Greet Them at Venetian Festival

Hey, kids, Davy Crockett smoke-signalled today that he will be on hand to greet his young admirers here during the weekend's Venetian Festival. He will participate in Sunday afternoon's parade, also other activities.

His fans in Bay City, where this Davy resides, also know their buckskin-clad hero as Leslie E. Arndt. When he's not busy fighting Injuns, Arndt is a staff writer for the Bay City Times newspaper.

Davy recently returned from Europe where he made daily appearances in the United States pavilion during opening week of the Brussels World's Exposition, climaxing a tour of four nations as a U. S. A. goodwill ambassador.

His parading at top fairs and festivals throughout the United States and Canada the past three years won him the trip. Arrangements were made through the U. S. State department under endorsement of Michigan's Sen. Charles E. Potter and the Belgian Embassy in Washington.

* * *

"KIDDIES ARE pretty much the same no matter where you go," says the world traveler. "I met thousands in Europe emitting the same enthusiasm and hero worship as our American moppets. In faces and reactions, they cannot be separated into nationalities, races or creeds. I've found Alamo-hero Crockett a combination of Peter Pan and Santa Claus — a magical person who has brought beauty and delight to children of all nations."

He continues, "I was apprehensive at first as to how Davy would be received overseas. But it still is going strong there. Des Granger (Adventures of Davy Crockett) is the leading comic strip in Germany. Belgian kiddies snuggled up to me with idolism and the same questions I'm bombarded with in America."

* * *

ARNDT HAS PLAYED such top North American festivals as New Orleans' Mardi Gras, Memphis Cotton Carnival, Oklahoma Semi-Centennial Exposition (Oklahoma City, 1957), Miami Lions International Convention (1956), Canada's Niagara International Grape Festival, Chicagoland Fair (1957); also, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Upper Peninsula State fairs. Recently he strode in buckskin and weapons of early Americana in Mackinac Bridge festival parades.

BY FRAN MARTIN

YOU KNOW, there are little things that mean so much when you remember to do them . . . Such a thing was a letter received recently by C. A. Odmark, high school band director, from the secretary of the Shriners who visited here recently . . . You will remember that when they entered Charlevoix they were met at the south Bridge st. hill by the Charlevoix high school band and escorted to the Beach Hotel where they were housed over the weekend while attending the dedication of the Mackinac Bridge and presenting concerts around the north . . . The letter in part thanked Mr. Odmark and his band and stated that in all their travels this is the first time that they have received such a welcome . . . We think it was mighty thoughtful of them to tell our band about this and to thank them . . . We also think that everyone in Charlevoix was happy that they, in turn, could do something for the Shriners who do so very much for the children through their hospitals throughout the country.

* * *

THE SHRINERS thought Charlevoix's welcome a warm one . . . Now that we are in the midst of our resort season when we daily greet new visitors to our community, how about continuing to roll out the red carpet . . . in every way so that Charlevoix can continue to be a community friendly to visitors.

* * *

THE QUICK thinking of a 10-year-old possibly saved the life of a little three-year old at the beach the other day . . . Seems little Ray Wood, running along the edge of the water, happened to see the youngster lying, face down, in the water . . . The beach was crowded and no one but Ray seemed to have noticed that some thing was wrong . . . He hauled the child from the water and proceeded to administer artificial respiration . . . By that time some adults nearby took notice and came to his assistance . . . No one bothered to get the name of the child but several people told us about little Ray's quick action.

* * *

IF YOU HAVEN'T noticed be sure to take time for a look at the roses at the Weathervane Inn . . . They have always been lovely but with the assistance of a whole batch of lady bugs they're doing extra well this year . . . the roses, that is . . . The stone wall makes a perfect background for the flowers . . . and it's such a joy to look down on them.

Incidentally the Weathervane Inn is five years old this summer . . . It's been such a picturesque addition to the north bank of the river that it's as tho' it's always been there.

Back to the roses at the Weathervane which have grown under the green thumb of a certain Earl Young . . . We understand that Mr. Young, his roses and the lady bugs are going to appear on television shortly as guests of Kenn Haven . . . so watch for them.

Cherry Playhouse Stars Conrad Nagel In Goodbye My Fancy

Conrad Nagel re-creates for the Cherry County Playhouse in Traverse City next week the role he originated on Broadway nine years ago — college professor James Merrill in "Goodbye My Fancy." The part of Agatha Reed, the liberal congresswoman who returns to her alma mater to receive an honorary degree and finds her ideals shaken, will be played by Ruth Bailey, Playhouse producer.

Mr. Nagel is a veteran of Broadway, Hollywood and television. During the '40's he replaced the original stars in three Pulitzer Prize plays on Broadway — "The Skin of Our Teeth," "Tomorrow the World" and "State of the Union."

"Goodbye My Fancy" will play nightly at 8:30 from Tuesday, July 29, to Sunday, August 3, with a matinee Thursday at 2:30.

Before marriage, a girl in New Guinea's Wahgi Valley does no work and lives a merry life. But afterward, she loses her freedom and becomes a drudge. She gathers wood, hoes gardens, cooks meals, and tends children and pigs.

A Touch of Greatness

By Harold E. Kohn

A Talent for Standing Still

One of the most creative poets America has produced was Walt Whitman. Born in 1819 and reared in a period when a poet, to be acceptable to the general public, had to pinch and push his thoughts into verse with familiar rhyme and meter, Whitman possessed the imagination and courage to renounce both rhyme and meter and follow the long, leisurely rhythms he found in nature. His style was different, original, somewhat irregular, yet carrying the cadence of wind-stirred leaves in the forest and the measure of surf pounding upon the Atlantic Coast.

Whitman lived a busy life. He was a carpenter, type-setter, school teacher, and newspaper and magazine writer, a newspaper editor, a male nurse during the Civil War, and at last a poet of stature. Perhaps his greatest work was a collection of his poems, Leaves of Grass, but he endeared himself to the reading public most by writing his moving laments on the death of Lincoln, "When Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloom'd" and "O Captain, My Captain." Many factors contributed to the greatness of Walt Whitman, his love of people and his sympathic understanding of them, his daring to be unconventional, his hearty vitality, but one of the chief attributes contributing to his character was his talent for quietness. He took long, rambling walks. He sought out places of stillness and knew what the Old Testament writer meant when he said, "In quietness and in confidence shall be your strength." Walt Whitman claimed he had "an unusual capacity for standing still." He knew how to escape noise and busyness, rooting himself to a quiet spot, how to rest in one place for a time and think.

Some quietness is always necessary to true greatness. There can be no penetrating self-knowledge, no profound meditation upon life's highest and holiest values or its deepest meanings in a world of bluster and uproar. Someone has pointed out that too much accent has been placed upon the apple whose fall demonstrated and disclosed to John Newton the law of gravitation, whereas the most important element in the story was that Newton was alone and quiet in a garden when the apple fell. Noise and insight are enemies. Quietness and discovery are bosom companions. They belong to each other.

The little things are often the noisiest and the big things most silent. Cicadas, the locust-like insects that fill hot August afternoons with buzzings and dronings, are so small that a tiny leaf will completely hide them, yet what a din they raise! But the towering hills are quiet. Little spring peepers, members of the frog family, fill April nights with a wild clamor of elfin noises but the giant stars that dwarf our earth are still. A small bonfire giving off light and heat crackles and snaps as it burns, but the beneficient rays of sunshine make no sound while lighting and warming the earth and inviting grasses and flowers to come forth from the soil. The choppy waves on a small pond are noisy, but the oceans' powerful sweeping tides rise soundlessly.

Blaise Pascal one time said that all the world's trouble was due to the fact that man had not learned the secret of quietness. Man cannot sit still in a world, he said. He must hunt or flirt. He must gamble or chatter.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Curly "Eggs" 'Em In

Well, we've had drive-in restaurants, drive-in movies, drive-in banks. Now a drive-in eggery. It was inevitable.

Curly Rice and his Missus have sold eggs retail at their place for some time. "But all that running back and forth," exclaims Mrs. Rice, "it fairly wore you out."

"So we set aside one room for the egg business. We enlarged a window about ear height, and circled the driveway past it. It's efficient—but it cuts 'visiting' with customers and you know how I love to talk!"

From where I sit, I'll go along with Curly's wife—because there's nothing like good talk between good neighbors—especially when there's a healthy difference of opinions. Now you might like some elder to help the conversation along—I happen to prefer a glass of beer. As long as we agree on our right to disagree what does it matter?

News Round-up at Camp Charlevoix

The third week of this camping season started off with some of the boys going on more trips. But before we get to that, we would like to suggest to parents that they SHOULD NOT send boys money or candy or cookies, etc. This does pose a problem for us, and we would hope that parents will please cooperate. Now to get back to Monday of the third week. Jim Hutcheson took his cabin of boys on a horseback overnight to Bay Shore It was a glorious night and the boys enjoyed it so very much. The boys on the trip were: Ted Schmidt, Hank Holste, John Baxter, Tom Rike, Scott Keller, Pete Willsey.

Monday was also the day of the start of the MUG-WUMP competition. This is a duck like piece of wood that is battled over by both the Greys and the Greens and it must be shown at least once a day. Excitement goes up about ninety percent during this week. We limit the competition to only one week every four weeks. The Greys found the object thus had it for the first showing.

On Tuesday, Paul Gach from Grosse Pointe arrived to take the camp pictures and everyone was in their whites for this occasion. Many pictures were taken of groups, activities, and cabin groups.

Wednesday found Mr. Gach taking more pictures and three cabins leaving camp for overnight trips. Pete Echrick took his cabin group on a ten mile canoe trip down the shore of Lake Charlevoix and stayed overnight near Horton's Bay. These boys were: Roger Witherill, Jim Harper, Tom Coolman, Dick Topping, Jim Cummins, Mike Hall and Paul Phillips. In the afternoon, Bill Fors and Jim Faulkner took their boys by horse and hay wagon on an overnight trip to Bay Shore, It was quite a sight to see the boys lined up to start the trip and some of the boys riding on the haywagon with the team of Belgian Percheons pulling it along. Many of the boys this summer are getting quite a kick out of driving this team and it is certainly an experience few boys will ever have again. The boys on this trip were, Dick Daley, Craig Wilson, Charles Sullivan, John Rotz, Mike Huber, Neil Funk, Fred Tucker, Don Strutz, Stephen Hack, Dan Smith, Ben Tate, Steve Irmscher, Tom Davis and Billy McInerney. In the evening, several of the cabins put on skits in the Bigwam. Cabin number 6, Glenn Stark's boys put on a skit called "Charades." These boys were: Russell Washburn, Keith Johnson, Howard Holmes, Sheldon Wardwell, Mark Gardner, Potter Orr, and David Spaulding. Jim Hutcheson's boys put on a skit, "Have Gun, You Better Run." These boys were, Ted Schmidt, Hank Holste, John Baxter, Tom Rike, Scott Keller, Pete Willsey. Tom Lyon's group put on a skit called "The Operation." These boys were: David Angst, Tim Wurtz, Chip Elliott, Merrick Pease, Jim Cahalan, Bill Zorn and John Appel. The Assistant Counsellors put on the final skit of the evening, which was a take-off on our Head Swimming man, Cy Pick. Doug Graham, took the part of Cy; Bill Umphrey was Salley, his wife (and our tutoress), Jim Umphrey was their year old daughter, Mary. Needless to say that it was a lot of fun. Also taking part were Bob Hefferan, Nick Cameron, David Grant, and Ken Peters. The evening was topped off by the feature movie in technicolor "Tomahawk." The boys loved it.

Friday evening three of the cabins went into Charlevoix to the movies.

Saturday was Carnival Day and the morning was spent in putting up booths and you never saw such aotviity. Crope Paper and thumb tacks were in great demand, and many of the boys were left breathless after blowing up baloons. By noon everything was ready and at three o'clock the bell was rung for the start of the carnival. Many parents were here and it was the finest carnival we have ever had, the best organized and the most fun. Some of the booths were very clever and parents were surprised at the ingenuity of the boys. In the evening cabins 4, 10, and 19 put on skits in the "Bigwam." They were most enjoyable. Boys went to bed this night, very tired but very happy, too.

On Sunday morning, the chapel service was held in the outdoor chapel with many parents attending the service. Bob Kelley was the speaker and Jeff Mason played a trumpet solo. In the afternoon, a small rodeo was held with many campers taking part. This was given in preparation for the large rodeo at the end of the season. In the evening, vespers were held with Jim Faulkner speaking to the service for the Intermediates and Seniors.

Venetian Festival Attracts Estimated 20,000 Spectators

The most successful Venetian Festival in recent years was celebrated here last weekend with an estimated 20,000 spectators viewing the Venetian Boat parade and fireworks which climaxed the three-day event.

Winners in the boat parade were the Ralph Hess entry, a rocket and count-down clock entitled 'Cape Charlevoix' which placed first in both the trophy and sweepstakes classes; the Earl A. Young entry depicting the arrival of the French missionary, Fr. Charlevoix, to the community which now hears his name which won second place honors in both classes; the E. A. Loop entry, a large swan followed by a smaller one which won third place in the sweepstakes class and the Pat and Fran Martin entry, a Christmas scene, which was awarded the third place trophy.

A total of 18 boats were entered in the parade which was held under the direction of Robert Hamilton and Lyle Miles. The fireworks display followed the boat parade.

A variety program in East Park preceded the boat parade. Johnny Williams of Station WPBN-TV was master of ceremonies.

The coronation of Venetian Queen Russell by Lt. Cmdr. Harold E. Muth, skipper of the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Sundew highlighted the action Saturday night. Arranged by Mrs. Harold Geiken of the Queen's committee, the coronation was one of the prettiest and most impressive in recent years. For the first time it was held in the park on Saturday evening and therefore was witnessed by more spectators than ever before.

The Charlie Pond's National Olympic Gymnasts won the applause of all who saw the clever exhibitions by this group of youngsters. Other entertainment which pleased the visitors was the fire arms exhibition by Capt. Lester Coykendall of the Michigan State Police, the appearance of Davy Crockett, the band concerts, the parade, the pet and doll parade which opened the show, the horse parade Friday afternoon presented by Camp Charlevoix, the street dance, the Friday night show, boat and canoe races, Soap Box Derby, and the booths operated by various local groups.

Three Fatally Burned in Fire At Sequanota Resort Home

An early morning fire at the Sequanota Club located five miles southeast of here on Lake Charlevoix near Ironton has taken the lives of three Oak Parks, Ill., residents who were vacationing at the resort colony.

They are Mrs. Margaret A. Chernals, 47, and her daughters, Pamela, 15, and Eugenie, 9, who were fatally burned as they tried to escape from the frame cottage after discovering the blaze at 1:40 a.m. Friday.

Mrs. Chernals died at the Charlevoix hospital seven hours after she was admitted. Pamela died early Saturday and Eugenie early Sunday.

The three who were vacationing at the cottage owned by Mrs. Chernals' mother, Mrs. A. S. Adams were assisted from the cottage by other residents of the club who were aroused by their cries. The fire is believed to have started from an iron that had been left on in the kitchen of the house.

The Charlevoix fire department answered the alarm and devoted its efforts to controlling the fire and protecting other cottages at the club. The East Jordan fire department also responded to the call and had only praise for the quick action of the Charlevoix department, its assistant fire chief Patrick R. Martin and volunteer firemen.

The bodies of the mother and daughters were taken to the Drechsler Funeral Home in Oak Park, Ill. Funeral services were held Tuesday at the First Presbyterian church in Oak Park, Ill. Burial was in Forest Home cemetery in Forest Park, Ill.

Mrs. Chernals, who was born in Oak Park, July 5, 1911, was a real estate broker. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Margaret Schilke of Oak Park, Virginia L. of Miami, Fla., and Valerie at home; her mother, Mrs. A. S. Adams of Oak Park and three sisters, Mrs. Virginia Skiles, Mrs. Antoinette Bryan and Mrs. Janet Blood.

Besides three sisters, Pamela and Eugenie are survived by their father, Alfred Chernals of Rockford, Ill. and their maternal grandmother, Mrs. Adams.

The fire was one of the worst in many years and the first in 13 years in which the loss of life was so great. In 1945 Mrs. Clarence McCalmon and two of her four children lost their lives in a fire on Charlevoix's south side.

Soils Field Day To Be Held Aug. 12 Near Gaylord

A crop rotation program for northern lower Michigan built around potato production will be featured at a soils field day on August 12, Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent, announced today.

The event is on the Earl Streiffert farm, 8 miles west of Gaylord on the Gaylord-Alba blacktop on the Antrim-Otsego county line.

According to Ed Longnecker, extension soils specialist at Michigan State University, visitors will see rotation research involving potatoes, oats, legumes, grasses and various legume-grass combinations. There'll also be plots showing the effects of high and low rates of fertilization in both three and four year rotations.

Raising alfalfa in northern lower Michigan is also under staudy on the Streiffert farm. Plots of alfalfa showing various fertilizer and lime treatments and pH (soil acidity) levels will be seen.

Orchard grass may be the match for quackgrass, work on the farm shows. Seeded alone, orchard grass is getting the best of quackgrass and is crowding it out.

Problems of handling forage in a rotation where livestock is not kept on a farm are also being studied on the Streiffert farm. Visitors will see the results of rotation management where all forage is taken off, some taken eff and where all is plowed down.

Tours over the test plots start at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Contests in Primary Election Are Creating Little Voter Interest

Charlevoix county voters will go to the polls Tuesday to cast their ballots in the August 5 Primary Election.

Despite the fact that there are several contests little interest ha sbeen shown in the forthcoming election which is expected to bring out only a light vote.

Of major interest to voters in Charlevoix county are the contests for the nomination for Probate Judge for the county. Candidates seeking the nomination are William T. Downs, incumbent who was appointed to the office, C. M. Bice, former county prosecutor and Dr. Russell E. Palmer, retired physician. The names of the two candidates who poll the most votes Tuesday will appear on the Non-Partisan ballot in the general election in November.

Ony county contest on the Republican ballot is for the office of Road Commissioner with incumbent Samuel E. Rogers of East Jordan being opposed by Ira L. Davis of Boyne City.

Only one contest has developed on a county basis on the Democratic ticket. This is for the office of county treasurer with Minnie Webster DesJardins of East Jordan being opposed by Betty Jacobs Willey of Boyne City. For the first time in years the Democrats have nearly a full slate of candidates for county offices.

There are no contests for state or national offices on the Republican ballot but several contests for these offices are listed on the Democratic ticket.

Three young aspirants from the upper peninsula are seeking the nomination for representative for Congress in the 11th district on Democratic ballot. They are Stephen S. Johnson of Escanaba, Prentiss M. Brown jr. of St. Ignace and David W. Ripley of the Sault. These young men have conducted extensive campaigns in the district and their efforts are expected to bring out a fairly large Democratic vote.

Other contests on the Democratic ticket include: A. M. Schneider of Indian River and Oswald T. McGinn of Cheboygan, seeking the nomination for State Senator 29th District; Phillip A. Hart and Homer Martin, U. S. Senate; John B. Swanson and Michael T. Mohardt, lieutenant governor and G. Mennen Williams and William L. Johnson, governor.

Polls at regular voting places in the county's 25 precincts will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Absent Voters Must Apply for Ballots

The deadline for filing applicatons for absent voters' ballots is 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 2, according to Fenton R. Bulow, Charlevoix county clerk, who earlier completed distribution of ballots to all city and township clerks.

Earl Farrell, 65, Fatally Injured When Truck Falls

Ellsworth — Earl Farrell, 65, Banks township farmer who had sold produce and eggs in the Charlevoix and Ellsworth area for many years, was fatally crushed under his panel truck at his farm home Monday morning.

According to Antrim county Sherff Howard Tanner, Mr. Farrell had been greasing the truck on an incline and a jack slipped, causing the truck to roll backwards and pin him under the front axle.

He was found by Mrs. Farrell's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Gowens of Chicago, who had been visiting in the Ellsworth area and had stopped to say goodbye.

Born in Banks township March 23, 1893, Mr. Farrell had always resided in the Ellsworth area. On June 27, 1917, he was married to the former Bessie Groenik. Mr. Farrell was well known throughout the area where he sold eggs and produce.

Besides his wife he is survived by two sons, Donald of Charlevoix and Chester of Ellsworth; six grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Henry Wynsma of Ellsworth and two brothers, William of Kansas City, Kans., and Lloyd of Central Lake.

Funeral services will be held at the Eastport Baptist church at 2 p.m. Thursday, with the Rev. Paul Bone officiating. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery at Eastport.

Vacationland Supplement Wins Reader Interest

"Gateway to Vacationland," published during July and August as a supplement to the Charlevoix Courier, is getting around. Following is a note of appreciation received this week from Mrs. R. McLane of Pontiac.

"Gateway to Vacationland is very timely and informative. I am passing them out to interested people who are making plans for their vacations. It is good advertising for Charlevoix and the Island."

We have had many requests from local persons for extra copies which they wanted to send along to friends. It is gratifying to know that our out of town readers are making the same good use of "Gateway to Vacationland."

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

IT'S ALL OVER but the shouting . . . the Venetian Festival which marks the middle of the summer for all Charlevoixans Entertainment-wise we thought it was the best we'd had in a long while . . . As a three-day event there was a lot of entertainment for every one.

As far as the boat parade itself was concerned, we were disappointed, as were many others about the small number of boats entered . . . With so many boats of every description in the harbor, it seems a shame that more boat owners don't make an effort to enter . . . Sure it's a lot of work but so is everything worthwhile . . . Anyone know the answer to it? . . . We'd sure like to hear it.

* * *

EVER SEE SO many people in our little ole town? Rarely . . . but there were sure a lot of them around . . . Many we know for they were former Charlevoixans but others were just passing thru . . . And the traffic . . . well, it's getting heavier by the day . . . We don't know where they're all going but we'll vouch for one thing . . . they're on their way . . . That bumper to bumper traffic which was supposed to take place at the time of the dedication has finally materialized, we understand . . . both by reports from people making the trip and those forthcoming from the Mackinac Bridge Authority.

* * *

HOW MANY OF YOU realize there's going to be a Primary election next Tuesday . . . Don't know when we've seen so little interest in an election . . . Pete Bulow, county clerk who takes care of elections for the county, tells us that he expects a light vote and he's usually pretty right in his predictions . . . You know, if you were to tell people they couldn't vote they'd howl like made about their rights . . . So they have the right to vote and they don't go near the polls . . . Not only that, they don't even bother to register . . . You can't win for losin' when it comes to people, can you?

* * *

BACK TO Venetian night . . . we must live right . . . For a while late Sunday it certainly looked as though they sky would open up but after sprinking a little the rain held off until later in the night.

* * *

DON'T KNOW WHEN we've had as much fun as we did the other day at the Doll and Pet Parade . . . We, Mrs. Robert Winchester and I, figured we'd do well to attract 50 entries and we ended up with 90 of the cutest little contestants you'll ever see . . . Each was a winner in his or her own right . . . Everyene seemed to have a whale of a time . . . We know the adults who assisted sure did . . . We think that or something similar such as a Mardi Gras parade for youngsters should become a part of the Venetian Festival . . . A children's event is a show stopper every time . . . as those who saw the one the other day will agree . . . especially when the Bruce children's entry, a nanny goat, decided to balk . . . which brought down the house.

* * *

DON'T FORGET . . . The new postal rates will go into effect come next Friday . . . a week from tomorrow . . . Or are you going to be like the cute cartoon we saw the other day . . . People buying up a lot of stamps before the price goes up . . . You think that's funny/ . . . We've heard a couple say they were going to do just that.

Did I Bring Home Everything I Paid For?

It's a Good Question!

But you can answer "YES" IF you buy from the business places here at home.

REMEMBER

Wherever you buy, PART of your money, approximately 30 per cent, STAYS in the town where it's spent, to support schools, furnish police and fire protection, paving, park and beach maintenance, etc. Yes, it may even be paying YOUR wages each week.

When you buy in your own town you get about the same merchandise you would get anywhere else---plus the enjoyment of the things THAT 30 PER CENT RETURN has paid for. When someone buys out of town they get merchandise ONLY and your own community is a little poorer because someone carried off part of it's resources.

The loss of a town's resources means the loss of people, the loss of people means the loss of more resources, ending up with what? LESS of what we need the most---people and resources and getting what we do not need! Higher taxes, less recreation for our children, inadequate schools and a raft of other undesirable happenings. LET'S pull together for a better CHARLEVOIX---"SHOP IN CHARLEVOIX".

Venetian Festival Attracts 20,000

Commerce and Max Hosmer, president of the Chamber have expressed their gratitude for the fine cooperation of the community in making this the best Venetian Festival in recent years.

Judges for the boat parade were Paul Hill of Cadillac's WWTV, Ted Simmns, WPBN-TV Traverse City and Stuart Christian of the Petoskey News Review. The judges and their respective wives, Queen Wanda and her court and 1957 Venetian Queen Deanna Left were guests of city officials at a dinner at the Weathervane Inn preceding the activities Sunday evening.

The Goebel sound truck was here Saturday and Sunday and its facilities were used extensively throughout the festival.

Brendan LaBlance was the winner in the second annual Soap Box Derby held Sunday afternoon under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Kiwanis club.

The event was run off on south Bridge st. hill as part of the Venetian Festival.

Brendan won the top prize, a bicycle. In accepting the prize, he told the committee that only two weeks ago his bicycle had been stolen so he was happy to have a new one.

Jim Holmes placed second in the derby and won the camera. Michael Arbuckle won third prize, a Timex wrist watch.

The rowboat and canoe races which were held this year in connection with the Venetian Festival for the first time in several years, proved to be a popular event which attracted many local youngsters.

All prizes won by Sea Scout members were turned over to that organization:

Bernie Ward was in charge of the water events.

News Round-up at Camp Charlevoix

The fourth week of camp started off with Phil Holiday taking his boys on a day-trip over to Mt. McSauba on Lake Michigan. These boys were: Howie Holmes, Scotty Emmons, Ed Carlson, Ken McLean, John Foley, Tom Coyle, and Fletcher Cole. Boys are really enjoying these trips this year, and we feel that trips, especially overnight trips, have much value to a boy.

Tuesday morning the first trip to Mackinac Island was ready to leave camp at seven o'clock. This trip is given to the first fifty boys enrolled each year, and "Ken" takes two groups of twenty-five each. The boys who went on this trip this year saw the finish of the Chicago-Mackinac Sailing Race and it was really a thrill for each boy. The boys on the trip were: Roger Witherill, Del Marshall, Mike Roberts, Dick Ward, Fred Tucker, Neil Funk, Fletcher Cole, Parky Smith, Tom and Steve Irmscher, Jeff and Ken McLean, Tom Coolman, Pete Willsey, David Angst, Ricki Daley, Tom and Jim Coyle, Jim Cahalan, Larry Kessel, John Baxter, Charles Sullivan, Mike Grass, Hank Holste, Scotty Emmons, Sandy Killins, Greg Hefferan. It was a very warm, sunny day, and the boys had a great time. Cabin number 11 with Duke Sekeres as the counsellor took an overnight canoe trip down Lake Charlevoix to McClure's Landing. These boys were: Steve Warrop, David Hause, Chuck Ruifrok, Drew McKay, Dave Roberts, Judd Freeman, Gary Grimes and Don Mabley.

Wednesday found so many things happening that there was much hustle and bustle around the whole camp. Trips were coming in and going out and boys were busy drilling their horsse for the two parades in town that we were to participate in. Bill Evans took his cabin of boys on a canoe trip down to McClures Landing, passing on the way the returning canoe trip of Cabin 11. The boys on this trip were: David Meister, Jim Munsey, Clark Davis, Steve Eberbach, Kent Smith, Bill McMullen and Bob Butler. The sail boats were ready and waiting for cabin no. 10 with Pete Echrick as counsellor for an overnight sailing trip. These boys were: Roger Witherill, Jim Harper, Tom Coolman, Richard Topping, Jim Cummins, Mike Hall and Paul Phillips. Three of our cabin groups took off for an overnight trip down to the park at Eastport. Bob Schaefer took his boys, John Reedy, Del Marshall, Tom Irmscher, Tom Wright, Dick Waterfield, George Smillie and cabins 1 and 3 were on the trip too. Bud Campbell and Bill Umphrey took their boys, Billy Speed, John DuPree, Charles Dolph, Billy Lambert, Bob Griswold, Bill Honer and Larry Kessel. The cabin of our smallest boys also went with Dean Hoggenboom and Ken Peters in charge. These jolly Juniors were: Mark Coltrin, Wayne Hause, Bob Harrison, C. J. Shelley, Bob Camp, Dan Pickens and Tom Seidman. In the evening four cabins put on skits much to the amusement of the rest of the camp. Tom Plums cabin number 21 put on a skit depicting a staff meeting with Bob Hicks taking the part of Ken, John Bahl was Bill Townsend, and the boys did a great job of imitating the staff even down to mannerisms. It was a most enjoyable skit.

On Thursday many of the trips returned and it was on this day that the winners of the cabin inspections for the first four weeks were announced. Cabins are inspected each day for cleanliness and the cabin with the highest winning percentage was entitled to a movie in town. The winning cabins were those of Monte McFadden and Andy Campbell, Pete Eckrich and Bob Schaefer.

Friday afternoon Camp Charlevoix put on a horse parade in town. Our riding department, took thirty horses and the best of a camper riders in to do the riding, plus the team pulling the hay wagon. It was a thrilling sight and we do want to at this time to thank the Charlevoix Sheriff Department and the Charlevoix Police Department for providing a police escort during the parade and also for staying with the boys most of the way back to camp. It was a most generous effort and we do appreciate this help. Many fine compliments were called into the camp after the parade. We were indeed very proud of the boys who rode and of the riding department for handling such a huge undertaking so well. In the evening an all-camp scavenger hunt was held and boys were running all over camp looking for flies, minnows, snakes, horsehair from Smokey, old calendars, autographs, etc. etc. It was a lot of fun and the winning cabins were given candy bars as a prize.

On Saturday, there was much sadness around camp as our first four week boys were leaving. Cars were pulling in all morning and there were many sad goodbyes as boys were leaving. In the afternoon, new boys arrived and the campers were busy helping them see the camp.

Here we are into the fifth week, and already have thirty-one boys enrolled for 1959. Seems odd to still be in this season, but already pre-paring for the 1959 season.

No Beating
About the Bush
Dear Friends:
Let's not beat around the bush about this thing. This is a paid political advertisement and is intended to persuade you to vote for Bill Downs for Judge of Probate. I think I am well qualified for the position and that my record in office shows this to be true. By that I mean that I have been honest, fair and impartial in my judicial functions; efficient, well organized and understanding in my administrative duties. People who work with my court tell me I am doing a good job — I think they mean it and will tell you the same thing. Ask them.
I don't have to tell you that I have a sincere interest in children and young people. This is demonstrated every day of my life. Of course, with six children of my own I'd be in sad shape if I weren't interested.) I don't have to tell you that I have a natural sympathy and understanding for my fellow human beings, for this too is demonstrated daily in my life. I don't think this is bragging for God made me as I am.
My critics don't have to tell you I have made mistakes. I guess the only way you can avoid mistakes is to do nothing. My critics don't have to tell you that I won't "play ball," as the saying goes; I'll tell you that I refuse to let political considerations influence my decisions or my conduct in office.
The Probate Court is one of the most important functions of your local government. It is more than likely that at some time during your lives, each of you will come into contact with this court. For this reason it is vitally important to you that a capable and qualified man fill this post. Many people tell me that I meet this requirement. If you agree with them, I will appreciate your vote on the Non-Partisan Ballot on August 5th. If you do not agree with them, you are entitled to your own opinion and I hope that you will vote as you see fit.
Thanks for taking the time to read this.
Sincerely,
WILLIAM T. DOWNS
Judge of Probate

Gaiety to Reign Aug. 10 on America's Emerald Isle

Beaver Island will hold the north country celebration spotlight Sunday, Aug. 10, when natives of America's Emerald Isle come from near and far to be with families and friends for the 58th annual homecoming.

The celebration sponsored by Holy Cross Church, features feasting and dancing, and general merriment prevails throughout the day. The day's activities begin with a beef and ham dinner served at noon in the parish hall. The afternoon program includes a parade for which the various Island groups prepare decorated floats. Then there are games and contests for the young fry.

The grand ball in the evening provides a gay climax to the activities. Modern dancing is interspersed with old Irish dances to the delight of all. Music for the dancing this year will be furnished by the Dan Garthe five piece band.

Special ferry schedules from Charlevoix to the Island and return have been arranged for the homecoming. The Emerald Isle ferry will leave Charlevoix at 9 a.m. Sunday and leave Beaver Island for Charlevoix at 1:30 a.m. Monday morning.

For an ever to be remembered cruise to historic Beaver Island, a spot of natural beauty, rich in history and legend. Once ruled by King Strang, the Island was the only kingdom ever to exist within the bounderies of the United States. Here too, lived Dr. Protar, reputed Russian nobleman in exile, who devoted the last years of his life ministering to the sick. And, on the Island still stands the building which housed the first daily newspaper printed in northern Michigan.

Accomodations on the Island are excellent for an extended vacation or a one day visit, and "Welcome to America's Emerald Isle," is the friendly greeting to the visitor.

City Beautiful On Three Lakes

Charlevoix is truly an example of Michigan's Water Wonder Land, bordering the clear blue waters of Lake Michigan on the west, beautiful Lake Charlevoix on the east, and completely surrounding Round Lake in the very heart of the city.

The community was first established as a lumbering center and soon became an important shipping point because of the accessible waterways so necessary to transportation in pioneer days. But early visitors foresaw more than a commercial center in Charlevoix. As the lumbering industry declined the community gained popularity as a summer resort area.

Next came the railroad, followed by the automobile and good highways. Each contributed to the development of Charlevoix as one of the favored resort areas of the north.

Yachtsmen, too, have discovered a literal boatsman's paradise in the Charlevoix yacht basin in Round Lake where they can dock in slips bordering a beautiful, well-kept park convenient to the city's shopping center. Headquartering in the Charlevoix harbor, the yachtsman has complete protection along with every convenience and is accessible to restful cruises on the two long arms of Lake Charlevoix and the waters of northern Lake Michigan.

Hospital to Hold Open House

Mrs. June Wallace, x-ray technician at the Charlevoix hospital, demonstrates the versatility of the new General Electric diagnostic unit, which will be on display during the open house at the hospital from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

The open house was planned so residents and visitors to the area may see the recently completed solarium and this new equipment.

Pictured with Mrs. Wallace is Jean Schnurer, laboratory technician, who served as a patient in the demonstration and Miss Anne Baumgartner, superintendent of the hospital.

Mrs. Wallace pictured (left) at the control panel of the new x-ray equipment.

The Charlevoix hospital will hold an open house Saturday afternoon so summer visitors and residents of the area served by the hospital may visit the beautiful new solarium which was placed in service recently.

Located at the end of the north corridor, the full length picture windows on three walls of the large room look across rolling lawns to beautiful Lake Michigan which offers an ever-changing picture to convalescing patients.

Soft blue walls and pure white drapes from a perfect frame for the picture of the lake in the distance. The cool blue of the walls is carried out in the wrought iron furniture whose cushions are of a floral print in pastal shades. A circular setee around a large table centers the room. At other points around the room are units including a table and chairs for the card players, a sectional sofa for a group and large chaise lounges and comfortable chairs for those who wish to enjoy the view. Modernistic lamps light the room at night. A popular spot in the room is the color television set placed in the southwest corner of the room and surrounded by chairs so patients may enjoy this medium of entertainment during a long evening.

According to Miss Anne Baumgartner, the solarium has become the favorite spot for all patients who look forward to the day when they can leave their hospital bed and journey down the corridors to the solarium.

The construction of the addition was financed by a $12,600 grant from the Ford Foundation and by contributions by summer residents. Another summer resident, Mrs. Charles K. Foster of Chicago, underwrote the cost of furnishing the room. This also included the cost of a television tower and television outlets in patients' rooms.

Another room which will be open to those who attend the open house from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Saturday will be the x-ray room where a new General Electric diagnostic x-ray unit was installed recently. The equipment which was installed earlier this summer gives the Charlevoix hospital equipment comparable to that found anywhere in northern Michigan.

Known as the Aristocrat, the 300 MA diagnostic unit features a motor driven table, overhead tube hanger, automatic spot-film unit with phototiming, 300 MA transformer and control and two rotating-anode tubes. The versalogist today's advanced features tile installation gives the radio- to facilitate all fluoroscopic and radiographic examinations.

The Women's Guild of the Charlevoix hospital headed by Mrs. G. B. Saltonstall is cooperating with the staff of the hospital in arranging the open house Saturday to which the public is invited.

The hosiptality committee of the Guild in charge of Mrs. L. E. Grate will serve refreshments to all visitors. Assisting will be

Game Schedule For Softball Tourney Revised

Three softball games will be played at Kipke field tonight (Thursday) as the district softball tournament goes into its third night of play according to Fritz Puffpaff, local commissioner.

The change in schedule became necessary when only one game was played Tuesday night due to a misunderstanding among the Traverse City teams appearing in the tourney.

The new schedule calls for Rennie Oil of Traverse City to meet the winner of the Suttons Bay Drug-Freedman Artcraft game at 6:30 tonight with Burke Coal of Traverse City taking on the winner of the Pure Oil-Parsons game at 8 p.m. and Empire Air Base meeting American Mold of Charlevoix in the nightcap at 9:30 p.m.

Suttons Bay Drug was to meet the Freedman nine, Pure Oil the Parsons squad and Airport Inn the Trude Hardware outfit of Traverse City last night (Wednesday).

In the only game played Tuesday night American Mold dumped the U. S. Coast Guard 14 to 2 behind the two-hit pitching of Nathan Boss. Home runs by Herb Boss and Joe Etienne furthered the American Mold cause as they won by the lopsided score. The local nine will take on the strong Empire Air Base team at 9:30 tonight.

The quarter finals will be played at 7 and 8:30 p.m. Friday night with finals scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday.

The winner of this tournament wiil meet the winner of hte Cheboygan district tournament in a best two out of three series for the district titlo and a chance to play in the regoinal tourney.

A report on the recent school census conducted in Charlevoix county reveals that the number of pre-school age children has increased from 1,341 in 1957 to 1,398 in May of this year for an increase of 53 children in the now born to five year old category, according to figures released this week by Charles A. Rosier of Blue Mounds, Kans., three stepsons Frank and George Cook of Charlevoix and Harvey Cook of Grand Rapids; three step-daughters, Mrs. Gladys Praobst of Detroit, Mrs. Mary Walker of Jackson and Mrs. Clara Bonner of Vanderbilt, and one half sister, Mrs. Ida Dodson of Collinsville, Okla.

Liberalize Rules For RFD Service

Minimum requirements for extension of rural mail routes have been liberalized and a number of residents of the 11th Congressional District of Michigan may now be eligible for improved mail service, according to Congressman Victor A. Knox.

For many years the Post Office Department has required that there be three families to each additional mile involved in any proposed mail route extension but the new regulation reduces this requirement to two families per mile. In computing the distanme any retrace the carrier must make must be included.

Congressman Knox recently urged the Post Office Department to provide better service for farmers and others in rural areas. He cited the inconvenience to rural residents in contacting the carrier for the purchase of stamps, money orders, and mailing of parcels when the mailbox was required to be located some distance down the road. He also pointed out the handicap to elderly and disabled patrons when the mailbox is located some distance away.

Downs and Bice Win Nominating Race for Probate Judge Post

Only a light vote was recorded in the Primary election in Charlevoix county Tuesday despite the fact that there were three contests in the county.

In the contest which created the greatest interest, incumbent William T. Downs and C. M. Bico won the nomination for probate judge having polled a total of 1014 and 680 votes, respectively. ODDS 'N ENDS

BEAVER ISLAND will be the destination of more than a lot of people this weekend as they make their annual pilgrimmage to America's Emerald Isle for the Homecoming and August dinner .... A good many former island residents as well as those who have adopted the island make this trip every year . . . in fact, they wouldn't miss is for the world . . . It's truly a gathering of the clans for there isn't a soul on the island who doesn't have some relative making the trek . . . We hope this one will be bigger and better than ever, if that's possible . . . Many Charlevoixans will be making the trip, too, so if you can't find your friends who originally came from the island, don't waste time looking for them unless you, too, decide to make the trip.

* * *

MRS. HARRY GEBEAU called the other day that the night-blooming cerus she has was poppin' into bloom . . . We weren't able to go up and see it but those who did say it's a beautiful sight . . . Those beautifully colored blossoms . . . there were two this time . . . opening up at night and spreading their rare perfume on the summer breeze.

* * *

OUR BEACHES have certainly been getting a workout these days never have seen them so crowded . . . Well, not crowded like Coney Island or Jones Beach, but crowded for Charlevoix . . . with scads and scads of people enoying the sun, sand and surf in this heavenly weather that all of us are enjoying whether we get to the beach or not . . . It's our first real taste of summer and we love it.

* * *

BUT DESPITE the fine weather, the farmers are crying for rain . . . We had lots of it early last month but very little since . . . If the berries and farm crops are going to continue to grow it's imperative that we have rain . . . So should we have a shower don't feel too badly it's needed.

* * *

THERE'S GOING to be open house at the Charlevoix hospital Saturday so everyone can see the new solarium which is now completed . . . You owe it to yourself to make a trip out to see it . . . It is one of the most beautiful rooms we've ever seen . . . The walls and drapes are white but the furniture is done in cool blues and pinks which are lovely to look at . . . However, they do nothing to detract from the view from the windows . . . where Lake Michigan, in its many moods reigns supreme . . . The rolling lawns, the trees, the piers in the distance, the winding road to South point are merely accessories which add to the beauty of the Lake . . . Once you're there you just want to relax and drink in the beauty around you . . . Personally, we think it's just about the best prescription we've ever heard of . . . Surely no one can remain ill long in such a setting. So take yourself out to the hospital next Saturday afternoon and take a look-see for yourself.

* * *

DID YOU SEE Charlevoix's Venetian boat parade on film last week? . . . We missed it too but we understand it was shown on Station WWTV last Thursday evening . . . The movies were taken during the festivities last week . . . and, we understand, are very good . . . Photographers have tried for ages to get something on film but it has only been recently that film, fast enough to record the night-time event, has been available . . . Then, too, the lighting was set up with this in mind with a huge bank of lights arranged in the park so that the boats in the parade could be seen without difficulty . . . Everyone is thrilled about the results of the movies and stills . . . for which there have been many requests in the past . . . Now there's be some available for publicity purposes.

EVERYONE HAS been reading, with great interest, the accounts of Princess Margaret's visit to Canada . . Like any member of the royal family she's a fabulous person whom everyone wants to see . . . Americans, particularly, we think are fascinated by stories of their doings because we have nothing here that compares with it

It never dawned on us that a former Charlevoixan would be participating in events planned for the Princess' entertainment while she was visiting this continent . . . He and his charming wife not only participated but had the honor of representing the President of the United States at a provincial government state dinner given at Banff last week . . . Of course we mean the U. S. Consul to the Province of Alberta, Edwin J. Madill and Mrs. Madill who were among the 150 guests invited to the state dinner in the Alhambra room of the Banff Springs hotel . . . (for the information of those who have visited western Canada) . . . After reading the account of the event in the Albertan, it was easy to see that this was THE event of the season and that anyone who was anyone was there . . . And aside from being the social event of the year, it was also the fashion event with gowns rivaling those seen in circles around the world . . .

MINUTES OF SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

August 4, 1958

Present: Freedman, Lieberman, Martin, Smith, Boss, Bennett, Supt. Absent: None.

The meeting was called to order at 8:10 p.m.

Minutes of the meeting of July 21st were read and approved.

Moved by Martin and supported by Freedman that bills in the amount of $1,566.33 be approved and ordered paid. Carried: 5-0.

Mr. Frank Oleksy appeared on behalf of the Charlevoix Retarded Children's Association with regard to a request that they be permitted to rent the North Side school. The Board assured him that if the property were not sold that it would be available this coming year.

The maintenance program was discussed at length, followed by an inspection of the buildings. The problem of a hardtop surface for a part of the playground was considered, as also was the necessary replacement of furniture for the rooms that will need more desks and chairs because of increased membership.

The report of the School Survey Committee, as sponsored by the P. T. A., was presented. A continuance of the study of the entire report will continue at a later date.

Architects who had been interviewed were considered carefully and an adjournment was made until Wednesday evening to permit those firms who had requested interviews to be notified.

The meeting adjourned at 10:35 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Albert H. Smith, Secretary

News Round-up at Camp Charlevoix

The new boys who arrived on Saturday for the second four weeks were anxious to get started on their activities on Monday morning and old campers were busy helping new boys find their way around. We slept late that morning and had a nine-fifteen breakfast. We were so very proud of our boys who sang in town during the Venetian Night celebration Sunday night, and it was indeed a most impressive sight to see the 40 boys in white trousers and green sweaters, backed up by 25 of the staff in white's also. Many fine compliments were heard regarding the singing.

Tuesday was a regular day in camp with all activities going full force.

On Wednesday more trips left camp, and the first trip to leave was cabin number 5 and 6 to Eastport. Monte McFadden and Andy Campbell took their boys, and Glenn Starke and Bob Heferan took their boys, the boys on this trip were: Russell Washburn, Keith Johnson, David Spaulding, Greg Nyland, Jimmy Blackburn, Mike Roberts, Howard Rephan, Andy Marçkwald, Tome Steffe, Stim Schantz, Sandy Coakley, Ralph Miesel, Jerry Mason and Hugh O'Neill. Shortly after this trip was underway, two cabins took for Wilderness State Park up at Mackinaw City. Jim Hutcheson and Tom Lyon took their boys up to the Burned Out Fireplace at Wilderness and the boys on this trip were: David Angst, Tim Wurtz, Doug Bethke, John Harmon, John Mozena, Alan Hartwick, Howie Smith, Ted Schmidt, Hank Holste, John Baxter, Scott Keller, John Baird, Doug Rogers, Bob Lakin. In the evening the annual event called "Capture the Camper" was held. The campers hide in the woods and the counsellors try to find them. The side (Green or Grey) getting the least number of men caught get the points for the event.

On Friday we were hosts to some of the boys from Camp Sancta Maria and our boys were especially happy as we won the ball game hy the score of 21-12, and the swimming meet by the score of 46-6. The boys from Sancta Maria were a splendid group and our boys enjoyed competing with them. Al Belknap took his boys on a canoe trip to McClure's Landing on Lake Charlevoix and the boys on this trip were: Lauren Coltrin, Mike Grass, Arthur Brown, Grant Washburn, John Anderson, Joe Reed, Dick Moleski. In the evening Phil Holiday and Bob Francoeur took their boys into the movies in Charlevoix to see the Jerry Lewis picture.

Sunday morning found the boys and men ready to leave on the long canoe trip which this year is going down the Tahquamenon River and passing the famous Tahquamenon Falls. They will be gone six days arriving home next Friday. This is THE trip of the year and nine boys were considered good enough canoeists to make the trip. Each year, Mr. Robert Burns, a lawyer here in Michigan, supervises the trip and being an experienced woodsman, the boys learn much and are in very safe hands.

The counsellors on the trip are Jim Hutcheson and Bob Francoeur, and the boys are: Don Mabley, John Mothershead, Chip Coakley, Wes Murfin, David Meister, George and Leeds Davis, Scot Keller and John Bahl. They will all return with many tales of adventure. Chapel was held in the outdoor chapel with David Plaut being the speaker. This was a very busy day as the photographer was here taking cabin group pictures all over again for the second four week boys.

Sunday after the entire camp was involved in an athletic program which the Greys won by three points. The standings now are, by the way, Grey 24, Greens 16.

We would like to remind parents and friends that they are invited to the Annual Rodeo on Friday afternoon at three on August 22nd and to the Final Indian Ceremony that same evening at eight-fifteen. Camp closes on Saturday morning, August 23rd.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

A City-Ditty

Took a back road home last week and stopped for gas at Hopkins Crossing — a village with three or four stores, a few houses and a Post Office.

While I was there another fellow drove up to the gas station, with Big City written all over him—from his clothes to his block-long car, to his attitude. "Nothing like the real country for peace and quiet, is there?" he remarked to the attendant.

"Why, I wouldn't know," the attendant said. "I lived all my life right here in town!"

From where I sit, opinions are sometimes like fingerprints, never two exactly the same. The idea is not that you have to think like the next fellow—but to understand his point of view. (For instance, your preference for tea, my liking for an occasional glass of beer.) It makes neighbors more like neighbors.

A Touch of Greatness

By Harold E. Kohn

Time Out for Children

One gauge by which to measure the greatness of a person is his estimate of little children. The grown-up playboy who would rather take a long walk with h[illegible] dog than with his half-[illegible] son demonstrates a chara[illegible]. If a man is more interested in a stable of [illegible] or a breed of dogs [illegible] in the character of h[illegible] he has a twis[illegible]. The man who spends [illegible] child's text-[illegible] his [illegible].

A woman who is profoundly [illegible] given to delinquen[illegible] but not in her own child's discourteous behavior in particular has defective insight. The mother who never allows her child to have an independent thought or commit an independent deed confuses "mother love" with abject selfishness.

But there is a touch of greatness in any person who is thrilled at the growing wonder in a four-year-old's eyes when he sees his first elephant, or when he beholds a baby kangaroo peeking from its mother's pouch. No one can be entirely devoid of greatness who breathes a prayer of thanksgiving when a baby's temperature at long last falls back to 98.6 degrees. And anyone who can spend a summer's afternoon in the company of an eight-year-old child without being bored or irritated has something in common with the angels.

Americans, on the average, are indulgent parents. When the Duke of Windsor was asked some time ago what impressed him most in America, he answered, "The way American parents obey their children!" We are attentive to the needs and wishes of our youngsters. They are provided with the best food, clothing, toys and the most expensive entertainment in the world. We give them almost anything they want——excepting our time. Yet, it is our time that children want most — our time spent in companionship with them. Our gift of time speaks more clearly of our love and their significance than any words of endearment or verbal assurances of affection. And it is while in our company that they learn cur scale of values, our philosophy of life, our sense of fair play, our spirit of service and our religious faith.

A neighbor saw a hard working mechanic playing catch with his son one evening after work, and the neighbor called out, "Bill, aren't you tired?"

"Sure, I'm tired."

"Well, why on earth are you playing ball with your boy then?"

The dad answered, "Because I'd rather have a backache now than a heartache later on."

It is a problem to find time to spend with children, but parents must decide between giv[illegible] the time-problem and hav[illegible] problem children.

Sociologists have begun to ask, "Is the American father disappearing?" Of course, they know he is still around biologically as is evidenced by our growing population, but they fear he is becoming extinct as far as his good influences on the lives of his children are concerned. Once, when America was an agricultural civilization and most families lived on farms, children and fathers worked together, sowing, weeding, harvesting in the fields and doing chores around the barn. Dads and sons were apt to hunt squirrels and rabbits together to supplement meat laid away at "butchering time," and they sometimes fished together in the stream that ran across the "back forty." But since we have become an urban society, the interests of father and child have become more widely separated and companionship more rare.

Mothers, too, are having trouble maintaining a vital contact with their children. Children are still housed, fed and clothed under the same roof where Mother dwells, but Mother's interests are now so many and so scattered that the affectional security a child craves, the aching desire for attention and response, is often lacking. There is little satisfaction in earning good grades, in reading well, in learning to stand on your head, or doing anything else well, if the people you love the most are too busy to notice or too thoughtless to praise. One night the missionary bishop, Francis Xavier, returned home from a day's exhausting duties and wearily prepared for bed. Before falling off to sleep he said to his assistant, "I must sleep or I shall die. No matter who comes, do not disturb me." A moment later the door to the bishop's room opened, and Francis Xavier called out to his assistant, "I made a dreadful mistake. If a child comes, awaken me."

State Park Campers Break 1957 Record

Campgrounds are reported full in nearly all state parks throughout the lower peninsula.

Camping has increased more than 21 percent this year from the record-breaking 1957 season.

"We don't know where to put campers that keep coming," said Arthur C. Emer, chief of the Conservation Department's parks division.

"Park managers keep in contact by radio, and then tell surplus campers where vacancies exist in nearby parks. But the camper has to take his chances wherever he goes. It's first-come, first-served and space is limited."

About 45,000 camp permits have been issued, compared with 36,000 during the period last year.

Day-use attendance at parks, meanwhile, is about eight percent below last year. About 7,500,000 have visited state parks to date.

Bert Beaudoin Awarded Service Plaque By Standard Oil Co.

★ ★

Bert Beaudoin, oldest Standard Oil service station operator in northern Michigan, was honored this week by Standard Oil Co. for his 25 years of service to the company.

In an informal ceremony at the service station at 11002 Bridge st., Kenneth Hoekwater of Boyne City, general sales representative for the company, presented Mr. Beaudoin with the plaque shown above.

* * *

ON HAND FOR the ceremony was L. Thomas Carey, local Standard Oil bulk dealer who has supplied the station with gasoline for about 10 of the 25 years.

Mr. Beaudoin recalls how he built the service station at the height of the great depression of the 1030's when even a representative of the company discouraged the idea.

But Mr. Beaudoin had other ideas and went ahead and built the station because he felt he could never do it any cheaper.

Twenty-five years later, at the age of 79 years, he is still doing business at the same stand despite the depression and World War II which saw the rationing of gasoline.

With the exception of a couple months in the winter, the station is open daily as Bert continues to serve the public.

SUCH DETERMINATION has given Standard Oil assurance that he will be around for some time.

Mr. Beaudoin has been a resident of Charlevoix for all but about 19 of his 79 years. He was born on Beaver Island in 1879 and came here in 1898 to work as a commercial fisherman.

Later he became a contractor, spending the winter months in Detroit and the summers here.

Then came the depression. When most men his age were thinking about retiring, Mr. Beaudoin launched himself in a new business which has been successful because of his hard work, long hours and a determination to make a success of it.

But despite the long hours and hard work Mr. Beaudoin has found time to enjoy his hobbies of hunting and fishing. He has also had time for his family which includes Mrs. Beaudoin, a son, Lyle, who now lives in Birmingham and his grandchildren.

New Steel Fish Tugs to Join Local Fleet

The first new steel fish tugs to join the local commercial fishing fleet were to arrive late Wednesday from the ship yards at Escanaba.

They are the Jackie II, a 53 ft. steel hull craft built for the John Cross Fisheries headed by John Cross sr. and the 43 ft. tug, Hazel W., constructed for Jake White sr. at the Vinette Boat Works at Escanaba.

The Jackie II was completely outfitted at the shipyard. The Hazel W. was towed from Escanaba by the larger boat and will be completed here.

The Jackie II was launched Saturday and the Hazel W. on Sunday. More than 200 persons including a number from here were on hand for the launchings.

The tugs are the first new crafts to join the local fleet in more than 20 years and the first new steel tugs with Charlevoix as their home port to be built expressly for local tug owners.

The addition of the new tugs gives Charlevoix its largest commercial fishing fleet in more than 20 years.

Returning the boats to Charlevoix were Jake White sr., owner of the Hazel W., and John Cross jr., Paul Stephan, Ralph Cross, Bruce Donaldson, Charles and Rev. G. Donald Swinton of Orangeville.

John Cross jr. and Paul Stephan were in Escanaba for the launching of the Jackie II on Saturday. The tug is to be christened here Thursday.

The Hazel W. was christened by Mrs. White sr. whose name it bears, as it was launched Sunday. On hand for the event were Mr. White sr., Mr. and Ms. Jake White jr. and daughters Debbie and Lisa, Mr and Mrs. Mark White and daughter Kathy, Mrs. Maude Tischer of Hastings, Barbara Schwab and Linda Neff.

Two Tournaments In Progress at Municipal Course

Play is continuing in the Frank Poole trophy and City Championship golf tournaments at the municipal golf course according to Keith Carey, course manager, who added that interest has been high in the two tournaments which are features of summer play at the course.

In a third tourney now underway, the first annual ladies meet, the quarter-final matches were to have been played Wednesday. These were to pit Mrs. J. F. Webb against Mrs. Franklin Ochs, Mrs. Keith Carey against Mrs. Robert Livingston, Mrs. Robert Pearl against the winner of the Mrs. Don Meggison-Mrs. George LaBlance match and Mrs. Harold Withers against Mrs. Thomas Carey.

Another special event at the course Sunday, a husband and wife two-ball tournament, attracted 34 couples with Mr. and Mrs. Grover Geneit posting the best score. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Smith tied with Mr. and Mrs. John Swanson for second place and Mr and Mrs. Lyle King placed third.

Governor Scheduled To Visit City

Gov. G. Mennen Williams will make a visit to Charlevoix county today (Thursday) while on a tour of several northern Michigan counties.

He will be guest at a luncheon in East Jordan at noon today hosted by Mrs. William T. Downs. During the early afternoon he will visit Boyne City, arriving here late in the day for a tour of business places and industries. In Charlevoix he will be accompanied on the tour by J. M. Foster.

Where Did the Pheasant Go.

The pheasant that arrived in this box were extremely camera shy. When Joe Williams and George Roff raised the cover the birds flashed out of range to right and left before the camera man could click the shutter. Two exceptionally shy birds tried to hide in the corners of the box.

The Charlevoix Rod and Gun club purchased and released 125 pheasant last week in favorable rural areas adjacent to Charlevoix. This is the third year the club has released birds in its program to establish a pheasant population in this part of the county. A total of 375 birds have been released to date.

How successful the venture will be has not been determined. While there are reports that full grown birds have been seen from time to time, there have not been too many reports from persons who have seen young hatched chicks or discovered nesting hens. Birds purchased for release are seven weeks old when shipped from the hatchery.

When the Banks - Norwood Hunting association began releasing pheasant about six years ago an attempt was made to close the season for a few years in order to give the birds time to become established. The Conservation Department did not see fit to grant the request with the result that an open season has accounted for some birds before the next nesting season.

Call Football Players for Exams

Football physicals will be given at the high school locker room at 9 a.m. Wednesday, according to Coach Don Carey who urged that all prospective Rayder players report at that time.

Physical examinations will be given by Dr. A. F. Litzenberger director of District Health Department No. 3. Prospective players not having physicals Wednesday must go to their family physicians for examinations before reporting for practice, Coach Carey said.

Physical examination cards will be handed out Wednesday. Equipment will also be issued at that time.

The call applies to all Charlevoix high school students in the ninth through twelfth grades who are planning to play football this fall.

Harbor Springs — Loops, rolls wing-walking, and dozens of other aerial stunts will be included in the big two-hour Air Show sponsored by the Harbor Springs Chamber of Commerce Sunday afternoon.

The "Sky-King Daredevils," famed aerial stunt flying troop, have been scheduled for a performance at the Harbor Springs airport, on the Harbor-Petoskey road, M-131. The show will begin promptly at 2:30 p.m.

As an extra added attraction, a full-scale model of the Explorer satellite will be on display.

One of the starts of the show will be Major Arthur J. Davis, veteran of more than 35,000 hours of air time. His specially-built, highly maneuverable plane will draw smoke patterns in the sky as he loops, rolls, and spins.

Other thrilling events on the program will include a ground-to-air transfer from a speeding automobile to low-flying aircraft.

Pomona Grange to Name Cinderella

The Charlevoix county Pomona Grange will meet at the Wilson Grange at 8:30 p.m. Saturday to select the 1958 Cinderella and Prince.

The Cinderella and Prince selected Saturday will represent the county at the meeting of the State Grange to be held in Cadillac in October. The national meeting of the Grange will be held in Grand Rapids later in the year.

The Pomona Grange is dispensing with the annual 'mystery ride' this year because so many members are unable to attend.

A pie social and dance will follow the brief business meeting and program. Each family is to bring its own sandwiches.

Dude Fellows to Star in Program Of Country Music

The Charlevoix VFW post No. 1153 will sponsor the appearance of "Krossroad Kapers," a professional show featuring stars of the country music field here Tuesday, Aug. 26, according to Frank Novotny jr., commander of the veterans group.

The show, which will be presented at the high school auditorium, will include country music, religious songs and community singing climaxed by a big square dance. Proceeds from the event will be used for the benefit of the VFW relief fund.

Dude Fellows, nationally known entertainer and top flight artist, is star of the show. Featured in a recent issue of Country Song Sound-up magazine, he has appeared on most of the leading radio and television Country Music shows.

C. of C. Proposes Construction of Band Shell in East Park

Plans for a proposed park stage to be constructed in East Park were discussed at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday at the City Hall.

The discussion resulted in the appointment of a committee to obtain plans for the proposed stage, to receive bids for its construction and to finance the cost of building such a structure. Named to the committee by Max Hosmer, president of the Chamber of Commerce were Bob Miles, who will serve as temporary chairman, Mrs. Kit Carson, Rev. Frederick McNeil, Mrs. Gordon Freedman, C. A. Odmark and Harold Totten.

Plans call for the construction of a stage to be built in East Park and equipped with a complete amplifying and lighting system.

Mr. Odmark spoke briefly on the need of such a stage and reported that a check for $100.00 had been received from a summer visitor from Milwaukee, Wis., as a nucleus for a fund to underwrite the cost of such a stage.

He also reported that a concert will be presented at the Charlevoix high school auditorium at 8 p.m. Sunday evening by a negro choir under the direction of C. A. Odmark for the benefit of the park stage fund.

Dean Davenport reported on the possibility of re-activating the Charlevoix S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. chapter and said that plans call for a song-fest to be held here next year.

Mr. Hosmer spoke briefly on the full-page spread and the story about Charlevoix as a yacht basin which appeared in the June issue of Lakeland Yachting published recently.

Tom Symons jr., secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, reported that a total of $6,500 toward a goal of $12,000 has been raised for the Chamber of Commerce this year. He also reported that the Venetian Night festival cost approximately $1,900, $800 of which was paid by the city and the remainder by the Chamber.

Bob Carey Signs Contract With Chicago Bears

Bob Carey, former Michigan State All-American and son of Leo Carey, plans to return to the gridiron this fall with the Chicago Bears.

Big Bob, twin brother of Bill Carey who returned here recently from southern Michigan to make his home, formerly played end with the Los Angeles Rams who earlier this year traded him and halfback Jesse Whittenton to the Bears for veteran tackle Kline Gilbert.

Bob, a 1958 graduate of the Charlevoix high school where he first starred on Rayder squads, gained All-American fame as a member of coach Biggie Munn's Spartan squad. He was named to the College All-Star squad in 1952, the year he finished at State. He also was the Rams No. 1 draft choice that season. He entered the army the following year and returned to the Rams in 1954, only to suffer a leg injury which benched him for the season.

He coached at Arizona State in Tempe in 1955 and returned to the Rams in 1956. He was forced to remain idle last fall because of an off-season business position which necessitated residence in Chicago.

However, this fall, if things go well for him, he'll return to the midwestern gridiron, wearing the colors of George Halas' Chicago Bears.

He will make his initial appearance with the team when the Bears play the Chicago Cardinals in an exhibition game at Buffalo, N. Y., Sunday.

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

HOW ABOUT that sunset Monday night? Just about the prettiest one we've seen recently . . . And after this heavenly weather we've been enoying . . . well, a good reason for being grateful we're alive . . . The rain over the weekend was just what was ordered .. . . and now if the rest of the summer and fall are as beautiful then who'll mind the cold days of winter that are ahead . . . But please, don't choke those words down our throat, come next January or February when the goin' gets rough.

WE'VE HEARD one for the books . . . every now and then you hear about someone robbing a church of its Sunday collection or smething equally as big . . . But last week someone walked away with the hand rail on the steps at the Episcopal church . . . and what anyone will do with it we'd like to know . . . It's worth possibly 25 cents for junk . . but priceless as far as the members of the church who use it are concerned . . . Somebody must have been hard up for something to do . . . like the fellow or fellows who snitched the flower basket last summer . . . We hope who ever he is is very proud of himself.

* * *

WHAT ARE YOU going to be doing around 8:30 p.m. Friday? You don't know? Well, we do and there'll be a lot of others doing the same thing . . . that is watching the Detroit Lions-All Star football game in Chicago . . the first of a lot of football games to be seen or heard during the next few months . . . And football, that's our meat.

* * *

AND SPEAKING of football, it won't be long before our Rayder season will be underway . . . There's a call for physicals next Wednesday and then, come Sept. 1, Labor Day, practice will begin and three weeks later the first game of the season . . . Gee, how this season is flying! . . . We'll be seeing you at Kipke field.

* * *

IT'S THAT TIME of the year again . . . time for the biggest blackest most lucious cherries you'll ever see . . . John Rosquist stopped by the other day with some from his orchard where all kinds of cherries are being harvested . . . We're not much of an authority on the kinds of cherries . . . we just know when they're good and these were tops . . . Don't you like this time of the year when all sorts of things are ripening . . . and are home-grown fruits and vegetables ever good?

* * *

THERE WAS an election last week . . . and in Charlevoix county where there are more than 7,000 registered voters only about 2,000 voters took the time to go to the polls to cast their ballots . . . If you were to tell all the voters in the county that they were losing that right they'd throw up their hands in holy horror and scream 'You can't do that' . . . Yet they will do nothing about using that privilege . . . Added to that, there are scads of people who aren't even registered . . . which to our way of thinking is even worse . . . You still have time to write that John or Jane Doe on that registration blank, so let's get with it so you can vote in the general election in November.

* * *

THE POST OFFICE department did a terriffic job recently when the postage rates changed . . . But what the post offices didn't figure on was how the mail patrons were going to take their warning to heart . . . Seems just about everyone had a big supply of three cent stamps on hand and, since they had been warned that the rates were going up, they also started laying in a supply of one cent stamps so they'd have the proper postage . . . Result: the post office department ran out of one cent stamps . . . That's right, you couldn't buy but a few all over the north . . . We understand in some places there weren't any . . . We'd say it was the postal authorities who goofed this time instead of the poor patron who's so often put in a bad light.

* * *

THERE'S GOING to be a big treat in store for you Sunday night . . . It's one we've been looking forward to since we heard them sing some three or four years ago . . . Yes, we mean Horatio Jackson and his choir of colored folks from throughout the midwest who are spending the summer here . . . Mr. Jackson is getting them together for a concert to be presented in the high school auditorium Sunday night . . . These people put on a show the likes of which we seldom hear in Charlevoix so plan right now to hear it . . . It's for the benefit of a park stage . . . that is a stage in East Park . . . a very deserving cause, we think, so we hope you will support it to the best of your ability . . . These people love to sing and they have a quality about their voices one never hears anywhere else . . . They're born entertainers and we're sure you're going to enjoy hearing them . . . So let's make it a date for Sunday night.

Phyllis Roberts, who returned home recently after three years spent in French Morocco, North Africa, is pictured here with a camel saddle which young Kevin Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claire Martin, tries for size. The saddle, made of leather and eucalyptus wood, is one of the few things made for export. It is not actually a camel saddle but is used as a footstool.

Assignment in Africa Proved Interesting to Phyllis Roberts

The mention of North Africa to most people means only an endless expanse of hot sand where one rarely meets a traveler and where nothing ever grows.

This, however, is a misconception as far as French Morocco, North Africa, is concerned, according to Phyllis Roberts who returned here recently from three years at an airbase located only 20 miles from the famous city of Casablanca.

In contrast, she describes French Morocco as a country which boasts the most beautiful climate found anywhere and soil which is the richest to be found in the world.

It is also a country whose new ruler, Ben Yousef, is trying to earn for it a place among the nations of the world.

Miss Roberts, in her position as a civilian employee of the United States at the American airbase, had plenty of opportunity to observe the people and their way of life during her stay there.

* * *

HER JOB WAS to allocate manpower for the American base which is now part of the Strategic Air Command and make surveys and studies of the manpower situation. She was one of a staff of four civilians who were in charge of this for the Air Material Command whose headquarters are now Offutt Air Force Base in Omaha, Neb.

Prior to becoming a part of SAC, the base had its headquarters at Wright-Patterson Field in Dayton, Ohio, with immediate headquarters at Madrid, Spain.

For two of the three years she was assigned to aircraft maintenance but more recently had been with the headquarters command which allocates manpower to all sections of the base.

Despite the fact that she was far from home, Miss Roberts said she thoroughly enjoyed her work there and the opportunity to get to know the country and its people.

* * *

SHE FOUND IT a country of sharp contrasts. Housing, for instance, included anything from a grass hut to beautiful, modern homes. There are shops where anything from native products to fine things from any place in the world can be purchased; clothing which includes the most primitive of native garb to Paris fashions and where modes of transportation run the gamut from natives carrying loads on their heads to the most modern of imported cars.

The ruler, Ben Yousef, she said, is a moderate ruler who is constantly fighting a Left Wing element while trying to raise the living standards in his country.

One of the first things he did was to build schools and make education compulsory. His aim is to educate his own people and train them to do the things it is now necessary to import 'foreigners' to do.

* * *

AT THE PRESENT time technicians of all kinds, specialists in manufacturing, agriculture and all other types of industry are people from outside the country whose knowledge must be utilized.

He hopes, eventually, to teach the people of the country to do these things for themselves. She commented that this is probably the reason the people do not resent the Americans because they know they are there to help them learn to help themselves.

It will be years, she speculated, before Morocco can be a self-supporting nation but the people are striving toward this goal.

French Morocco is famous for its climate, especially along the Mediterranean, which is often compared to the French Riviera. Inland the temperatures may reach 140 degrees but in the area where she was the climate was wonderful, she said.

One doesn't even mind the rainy season which begin in December and lasts until April. It is during these months that the many crops are grown and harvested.

Among these are fruits, grapes for wine, grain of all of all kinds, olives, vegetables, many of which are found only in that country. The country is also one of the few places remaining which exports cork.

There are no forests as people in this country know them. Palm trees ae about the only trees grown there with exception of olive groves and cork trees. As a result there is no fire wood and camel dung must be utilized for this purpose. Building materials must be imported.

* * *

THE POPULATION is made up of native Moroccans of various tribes, French and other foreign elements who have migrated to the country through the years.

Today there is little opportunity for a foreigner in the country whose own people are being trained for responsible position in government and industry.

When she first went to French Morocco in April 1955, many places were 'off limits' to Americans who were confined to the base during the riots and other uprisings.

Today, however, one can go most every place although there are a few places which house the native quarters which are still closed to Americans. Life is cheap in these quarters where it is possible to have some one murdered for some $20.00 so it is readily understandable why these places are 'off limits' to visitors.

* * *

RABAT IS THE capital city of this fabuluos country which makes few things that are exported. Among these are pottery and leather goods.

One of her greatest surprises Miss Roberts said, was to find in this country of dark complexioned peoples a tribe of people who are tall, fair and blue-eyed.

They are people of the Berber tribe who live in this countryside outside the cities.

These people are among those whose women still wear the veils over their faces although this custom is being abandoned in many parts of the land.

The national dish of the French Moroccans is cous cous, a tasty dish made of native grain ground and pressed into particles that look like rice.

* * *

MUTTON IS THE meat used most by the people although some fish is included in their diet. The sea port of Agador, is the home of the world's largest sardine fleet

Miss Roberts is planning on spending some time here with her mother, Mrs. Bertha Roberts, afte spending nine of the past 10 years outside the country.

She spent a year here with her family before going to North Africa and before that had spent 5½ years in Japan.

Where will she go next? She doesn't know but she's confident that something interesting will turn up and then off she will go again to some other exciting corner of the world.

A Touch of Greatness

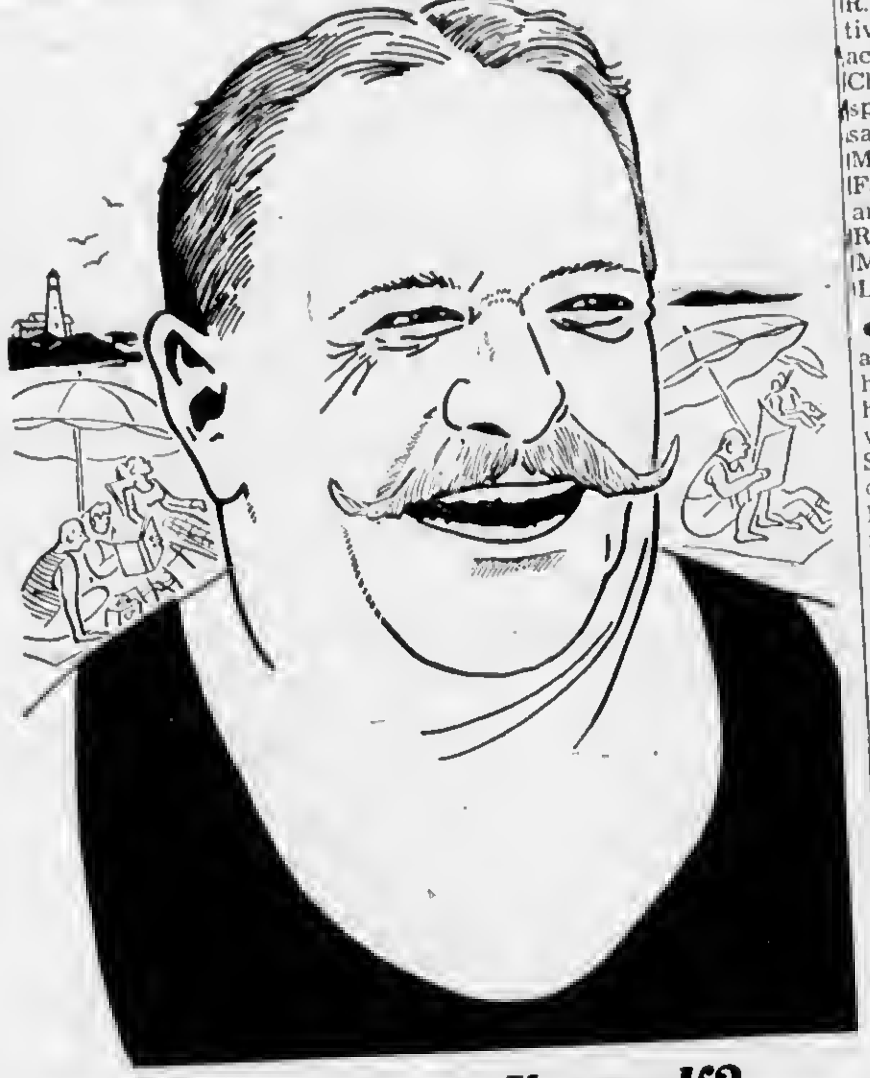
By Harold E. Kohn



Can You Laugh At Yourself?

One of the most dependable signs of spiritual maturity is the ability to laugh at oneself. Little children seldom possess this capacity. They are too self-centered. They can laugh at other children's ridiculous behaviour, or they can laugh at themselves if the laughter seems complimentary, as when they have performed a clever trick. But to be laughed at because of small blunders or because of their appearance seems like cruel ridicule and they cannot join in it.

To see the ludicrous in oneself and to be amused, rather than tortured by it, is a mark of spiritual adulthood. And such a capacity is not common. The famed nineteenth century cartoonist, Thomas Nast, one evening entertained a group of his acquaintances by drawing caricatures of each of the persons present. These exaggerated portraits were shown around. Each person readily recognized the caricatures of his friends, but many could not recognize the drawings of themselves. Of course not. To see clearly in ourselves what is comical, and to enjoy it, is a rather rare trait of character. Wherever it is found it signifies a touch of greatness.

One of the most likeable men ever to occupy the White House in Washington was President William Howard Taft. He loved people and was greatly loved in return by those who knew him best. Theodore Roosevelt one time said of him, "I think Taft has the most lovable personality I have ever come in contact with . . . One loves him at first sight." Like most celebrated men, William Howard Taft was great only in spots. He had his share of faults. Sometimes it seemed that he hardly had a mind of his own. After succeeding Theodore Roosevelt in the White House he tried to do everything his predecessor wanted done, afraid of displeasing or offending Roosevelt. He was timid, preferring to make people happy rather than angry even when important policies were at stake. His frequent lack of resourcefulness and imagination sometimes made him appear helpless in a trying situation. Once when he was on a public platform he was asked, "What would you advise a man to do who is out of a job and whose family is starving because he can't get work?" Taft replied in sincere puzzlement, "God knows. Such a man has my deepest sympathy."

But William Howard Taft was great enough to serve his country in many important positions, among them being Solicitor General of the United States, United States Circuit Judge of the Sixth District, a professor of law in two universities, Governor of the Philippine Islands, Secretary of War, President of the United States, and Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. And one of the traits that made him great was his ability to look at himself objectively—and laugh.

While occupying the eminent office of President of the United States of America William Howard Taft never allowed his pride of distinction to stifle his capacity to laugh at himself. He was fond of making fun of his enormous weight, which at one time reached 354 pounds, and he often told stories of how his mountainous flesh impressed acquaintances. One of his favorites was concerning a trip to New England where he enjoyed swimming in the Atlantic surf. A group of sunbathers were conversing on the beach when one suggested to the others, "Let's go in swimming."

"How can we?" asked one youngster in their midst, "the President is using the ocean."

Taft also liked to tell of a small boy whose habit of biting his fingernails worried his parents and fretted his nursemaid. The nursemaid, hoping to frighten the lad out of the habit, told him that if he did not stop he would swell up like a huge balloon and look ridiculous. The boy was impressed and broke his habit.

Some weeks after, William Howard Taft appeared at the boy's home for a luncheon engagement. The youngster entered the room, saw the huge man, marched up to him and exclaimed accusingly, "You bite your nails!"

Abraham Lincoln, like Taft, immensely enjoyed jokes at the expense of his personal appearance. He was fond of telling that in his circuit riding days he was once confronted by a stranger who exclaimed, "Excuse me, sir, but I have an article in my possession that belongs to you."

The astonished Mr. Lincoln asked, "How is that?"

Taking a jackknife from his pocket, the stranger said, "Some years ago this knife was placed in my hands with the instruction that I was keep it until I found a man uglier than myself. I have carried it from that day to this. Sir, allow me now to say that I think you are entitled to the knife."

This ability to laugh at oneself does not mean that all, or even most, aspects of one's life should be taken lightly. Great men look upon their moral failures with remorse rather than amusement. They indulge in rigorous and solemn self-accusation and in earnest repentance that leads to inner change. But they discern the difference between the tragic and the comical in themselves, and the ludicrous excites their wholehearted amusement.

What can laughing at your self accomplish? For one thing, it can foster the habit of detached self-criticism. It is like enormous William Howard Taft looking upon himself as a fat fact, without excuses, apologies, or clever rationalizations. Ordinarily one would think that self-critcism comes first and laughter follows. But if one has developed little capacity for self-analysis he had better practice laughing at himself first, with the hope that self-criticism will follow in the wake of the forced act. It works—just as in a far more important realm the repeated act of praying for one's enemies as if they were loved results in loving them at long last.

Moreover, laughing at yourself makes you easier to live with. You will be less touchy. Your dignity will not be easily affronted. Those who wish to laugh at you can laugh with you rather than behind your back, and aloud and uninhibited, rather than half-strangled with fear they will offend you. Amusement at one's comical defects and funny foibles punctures ballooning self-righteousness and deflates egotism and self-conceit. Pomposity stands as much chance of survival in the midst of such laughter as does a balloon at a porcupine family reunion.

A noted psychologist of our time has said that a lack of humor is an outstanding characteristic of a large number of cases of psychological abnormality, and that in nearly all cases of insanity the sense of humor seems to be completely lacking. The insane person may show hectic gaiety, frenzied enthusiasm, and even may laugh hilariously, but never in humorous understanding of others or himself.

When I see dictators on the world stage, or lesser dictators in homes and shops, in clubs and offices, strutting their stuff, I'm inclined to pray that God might give them a little of that good grace that Taft and Lincoln had; the grace to look at oneself and laugh. Enough of it, spread thickly over humankind, might restore the world to sanity.

Warn Registrants To Inform Draft Board of Changes

All draft registrants are warned of the importance of keeping their local draft boards informed of changes of address, occupation and dependents.

The warning has been issued by Col. Arthur A. Holmes, state director of Selective Service, who added that the recent rush of registrants reporting changes of status to their draft boards indicates that large numbers of men in Michigan are failing to keep their draft board informed of changes which may affect their draft eligibility.

A change in a registrant's status may change his draft classification at any time. No draft classification is permanent. Registsrants are required by law to keep ther local draft boards informed of mailing address, occupation, dependency status and any other changes which might affect their draft status.

All males born after Aug. 30, 1922, are subject to draft registration. Young men are required to be registered on their 18th birthday. At the current rate of classification in Michigan, registrants will receive their initial questionaire and must be classified on about their 21st birthday. Induction calls currently are being placed on local boards for registrants who are over 22 years of age.

After initial registration at age 18, all draft rogistrants are required to have in their possession a registration certificate. They are also required to carry with them at all times after initial classification their notice of classification. The clerk in any local draft board will assist registrants in clarifying their draft status.

It is recommended that every registrant notify his draft board by post card or letter of his current mailing address, occupation and dependency status.

Five New Swindles Gypping the Public

Fast-talking sharpies have come up with a new crop of schemes to bilk the gullible, the August Reader's Digest reports. To protect ourselves — and stamp out the crooks — we must report attempted frauds or deceptions to the police or other authorities.

A nationwide survey of Better Business Bureaus, by Don Wharton, reports theso "Five Swindles to Watch Out For:"

1. Blank contracts. Some people who wouldn't dream of signing a blank check, Wharton says, apparently can't resist a fast-talking salesman who says "just sign these papers and the car is yours; we'll fill in the details when the secretary gets in tomorrow." Those "details" often add up to several hundred dollars overcharge.

2. Contests and credit checks. Many hard-sell merchants hold ridiculously easy "contests" in which every entrant "wins" second prize — a "credit check" for, say, $50. This entitles him to $50 credit on some item which has been marked up $50 in price.

3. Gyp correspondence courses. They often employ high-pressure salesmen who pose as "registrars" and falsely promise to refund the student's money if he doesn't get a big job. One school is selling a $295 course to girls who want to become airline hostesses. Most major airlines train their own hostesses at the airlines' expene.

4. The "Business Opportunity." Often, this is a scheme to sell vending machines at three or four times their value, through advertisements offering $400 to $500 a month for a few hours' work a week, as a "Supervisor" or "Route Manager."

5. Drug and cosmetic frauds. The Better Business Bureau gets ten times as many complaints about these as it did two years ago. One great hoax is the "royal jelly" capsule and cosmetic campaign. The jelly may be extremely nourishing for a queen bee, but it does nothing whatever for humans — except those who sell it.

Color Conscious

County Farmers Get Payments for Acreage Reserve

Acreage Reserve payments to farmers in Charlevoix County has reached a total of $10,733.00 as of July 15, 1958, according to Carlton H. Smith, Chairman of the ASC office. Payments will continue during the summer as the compliance check is completed on farms participating in the Acreage Reserve.

Farmers who signed Acreage Reserve agreements earn payments by reducing acreage of the basic crops below allotment acres. Payment is made in the form of a certificate, which may be cashed at a bank or redeemed in the form of grain.

A farmer who willfully and knowingly violates any of these terms may be required to return his payment and also is subject to a civil penalty of 50 percent of the amount of the payment.

1958 ACP payments will soon be paid to the farmers, according to Carlton H. Smith, Chairman of the Charlevoix County ASC Committee, He also stated that there is approximately $8,000 available for practices yet this year. Some of the fall practices would be tree planting, contour and field stripcropping, permanent pasture improvement, winter cover crop, farm ponds and spring development. Contact the local ASC Office for further details. Farmers are reminded to sign-up for the practices before starting them.

Planning Your Wall

Do you want a beautiful wood-paneled wall with an exquisite pattern of contrasting grain and texture? Then, here's an idea. Cut your panel boards to exactly fit the wall. Then, lay them out on the floor and carefully select each board so that you have the ideal combination of entrasting boards next to each other. For best results, you may wish to finish the panel boards before installing. If you use such lovely, tawny-toned woods as western red cedar or Douglas fir, you can use clear lacquers or varnishes to retain their lovely, golden colors.

● Mrs. Jack Knetsch and son, Jeff, arrived Saturday from Knoxville, Tenn., to spend several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Bulow. Mr. Knetsch will join them here later for a visit before the family leaves for Boston, Mass., where they will live while he attends Harvard University next year. Other guests at the Bulow home over the weekend were their son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clark and daughters, Carol and Lynn, who came Sunday from Syracuse, N. Y., for a brief visit before leaving Monday for Los Angeles, Calif., where Mr .Clark will spend the next few months on business for the Carrier Corp.

Michigan to Fight Chicago Plan for Water Diversion

By ELMER E. WHITE
Michigan Press Association

MICHIGAN WILL fight to the last drop Chicago's plan to divert more water from Lake Michigan.

"In view of the exceedingly low levels of the Great Lakes at the present time, this basin needs every drop of water that belongs to it," Attorney General Paul L. Adams said.

Adams became the rallying point for Michigan's fight shortly after he was appointed to fill the vacancy created when Thomas Kavanaugh was elevated to the Supreme Court.

* * *

THE LATEST BATTLE centers on Chicago's proposal "to increase its diversion of Lake Michigan water by 1,000 cubic feet per second.

But Adams fears other governmental units will be encouraged to increase their diversion if Chicago is allowed to take more water out of Lake Michigan without returning it.

Adams said the "future prosperity of the Great Lakes Basin is in grave danger of deterioration" unless the Great Lakes states insist upon adherence to a firm principle against diversion.

* * *

ALREADY, Illinois' DuPage county water commission has given indications it intends to take water from Lake Michigan and divert it to several communities said Adams. And then, instead of returning the water to Lake Michigan, it would discharge the water into the Illinois Waterway.

* * *

SEVERAL YEARS ago there were rumblings that some communities in Ohio were planning to dig canals or pipelines from Lake Erie to get water for industrial and agricultural uses. But Adams said he has been assured by Ohio officials they will not "countenance any such diversion."

Adams said the day may come when it will be impossible to halt all of the demands on Great Lakes' water — "unless the Great Lakes states insist at all times that there be no invasion of the Great Lakes Basin by areas and by persons who form no part of that basin."

* * *

"IN ITS AVID and insatiable desire to literally steal the water from the Great Lakes Basin so that it may cheapen the cost of sewage disposal, Chicago is seemingly blind to the great inuries which its efforts cause" to the millions of people in the other Great Lakes states," Adams said.

* * *

ANOTHER MICHIGAN Waterways problem has been occupying Adams' atention lately.

The specific problem is centered along the Huron river between Ann Arbor and Rockwood — but the outcome of its solution will have an effect thruout Michigan in the years ahead.

Michigan's health commissioner, Dr .Albert E. Heustis, has asked Adams if the state has power to order municipalities to alter their sewer and water supply systems.

* * *

HEUSTIS WANTS to work out a regional solution to pollution problems along the Huron river.

The health emmissioner said it is "generally impracticable and perhaps even unlawful" for communities to seek independent solutions in the face of the multiple use being made of the river for sewage treatment, water supply and industrial wastes.

* * *

THE "WATER Wonderland" is destined to have more such problems ahead, state health officials say. That's why they're anxious to get a ruling from Adams soon.

Geography, limitations of natural resources, extensive population growth and conflicting uses all are part of what Heustis says is a "complicated problem."

* * *

The Conservation Commission is faced with a decision on whether copper mining should be allowed in the Upper Pennsula's 55,600-acre Porcupine Mountains State Park.

Arguments on the matter were heard in June and July. Since then, Michigan State University has been surveying the tourist and "wildnerness" aspect of the arguments against the mining. The Michigan Economic Development Department has been looking into the economic values

* * *

SPORTSMEN, campers and naturalists have opposed the proposal. Upper Peninsula lawmakers have been vocal in support.

The immediate issue is a request by the Bear Creek Mining Co. for leases on 933 acres of park land and 5,260 acres of Lake Superior bottomland.

But the touchy problem of where to draw the line between economic and outdoor interests is the one that really worries the commission.

Smith-Skeel Wedding Vows Exchanged At Eastport Baptist Church

The Rev. Paul Bone officiated at the double ring service in the presence of more than 70 guests. Arrangements of pink and white gladioli decorated the altar for the occasion.

Mrs. Joseph Ayote was the organist and played a program of traditional music and accompanied Mrs. Cecil Arnold and Kenneth Watson who sang "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Arnold also sang the "Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of white taffeta styled along princess lines for her wedding. Her fingertip veil fell from a matching head band and she carried a bouquet of red roses and lilies of the valley.

Stanley Whitley assisted the bridegroom as best man. Lewis Skeel, brother of the bridegroom, and Lionel Skinner, brother-in-law of the bride, seated the guests.

Mrs. Smith chose an aqua dress and matching accessories for he daughter's wedding. Mrs. Skeel, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy dress and navy and white accessories. Each wore a corsage of pink mums.

After a wedding trip to Mt. Morris, the couple is at home at 308 W. Garfield ave. For traveling the bride wore an aqua tweed suit and white accessories.

The bride is a 1956 graduate of the Ellsworth high school. The bridegroom, a veteran of two years in the U. S. Army is presently employed at the Freedman Artcraft Corp. here.

News Round-up at Camp Charlevoix

The Sixth week of camp dawned bright and sunny and warm and though we all like this wonderful camping weather, a little rain would sure help the pasture and the creek and make our lawns a little greener. However, we will not complain as long as we have good camping weather and hot weather assures us a very healthy camp.

Bill Evans, counsellor for cabin number 20 took his boys on a two night trip to Fisherman's Island over in Lake Michigan. These boys were: Bill Washbut, Buz Engelhart, David Meister, Jim Munsey, Clark Davis, Steve Eberbach, while Buz Fender took his cabin of boys on a horseback overnight to Bay Shore. These bys were: Clair Maxon, Greg Hefferan, David Craig, "Ace" Hoyt, and Jim Sweeterman.

From the sound of these articles, one would think all we did was take trips out of camp. The regular program of activities goes on every day and boys are eager to get stars denoting accomplishmen tin the activities.

On Wednesday, the long horseback trip left camp for three days, and it was truly a great sight to see 42 horses all in line, six cowboys and two counsellors plus our rubber tired haywagon pulled by our huge team. This trip is always the focus point of many cameras, and tourists along the way always stop and take pictures as it is really a sight worth seeing. We are very proud of our riding department this year as we have six of the finest men we have ever had and boys are learning much, even team driving which has proven most popular. The four calves which we purchased last week will start getting a workout as the boys learning how to throw them and tie them. Now to get back to the horse trip. The boys on this trip were: Mark and Lauren Coltrin, Tom & John Rotz, Butch and Bill Allendorff, Jimmy Blackburn, Mike Roberts, Howy Holmes, Scotty Emmons, Fred Appel, Don Strutz, Russell Dolph, Roger Witherill, David Hause, Peter Girardin, Toddy Lewis, John Anderson, Craig Wilson, Jon Steffensen, Dick Ward, Ted Schmidt, Hank Holste, John Reedy, Steve Hayes, John Fauver, Mike Grass, Art Brown, Tim Wurtz, Jim Baird, Pat Haggerty, Dick Moleski, Joe Reed and Hugh O'Neill. On Wednesday night, we had our "Skit Night" with three of the best skits all season. Cabins number 3, 7 and 13 gave the skits with Cabin 13 under Jim Faulkner giving a skit about Cabin 21, the oldest boys in camp.

On Thursday Al Belnap took several boys on a canoe trip, and at cookout it was noticed that eighty-two boys were out of camp on trips, leaving but sixty-six boys in camp.

Friday found the two major trips returning to camp. The canoe trip from the Upper returned as did the long horseback trip. Boys were happy, and had some wild tales to tell of their experiences. The boys all came back in good shape, no accidents or illnesses, which is a tribute to a well-supervised trip.

On Saturday morning, Camp Algonquin arrived for a day of competition and they brought with them the first rain we have had in a month. It was a real cloudburst and halted the competition for about an hour, but then the boys went at it again. We really needed this rain, so no one was too sorry when the skies got black, and the rains came. The competition ended with our winning most of the events, Charlevoix won both riflery matches, one softball game, and one archery match. Algonquin won one softball game and one archery match. Late in the afternoon, 35 boys and seven staff took off for a dinner and dance at Camp Chippewa Trail. The boys were all excited as were the girls and everyone had a really great time. The boys were on their best behavior and we were very pleased with their party manners. The rest of the camp had a movie and they report that it was a "thriller."

On Sunday morning, "Bud" Campbell was the speaker at the chapel service. He spoke on "Pattern of Life" and it was most worthwhile for everyone there, parents and campers. At our Sunday dinner the Annual Birthday Party was held with all boys and staff, who have had birthdays during the camp season, sitting at the birthday table. Each was given a little gift by the camp, and Joe and Helen, the cooks, made a huge birthday cake complete with candles.

On Sunday afternoon, the Annual Mile Swim was held with 120 boys entering and 69 boys finishing. It was a great success and a big accomplishment for many of the boys, especially for Randy Grossman who was in the water over two hours, and for Jimmy Coleman who was a beginner swimmer when he came to camp. Jim Baird was the first swimmer to finish with John Steffenson, second, Lauren Coltrin, third, Hank Holste, fourth; David Craig, fifth; Clair Maxon, sixth; Don Mabley, seventh; Wes Murfin, eighth; Howie Smith, ninth; and Dick Daley, tenth.

The others who finished this mile swim were: Bill and Butch Allendorf, John Anderson, David Angst, John Bacon, Sumner Bagby, Bill Beel, Doug Bethke, Kirt Bromley, Ned Clarke, Chip and Sandy Coakley, Jim Coleman, Mark and Lauren Coltrin, David Craig, George Davis, Leeds Davis, John Deane, Steve Eberbach, Peter Fairman, John Fauver, John Foley, Peter Giradin, Jim Harper, David Hause, Greg Hefferan, Howy Holmes, Hank Holste, Ace Hoyte, Scott Keller, Bob Lakin, Ricki Lange, Don Mabley, Phil Madouse, erry Mason, Clair Maxon, Bill McInerney, David Meister, Dick and Bob Moleski, Dick Moon, John Mozens, Wes Murfin, Bruce and Chris and Greg Nyland, Joe Reed, Mike Roberts, Doug Rogers, John Rotz, Stim Schantz, Jack Sluiter, Howie Smith, Jim Standish, Bill Stebbins, Don Strutz, Charlie Sullivan, David Verdier, Bill Washburn, Russell Washburn, tuart White, Roger Witherill and Tim Wurtz. These boys deserve a lot of credit for this accomplishment, especially the eleven juniors. The Greens picked up three points from this event as they had the most men finish.

The Green and Grey Score is getting much closer now with the Greys having but a five point lead.

Once again we would like to urge all parents to be here for the closing of the camp season. Rod Deyo, our Indian Dancer, has arrived for two weeks of teaching and preparation for the Final Indian Ceremony. The Important date to be here is Friday, August 22nd.

telephone lines

by LES JOHNSON, Manager

DO YOU KNOW there's a place in the United States where you can reach four states without moving? It's at the southwestern corner of Colorado with New Mexico to the southeast, Utah to the northwest and Arizona to the southwest.

AND THERE'S ANOTHER PLACE where you can reach almost everywhere in the world without moving. It's the place where your telephone sits. That telephone is your magic carpet—far faster than a jet airliner and much, much less expensive. For less than ten dollars you can talk with people in England, Germany, Norway, the Netherlands, or dozens of other places. For less than two dollars you can be talking with friends or relatives in California. You don't know anyone in California? Well how long since you've talked with your sister—or brother? Remember you can call places a day's drive away for less than a dollar.

° ° ° ° °

AND SPEAKING OF LONG DISTANCE—you may think you're a long distance from a phone, yet you need to make a call. If so, just keep your eyes skinned for one of our many Public Phones—in stores, gasoline stations, and in handy roadside Telephone Booths. They're a real boon to travelers who call back when they forget something, call ahead to let folks know when they'll arrive.

Ever since Alexander Hamilton told George Washington

"Not only the wealth, but the independence and security of a country, appear to be materially connected with the prosperity of manufacturing . . .

"Whence it follows, that it is the interest of a community, with a view to eventual and permanent economy, to encourage the growth of manufacturing."

In these words Hamilton, Secretary of the Treasury, reported to the President and to the Congress on December 5, 1791 . . . and the book of industrial development was opened.

MICHIGAN MEANS BUSINESS

By Harold E. Kohn

No matter what time of the day we see him, one of our Wide Sky Harbor bird neighbors always looks as if he has just arisen from a restless night in bed. The belted kingfisher's topknot is never combed. His disheveled appearance may be derived from his untidy upbringing, for his birthplace was a messy nest in a deep tunnel in a sandbank. In this excavation (sometimes more than ten feet long) that his parents had scooped out, the kingfisher and his four to thirteen brothers and sisters were hatched on a disordered bed of fish bones, fish scales, twigs and leaves. To look at him now as he perches above the shallows of Lake Charlevoix, one would think he never overcame his infant habit of untidiness.

Many fishermen frown upon the kingfisher. They believe him to be an unfair and greedy competitor, fishing without a license and heeding no daily fishing limits. They imagine him toting off huge catches of trout, bass and bluegills. It isn't so. Occasionally a kingfisher may catch a small trout, if he is very lucky. But he prefers the less speedy minnows and chubs. Moreover, bass and bluegills are too large and flat for comfortable swallowing.

The kingfisher is well adapted to his life-long career. His tackle is a long, straight, strong, sharp-pointed bill that firmly grasps his hapless victims. His well-oiled plumage is impervious to water. No matter how deep he dives or how long he swims under water, with a few shakes of his feathers he can dry himself thoroughly. His feet are weak little appendages, fit only for gripping his perch, but since he uses them only for this purpose and for waddling into his tunnel home, they do very nicely.

Our winged fisherman friend usually perches on a bough overhanging a stream or upon a large boulder and from this vantage point watches the currents and pools beneath him for his victim. Seeing a fish, he dives from his perch, and if his aim and speed are good, snatches his victim and returns to the perch once more where he beats his prey to death with strong sideward strokes against the limb or stone. Then the fish is swallowed, always head-first: in this position the sharp spines of the fish's fins will not jab his throat. If he prefers lake fishing to streams, this jaunty fisherman simply flies over an expanse of water until he spies his booty, hovers and plunges, and after seiving the fish, finishes him off in the kingfisher manner. Occasionally kingfishers vary their diet with crayfish, frogs, toads, snakes, grasshoppers, butterflies, mice and wild fruits.

Our harbor kingfishers are members of a large family. While only six species of kingfishers are natives of the New World, there are ninety species altogether, inhabiting Europe, Asia, Africa, Austrailia, South America and many islands of the world's oceans, as well as North America. Although not so brilliantly colored as some of his Old World kin, the belted kingfisher, with his white-spotted blue-gray suit and cocky manners, is ruggedly handsome, and when he rattles his hoarse cry and dives after his fleeing, finny targets, he makes as thrilling a picture as one is apt to see in the entire bird kingdom.

Looking Forward . . .

Charlevoix, by virtue of its location on three lakes, boasts many attractions which set it apart from the average community.

Among these are the perch runs which every spring and fall attract fishermen to the community from points throughout the state and the midwest.

In less than a month the first schools of perch will make their appearance in Lake Michigan just outside the piers and the first fishermen will try their luck in the waters located between North and South points. As September nears its end, the fish will gradually invade Round Lake and the fall perch run will be on. The run will continue through October and well into November, although as the weather becomes colder fewer fishermen brave the weather to bring in catches of the tasty fish.

The perch run at Ironton on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix will begin about Oct. 10.

The run at Beaver Island will begin about October 1 and continue throughout the fall months.

The spring perch run begins in late Apral and continues during the month of May. Plans are currently afoot for a Perch Festival to be held at the height of the run under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Charlevoix caters to the perch fishermen by providing a variety of boats which may be found at liveries along Round Lake, all types of bait and fishing equipment as well as a large choice of restaurants and housing facilities.

Onee ruled by King Strang, the Island was the only kingdom ever to exist within the bounderies of the United States. Here too, lived Dr. Protar, reputed Russian nobleman in exile, who devoted the last years of his life ministering to the sick. And, on the Island still stands the building which housed the first daily newspaper printed in northern Michigan.

Aceomodations on the Island are excellent for an extended vacation or a one day visit, and "Welcome to America's Emerald Isle," is the friendly greeting to the visitor.

City Beautiful On Three Lakes

Charlevoix is truly an example of Michigan's Water Wonder Land, bordering the clear blue waters of Lake Michigan on the west, beautiful Lake Charlevoix on the east, and completely surrounding Round Lake in the very heart of the city.

The community was first established as a lumbering center and soon became an important shipping point because of the accessible waterways so necessary to transportation in pioneer days. But early visitors foresaw more than a commercial center in Charlevoix. As the lumbering industry declined the community gained popularity as a summer resort area.

Next came the railroad, followed by the automobile and good highways. Each contributed to the development of Charlevoix as one of the favored resort areas of the north.

Yachtsmen, too, have discovered a literal boatsman's paradise in the Charlevoix yacht basin in Round Lake where they can dock in slips bordering a beautiful, well-kept park convenient to the city's shopping center. Headquartering in the Charlevoix harbor, the yachtsman has complete protection along with every convenience and is aecessible to restful cruises on the two long arms of Lake Charlevoix and the waters of northern Lake Michigan.

Directors Re-elected At Hospital Meeting

Three directors were re-elected to the board of the Charlevoix hospital at the annual hospital meeting held Wednesday at the high school band room.

They are Theodore Malpass of East Jordan, Charles J. Bleha and Max Novak who were re-elected for three year terms.

The financial report presented by the treasurer, Mr. Bleha, shows that the hospital was operated last year at a deficit of $15,414.15. The report revealed that the gross income for hospital service was $225,471.26 and the net income $221,744.85 after state and bad debt allowances of $2,726.40 were subtracted. The operating expenses for the year, including a payroll of $145,565.70, were $237,169.01 leaving a deficit of $15,414.15.

Other income including pledges, donations and interest totaled $23,968.20. However, most of this was earmarked for special projects and could not be applied to the deficit.

A report by Miss Anne Baumgartner, superintendent of the hospital reveals that 104 fewer patients, or 1,355 as compared to 1,459 during the 1956-57 fiscal year, were admitted to the hospital last year. In addition, 784 fewer days care were given than in the preceding year.

Other figures show that the per diem cost of operating the hospital increased from $25.33 during 1956-57 to $28.07 last year or $2.74 per day while the per diem income increased only $2.25 or from $24.00 to $26.25 per day.

Other increases include the costs of meals which jumped from 70 cents to 81 cents.

The average number of employees remained at 64 while the payroll for the year jumped $8,350.60, from $137,215.10 during 1956-57 to $145,565.70.

Other reports presented at the meeting included one for the Women's Guild of the Charlevoix hospital by the imediate past president, Mrs. E. D. Hawley. The Guild raises funds for equipment for the hospital in addition to operating a library cart, making holiday favors and performing other special services for the hospital.

The secretary's report was read by Mrs. E. K. Shanahan.

Vacationer Dies in One Car Accident

Mrs. Hannah Hines, 74, of Clio, died Saturday at the Charlevoix hospital from injuries received in a one-car accident four miles north of East Jordan on M-66 last Wednesday.

The body was taken to the Benjamin funeral home in Clio for services and burial.

Mrs. Hines received fractures of the jaw and both legs and severe facial laceration when the car in which she was a passenger went out of control on a curve, swerved back across the highway and struck a tree. Mrs. Hines daughter, Mrs. Paul Gordon, also of Clio, driver of the car received a fractured left knee and right wrist and severe lacerations of the left leg. She was taken via ambulance to her home in Clio Sunday.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Gordon, Mrs. Hines is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Richard Gunton of Grand Rapids; two grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. Her husband, James, was killed in a traffic accident last year when he was struck by a car as he walked near his home in Clio.

Republicans Name Delegates to State Convention Aug. 30

The Charlevoix county Republican convention was held last week Wednesday to elect delegates to the Republican state convention to be held in Grand Rapids Aug. 29-30.

The four delegates elected were Edward K. Shanahan of Charlevoix, Howard Porter of East Jordan, Mrs. Elaine Rouse of Boyne City and Leo Berg of Charlevoix. Eight alternates elected were Clarence Meggison, John Makel and John Wolfe of Charlevoix, Albert Barthke, Garth Bryan and Art Rouse of Boyne City, Carlton Bowen, William Sanderson of East Jordan.

Delegates were uninstructed and will be permitted to vote as a body or as individuals.

Candidates for county offices met in committee during the convention to elect officers of the Charlevoix county Republican committee who will be responsible for promoting the interests of the party in the forthcoming campaign.

Mr. Shanahan was named chairman to replace Karl J. Erber. Other officers named to the county committee are: Mrs. Eliene Rouse, co-chairman; Mrs. Mildred Hiller of Charlevoix secretary; Garth Bryan of Boyne City, Treasurer; vice-chairmen for their respective districts are E. James Hiller, Fenton R. Bulow, William Sanderson and two representatives in the East Jordan area to be announced later.

Citing the need for a change in the administrative officers of state government, the convention adopted a resolution commending the sterling characters and ability of Paul D. Bagwell, Republican nominee for governor and Donald A. Brown, nominee for lieutenant govenor, and pledged to work for their election. The resolution further approved the records of Senator Charles E. Potter, Congressman Victor A. Knox, State Senator Frank Andrews and Representative Clarence E. Meggison along with the dependable services provided by the incumbent Republican county officers who are candidates for re-election.

The resolution recommended that frequent meetings be held throughout the county to the end that greater interest be created in the political affairs of the country and to keep the electorate well informed of the dangers that lie ahead.

Karl J. Erber presided at the county convention and Edward K. Shanahan served as secretary.

Plans Started For New Stage In East Park

Plans for a permanent park stage, complete with lighting and a built-in amplifying system got underway at a meeting Tuesday evening of the park stage committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce.

A suggested architectural design was approved subject to revisions which may be necessary after further study of amplifying problems and construction costs. The project will be financed by contribution.

An architect's scale drawing and plan for the open-air park stage will be started immediately, according to Bob Miles, chairman of the committee. It is also planned to have a scale model constructed for display purposes.

First contributor to the park stage fund was a summer resident from a neighboring city who has enjoyed the summer band concerts here. His unsolicited gift of $100 was received recently by C. A. Odmark, band director. This was followed by a benefit vesper concert staged in the high school auditorium by the negro summer residents under the direction of Horatio Jackson. Proceeds from this benefit amounted to $106.

The committee has made arrangements with the Charlevoix State Savings Bank and the Charlevoix County State Bank to accept contributions which will be credited to the park stage fund. Checks, money order, etc., made payable to the Park Stage Fund, will also be accepted by members of the committee.

Goal for the fund will be announced as soon as architectural plans have been completed and costs determined.

Serving on the committee with Mr. Miles are Mrs. Kit Carson, secretary of the committee, Rev. Fred McNiel, C. A. Odmark, Kit Carson, Harold Totten and Dean Davenport.

Boys at Camp Charlevoix to Stage Rodeo

Camp Charlevoix will again present its popular rodeo Thursday (today) at the camp corral located four miles north and east of here off the Boyne City road, according to Ken Smith who owns and operates the well-known boys camp on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix.

The event, to which the public is invited, is scheduled to begin at 3 p.m.

Besides the Western Horse show events such as barrel bending, speed-an-action and clover leaf, the show will feature those junior camper events which can provide thrills and excitement along with the Pony Express and the pick-up races.

A new activity at the camp stables this year, a team-driving contest, will be featured for the first time when top teamsters of the camp take over the reins for the contest which requires precision and speed on the part of the camper and his team.

Highlighted in the show will be the Camp Charlevoix drill team and the camper calf-roping contest. The 12-man drill team and their mounts have practiced diligently during their limited activity time to provide a fast, sharp exhibition.

Though this show is designed as a camper rodeo, there will also be an exhibition of special events by the cowboys who head the riding department.

The rodeo committee which has planned an exceptional show this year extends a hearty welcome to everyone to attend the show at the camp at 3 p.m. tomorrow.

Plans Underway for New High School on Athletic Field Site

Following the recommendations in the report recently submitted by the School Study committee, the Charlevoix Board of Education is formulating plans for the construction of a new high school building to be constructed as soon as possible. The school property on Kipke field has temporarily been selected for the new structure.

During the past two weeks the Board of Education has consulted with a number of architects regarding the project. An agreement with Gordon Cornwell, Traverse City architect, was tentatively made at a meeting of the Board Monday evening.

Guided by the recommendations of the School Study committee, Mr. Cornwell, working with the Board of Education, will draw up preliminary plans and estimates of costs which will be submitted to the electorate for approval, according to Supt. R. G. Bennett. Members of the finance and building committees who assisted in conducting the school study will also be asked to work with the Board of Education in the formulation of plans, Mr. Bennett said.

Summary and recommendations of the school study survey points out that, "financing improvement in the school facilities is undubtedly the most crucial hurdle to overcome. However, as has been pointed out in this report, this community is well able to provide proper and adequate school facilities for its children."

Relative to school facilities t comittee recommends, "In vi of the findings of this report the Board of Education should immediately initiate action to plan, finance, and construct a 7th thru 12th grade secondary school on the present athletic field site. The total study group, by an overwhelming vote, recommended this step — provided grades 7 and 8 are physically separated by common use areas from grades 9 thru 12.

He also emphasized the importance of registering to vote and then exercising the right in the forthcoming election.

Mr. Elzinga was named convention chairman for the next two years.

Thomas Bleha of the Resolutions committee presented several resolutions for the consideration of the group. Among them was commending the past officers for their fine work in behalf of the Democratic party; proposals to make a survey of voters in the county and an economic survey of the same area. ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

THOSE NORTHWEST winds and cooler temperatures we've been enjoying remind one that autumn is not far away . . . But then, we always get this kind of weather this time of the year, if you'll remember.

But fall can't be far away if we are to believe our ears . . . and eyes . . . because football's on the air . . . The big one for the College All-Stars last week and several exhibition games over the weekend . . . We'll be hearing plenty of football broadcasts before the college and professional telecasts start later in the fall . . . And there can't be too many as far as we're concerned . . . We hope, though, that our Lions have done their last bit of falling flat on their dear little faces that they'll know this year . . . Holy cats, wasn't that awful? . . . We're told that every team has an 'off' game, but how can any team be that far off the beam we'd like to know . . . Any other time we'd want the All-Stars to win but this was one time we were rooting for the pros . . . And look what happened! We hope you didn't lose too much on the game.

* * *

CHARLEVOIX welcomed its first two new steel fish tugs into the harbor last week . . . And they're beauties . . . They were built for our good friends, Jack Cross and Jake White, at Escanaba and their presence gives hope to all those interested in commercial fishing for if these two veteran fishermen have faith in the future of the business than it's good . . . We hope we live to see the day when the lake trout and the whitefish come back to the lakes as they once were . . . You tell people today that you remember when there were these fish in great quantities in the lakes and they look at you as tho' you've lost your mind . . . but it's true . . . Perhaps again, some day, they will be there again . . . we hope.

* * *

WE HAD AN opportunity last week to visit the newest addition to our community . . . the Lake Terrace Mobile Court . . . Of course it's built near our old stamping grounds so we're pretty familiar with the land there . . . And its owners, Frank Boss and Marv Goss, have done a terrific job . . . We think everyone will be happy with it . . . Surely it's a beautiful court with just anything your little heart desires . . . We hope you'll pay it a visit when it's opened for inspection over the Labor Day weekend . . . There are those who feel that mobile homes have not a place in the plan of things but we've never agreed . . . And this bears out our thinking on the subject . . . So don't forget to visit the place, come Aug. 29 and 30.

With Labor Day arriving on the second day of September, schools will be starting a week earlier than usual and everyone will be returning home that much sooner . . . It's hard to believe that our summer friends will be with us for such a little while.

AND MAY WE voice a warning about that Labor Day weeken dtraffic . . . From every side we've been hearing about the terrific traffic up and down the state . . . Added to that there have been all too many traffic accidents . . . So please, won't you be careful if you have to drive on the highways . . . We love you and we'd like to have you around for a long time yet . . . Won't you heed our warning . . . and that of law enforcement officers up and down the land.

* * *

WE HAD OCCASION recently to be asked to sign just about the biggest postcard we ever hope to see . . . It measured 12 by 18 inches and was made on some sort of material like masonite or something . . . H C. Hampton thought it up and painted a lovely sunset scene on the picture side . . . On the back was the name and address of the person for whom it was meant . . . his dad, the wonderful, wonderful Will E. Hampton, who's been under the weather for some time . . . Charlie asked all his dad's friends here to sign it . . . We were honored that we were among those asked . . . We sure hope Mr. Hampton got as big a bang out of receiving it as everyone had putting his name on it . . . We've sure missed our annual visit with Mr. Hampton and hope that he'll be up and at 'em shortly.

* * *

DON'T KNOW if he's rushing the season or what but we can't help but comment on the darling lights that look like Christmas tree lights only tinier on the bushes and grill work at the Weathervane Inn . . . We love them and they add such an unusual, and we might add, unexpected touch . . . But you might know that Earl Young would come up with something new and different . . . a clever man, that Mr. Young.

* * *

DID YOU SEE IT? Sputnik, we mean . . . We'd heard where several people had seen it between 9 and 10:30 p.m. on several nights during the past week . . . Monday night we got a call about 10:30 p.m. from our honorable sister, Mrs. Lloyd Cummings, out Barnard-way who was sure she's seen it . . . It's the first local report we've heard so if you should see it moving across the sky let us know . . . her husband's sure she's seeing things and we'd like to get her off the hook!

News Round-up at Camp Charlevoix

The seventh week of camp started off to the sound of the toms-toms beating a steady beat down by the Wigwam where Rodney Deyo has started his class in Indian Dancing. As usual, the classes are large as boys enjoy this very much, and with the Final Council Fire in the offing, the boys vie for the chance to dance in it.

On Monday morning, Bill Fors and Pete Eckrich took their boys down to the Sleeping Bear sand dunes on Lake Michigan for a two night trip and they had a great time. The boys on this trip were: Don Strutz, Stephen Hack, Dan Smith, Ben Tate, Bill McInerney, Bruce Nyland, Gary McInerney, Roger Witherill, Jim Harper, Tom Coolman, Bob Moleski, Bob Heller, Steven Sweeterman, and Toby Burt. Another group, with Bob Schaefer at the helm went to Fisherman's Island. These boys were: John Reedy, Howard Gentry, Stephen Hayes, John Fauver, Jack Sluiter, Jack Packard, and Sumner Bagby. In the afternoon, Kent Gibbs took his cabin of boys to Bells Bay for an overnight. The boys were: Wes Murfin, Jon Steffensen, John Deabe, Kirt Bromley, Bill Beel, Richie Lange and Bob Lakin. The running of the "Mugwump" started for the second four week boys and much excitement prevailed all day long.

Tuesday found cabin 11 going on a horseback trip to Bay Shore. These boys were: Stephen Wardrop, David Hause, Charles Ruifrok, John Gilbert, Don Mabley and Bill Hall. In the evening we were hosts to Camp Ta-Wa-Ma-Na at a dance. The Assistant Counsellors had charge of the decorations and refreshments and the girls arrived about eight o'clock. The Wigwam was decorated with ferns and the dance was most succesful, everyone having a really fine time.

On Wednesday the long sailing trip left camp and it was a glorious day. The entire sailing staff, Tom Plum, Art Sullivan, Ken Peters, Nick Cameron, and Gary Murfin took these boys: Howard Gentry, John Harmon, Gary McInerney, Steve Hack, Ben Tate, Fred Bissell, Chuck Sullivan, Peter Fairman, Jim Standish, John Deane, Doug Rogers, Stuart White, Ken McLane, Randy Grossman and Bill Stebbins.

Wednesday evening the annual "Capture the Counsellor" was held. This is an annual event with a price being put on each man, and the team capturing the most cash value gets the points for that side. Very clever signs were posted with a drawing of the counsellor and their value, ranging from one cent to a thousand dollars. The boys loved the event and captured twelve men who were hiding throughout the woods.

On Thursday Jim Hutcheson took his cabin of boys on a horseback trip to Bay Shore. These boys were: Ted Schmidt, Hank Holste, John Baxter, Scott Keller, Doug Rogers, John Baird and Howie Smith. In the afternoon, Dave Plaut and Doug Graham joined forces for an overnight trip to Bay Shore. Dave Grant took his boys, too. The boys on this trip were: John Mothershead, Fred Bissell, Leeds Davis, Chip Coakley, Jim Standish, Kim Kimbrough, Bill Siebenthaler, Jeff McLean, George Steinhardt, George Allendorff, Tommy Case, Toddie Lewis, Jim Mabley and Peter Rousseau.

Friday morning early found the boys eligible for the Mackinac Island trip all scurrying around for a six-thirty breakfast. It was a beautiful day and everyone had a great time. Boys enjoy this trip so very much and some of the boys had been on the camp trip there for three or four times. In the evening we had our practice Council Fire for the finale of our camp season. Rodney Deyo has the boys in shape so that by this coming Friday night it should be a really fine Indian Ceremony. Our new tepee made out of nylon looms up bright and white along the shore and looks most attractive at night.

On Sunday morning the entire camp went into the Congregational Church in Charlevoix. The men from town sent out a school bus plus fifteen cars and it was quite a procession which left camp. The Rev. Harold Kohn gave a most interesting sermon for the boys, and we were all very proud of the way the campers and staff looked. It was a most worthwhile experience. In the afternoon the Annual Obstacle Relay Race was held and this is always the final event of the Green-Grey competition. The event uses about eighty boys and encompasses most of the camp activities plus a few original events. It was a thrilling moment when the announcement was made that the Greys had won the season's competition. So now the losing Greens must put on a banquet for the winners. In the evening, we had a most wonderful experience for our Vesper Service. Dr. Thomas E. Mussellman, nationally known authority on birds and insects spoke to the entire camp. We met in the clubhouse with a roaring fire in the fireplace and it was really an evening to long be remembered. Dr. Mussellman held the boys spellbound and there was much humor and laughter and the boys were really thrilled. We do want to thank him for coming to our camp and giving us such an enjoyable evening.

Here we are into the final week of camp, and never in my twenty-five years of camping experience have I had a summer go as rapidly. It has been a wonderful season and one to go down in the camp history as one of the best.

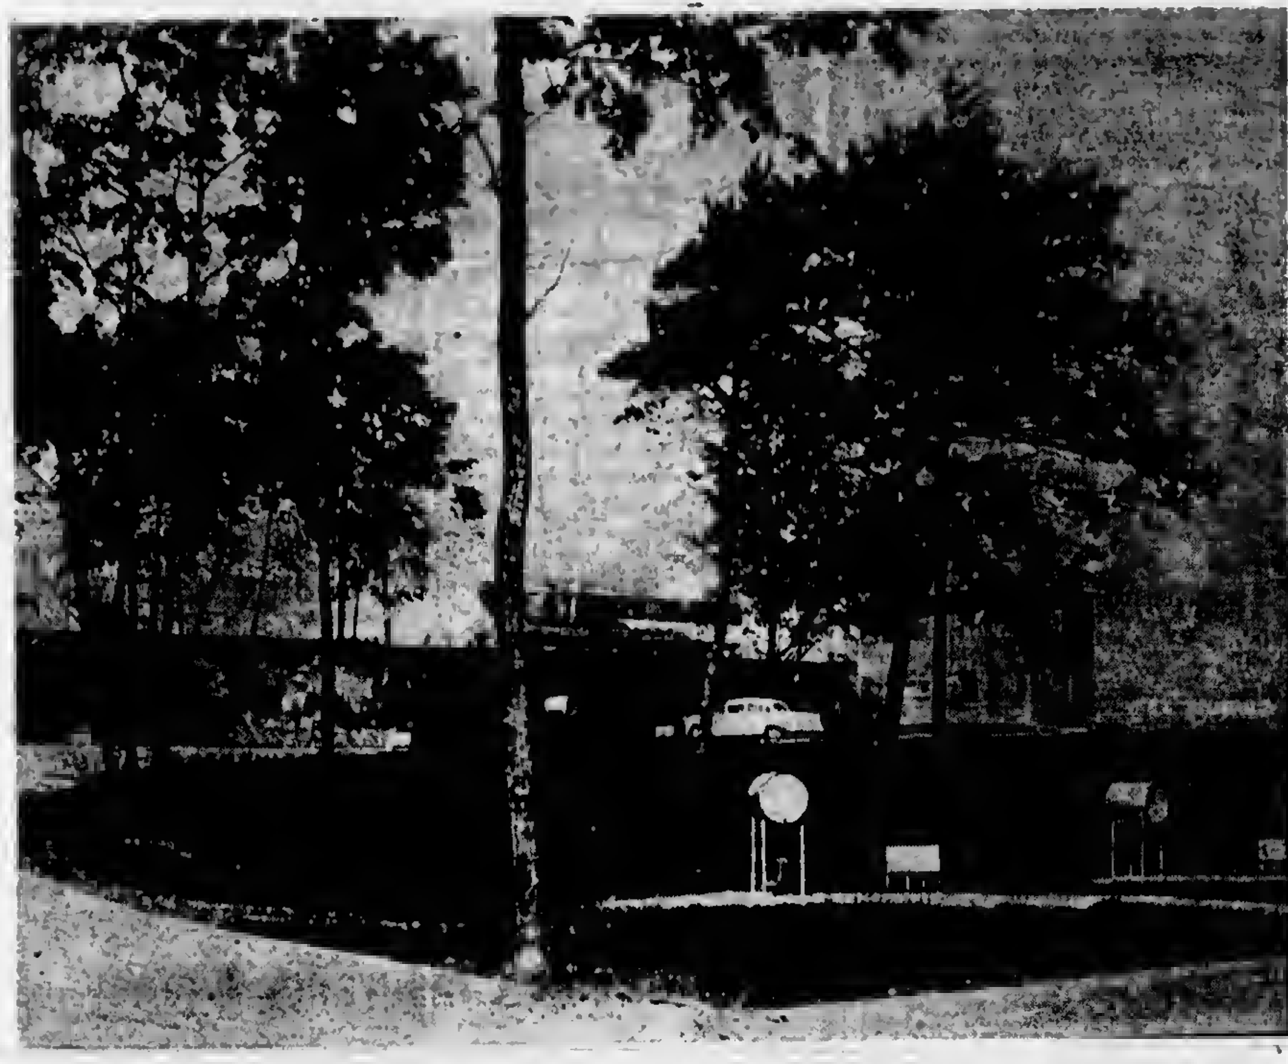
The New Lake Terrace Mobile Court



The Lake Terrace Mobile Court, located two miles north of Charlevoix on US 31, pictured from the lowar terraca. In the hackground is the office and utility building and a trailer which like the office, is on the highway level.

Fifteen courts, complete with all utilities and fuel oil tanks, are located on each of three levels. A roadway winds through the court from the highway. An additional 18 units will be huilt to tha right of the two levels shown here.

The Lake Terrace Mobile Court, located two miles north of Charlevoix on US 31' overlooking Lake Charlevoix, will open next week.

The owners, Frank Boss, well known local resort operator, and Marvin Goss of Birmingham, a Fisher Body Co. employee, have planned an 'open house' at the park Friday and Saturday, August 29 and 30, so visitors may see for themselves the park, the result of two years work.

The court presently has 15 units, the majority of which can be seen in the picture above. There are five located on each of three terraces, all of which overlook the lake. The lower terrace from where the above picture was taken cannot be seen in this picture.

Future plans call for the construction of an additional 18 40-ft. units on the eastern section of the two upper terraces and for facilities for from 18 to 20 overnight trailers. The latter area will be located east of the main entrance of the court on the highway level. It will feature a building equipped with rest rooms and shower facilities and special parking areas. This will not be completed until some time next year. The east section of the lower terrace will eventually be converted into a play area with shuffleboard courts and playground equipment.

Units now ready for occupancy have light, telephone, television, water, fuel and sewage facilities. The panels on which the light, telephone and television plug-ins are located can be seen in the pictures. The latter is controlled from a master tower and control panel in the office building pictured on the highway level overlooking the park. This building, a two-story brick structure, has office space and living quarters on the top level. On the lower level, which cannot be seen from the highway are large laundry, sewage disposal and furnace rooms and two bath rooms.

To build the court it was necessary to cut down the bluff overlooking Lake Charlevoix and to move approximately 70,000 yards of earth, according to Mr. Boss, who added that a total of 41,000 sq. feet of sod had been used to cover the area now completed. It was also necessary to install an 11,000 gallon sewage disposal unit which has its own submerged pump and 1,600 lineal feet of six-inch tile in the filter bed. This later installation must meet with the approval of the Michigan Department of Health.

Roads have been constructed throughout the court and will be covered with a brine compound until they can be black-topped. The court has its own street lighting facilities.

Future expansion calls for an additional 20 units on a seven-acre plot east and south of the present court on the shores of Lake Charlevoix.

The C & O railroad tracks pass in front of the completed court. Property located on the south side of the tracks in front of this section will be developed as a playground and bathing beach. A walk over the tracks to the beach area will be constructed at a later date.

Plans for the court were drawn up by Mr. Boss. G. A. Shadko served as project engineer.

The court will also become a sales park for both the Roycraft and Anderson Mobile homes. A new Roycraft trailer can be seen on the upper level adjacent to the office building in the picture above. During the 'open house' at the mobile court, completely furnished mobile homes manufactured by both companies will be open to the visitors.

In discussing the plans for the court, Mr. Boss said that it was planned for development over a six year period. Eventually the present court will be completed with the construction of an additional 18 units and the overnight trailer area and then work will continue on the lakeside property. "We are hopeful that we can complete the main section of the court next summer and perhaps start on the overnight parking area," he continued.

He went on to say that "We, my partner and I, feel that mobile homes are the homes of the future. More and more young people and retired couples are finding this a convenient way to live. For young people it is less expensive and for the older couple with a limited income it is equally as economical. How else could the people in the latter category live in the north in the summer and in the south in the winter. We have many inquiries which verify our thinking in the matter."

When this modern court is opened next week it will mark the first time in several years that Charlevoix has boasted such a park. The former trailer park located on Lake Michigan is now the site of the Charlevoix hospital.

A Touch of Greatness

By Harold E. Kohn

One Way To Find Out

Sleep is one of life's elemental essentials for all the highly developed animals. The eminent British biologist, J. Arthur Thomson, has declared that animals accustomed to sleep will die in a few days if deprived of it. It has been demonstrated experimentally that if some animals are robbed of sleep they will die much sooner than if denied food.

Both clinical data and everyday observation show that adequate sleep is important to human beings. It removes evidences of fatigue, freshens the sleeper, and permits recovery from the strain of activity. But many a person finds slumber elusive. Insomnia can have many causes, such as physical pain, or tensions aroused by guilt or ego-wounding memories, worries and fears, and concern with one's prestige. Some insomnia can be treated medically and other kinds by penitence with its resulting sense of forgiveness, by spiritual cleansing from all hatreds and resentments, or by the development of new and simple habits, such as retiring at the same time every night, taking warm, relaxing baths and the conscious avoidance of excitement prior to going to bed.

Often, however, sleeplessness stems from faithlessness. Some people cannot rest because they will not leave themselves and the world in God's hands. They feel that their own destiny and an improved world situation depend upon their being awake and constantly on the job. They are like a minor executive who never dares to take a vacation from his office for fear the company will not survive his absence. He does not have faith in the chief executive's capacity to carry on. The creedal statement, "I believe in God," means more than acknowledging His existence. It implies trust. To trust God means to believe He is watchful and working for our own good and the world's welfare while we rest, and that the general management of the universe is in good hands.

William Beebe, the naturalist, has told of visits he made to the home of Theodore Roosevelt, whose love for nature was well known. Often, after an evening's talk at Roosevelt's Sagamore Hill home, the two men would leave the house, walk over the great, spreading lawn, and look up into the night sky. They would vie with each other to see who could first identify the pale bit of light-mist near the lower left-hand corner of the Great Square of Pegasus, and then either Roosevelt or Beebe would recite:

"That is the Spiral Galaxy of Andromeda.
It is as large as our Milky Way.
It is one of a hundred million galaxies.
It is 750,000 light-years away.

Then, after a moment of silence, Theodore Roosevelt would grin and say, "Now, I think we are small enough. Let's go to bed."

In this Tranquillizer Era of the Phenobabital Age we need some of the trustful spirit that stems from a recognition of our smallness resting in God's Greatness.

The U. S. Coast Guard upset first place Airport Inn 4 to 3 last week to throw the second round softball title up for grabs according to Dean Davenport, softball director.

The loss gives second place Ellsworth a chance to capture the title without a playoff. It also gives new hope to the service team, Freedman's and American Mold.

Ellsworth and the Coast Guard will square off at 8:15 p.m. Thursday with the Tigers meeting the Pirates in the preliminary at 6:30 p.m.

If a play-off is necessary in the Peanut league, it will begin at 7 p.m. Friday night and continue at 5:45 p.m. Monday and at the same hour Tuesday if a third game must be played.

The Tigers are the first round winners. They are currently in second place behind the Red Devils who took over the lead last week after scoring two upsets.

Class A games scheduled during the week will include a meeting of the Coast Guard and Boyne City at 8:30 p.m. Friday; the Airport versus Boyne City at 8:15 Saturday; American Mold versus the Coast Guard at 7 and Freedman versus Airport Inn at 8:30 p.m. Monday; American Mold versus the Airport Inn at 7 and Freedman's versus Ellsworth at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday; Boyne City versus American Mold at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The Class B play-offs will start at 7 p.m. Saturday with the first round winner, the VFW taking on the second round winner which is yet to be determined at 7 p.m. Saturday. The play-offs will continue through the week but at this time are not scheduled.

A Class B league all-star game will be played Thursday night with the roster for the teams to be announced next week.

If play-offs are necessary in the Class A league, they will begin at 8:15 p.m. Thursday.

Scores in games played in Class A during the week include: Ellsworth 4 Freedman's 2; Airport Inn 8 American Mold 3; U. S. Coast Guard 6 Boyne City 5; Ellsworth 13 Boyne City 8; Freedman 9 American Mold 1.

PEANUT LEAGUE

In peanut league action this week, the Red Devils upset the Tigers 17 to 11 to knock the latter out of first place.

The Pirates also felt the sting of the Devils as they were shut out 12 to 0 behind the pitching of Gary Stutman. The Red Sox downed the Dodgers 11 to 9 with Dwight Boss leading the way with three safeties.

In the Class B league, Lake Construction blasted Edwards 19 to 1 with Stewart Boal and Butch Coleman the big hitters with two each. The VFW trounced Edwards 13 to 5 with Kurt Willis collecting three hits. Mike LaBlance, John Pearl and John Norton all had two hits each for the losers.

Cunningham Hits .400 To Hold Lead

The Charlevoix Softball batting title race tightened up during the week but Ron Cunningham of Airport nine has been able to maintain the lead by hitting an even .400 clip.

Others hitting better than .300 are: Bob Klooster of Ellsworth .333; Ted Potter of Freedman's, .327; Dean Davenport of Freedman's .311 and Bill Lusk of Freedman's .306.

Traffic Stopper

Every so often I see little things that prove that folks really are pretty wonderful!

Take last Saturday. I was downtown when I saw a middle-aged woman about to cross a busy street. Just as she started, the light changed, and she hurried back to the curb. But the big moving van that was first in the long line of cars had not moved.

"You cross first," the driver of the van yelled. "But you're holding up traffic," the woman said. "Lady," replied the driver with a good-natured wink, "let's just say you're so good looking you're stopping traffic!"

From where I sit, something like that makes the "doer" and the "receiver" both feel mighty good. It's like the friendly feeling you get when your hostess goes out of her way to serve you beer—even though she doesn't drink it herself. That's pretty wonderful, too!

Beaver Island Youth Saved When Raft Goes Adrift

St. James, B. I. — The quick thinking and calmness of an 18-year-old Beaver Island youth, Gerald LaFreniere, son of the Vernon LaFrenieres, is credited with saving the life of nine-year-old Perry Perry, son of Mrs. Saisy Perry, a permanent summer resident on the island.

According to information made available to the Charlevoix Courier by a witness to the near-tragedy, the child was playing on a raft anchored in shallow water near his mother's cottage on the north end of the island. A stiff breeze out of the south west started blowing the raft off shore and it was some distance from land, drifting toward Hog island when Mrs. Perry and visitors at her cottage noticed it. Young LaFreniere, who works at the Beaver Lodge located nearby, saw what was happening and, despite the fact that he hadn't been in the water for four years, atempted to swim to the raft. When it became apparent that he could not reach the raft because it was traveling too rapidly away from him, young LaFreniere returned to shallow water and talked to the frightened child, keeping him calm until assistance arrived.

In the meantime, a guest at the cottage had alerted others including the Coast Guard. Mrs. David Wilson with the assistance of Bud McDonough were the first to reach the raft in the Wilsons' motor boat and rescue the boy.

Mrs. Perry and her two sons have been coming to the island for several years.

Vesper Concert By Negro Chorus Pleases Audience

A memorable vesper concert and candlelight ceremony in which the audience of more than 150 people participated was presented at the high school auditorium Sunday evening by a negro choir under the direction of Horatio Jackson. The choir was supplemented by voices from local choirs.

Entitled "Light of the World," the choral service of worship included a processional, hymns, spirituals and anthems by the choir, solos by Fern Wilkes, Betty Calloway and Lulu Clark, Scripture readings by the Rev. Frederic W. McNeil and Mr. Jackson and prayers by the Rev. Robert J. Yonkman.

The blessing of the candles followed the story of the lighted candle told by Mrs. Wilkes. The candlelight recessional concluded the inspirational program which was well received by the appreciative audience. Mrs. Leonard Burns was the accompanist.

C. A. Odmark spoke briefly on the proposed park stage to which the proceeds from the program were contributed.

A total of $138.32 was contributed at the program which is expected to net $106 toward the park stage fund.

Mr. Jackson would like to voice his appreciation to all those who participated in the program and to thank all those whose fine cooperation made the concert possible.

Collision Fatal to Judy Dutcher and Bay Shore Youths

Three persons including a 16-year-old Charlevoix girl, Judith Ann Dutcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dutcher, were killed and five others injured in a two-car crash five and a half miles north of here on US 31 about 11:30 p.m. Sunday.

Dead were the drivers of the two cars, Judy, who died an hour after the accident at the Charlevoix hospital where she had been taken by ambulance; Edward Lee Deschermeier, 21, of Bay Shore, who was killed outright and Darrell Lawson, 22, also of Bay Shore, a passenger in the Deschermeier car, who died Monday afternoon at the local hospital from injuries received in the accident.

According to Sheriff Glenn E. Rose, the Deschermeier car, traveling north on the wind-swept highway during a rainstorm crossed the center-line of the highway and struck the Dutcher car almost head-on. The Deschermeier car rolled more than 150 feet throwing Lawson from the car. The investigation revealed that Judy apparently attempted to avoid the collision by veering off the highway onto the shoulder of the road.

Other occupants of the Dutcher car who were enroute home after attending a movie in Petoskey were Katherine Oleksy, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oleksy, who is hospitalized here with a fractured left femur and severe lacerations of the scalp and right leg; Marilyn Novak, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Novak, who suffered a fractured rib and severe bruises; Diane Puhek, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Puhek, bruises; Sally Weidman, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Weidman, bruises and Georgie Smith, 14, of Lake Worth, Fla., who with her mother, Mrs. George Smith, have been visiting the latter's mother Mrs. Frank Partridge, bruises. Sally and Georgie were discharged to their homes Monday and Diane and Marilyn were discharged from the hospital on Tuesday.

Mr. Dutcher, night deputy at the sheriff's office, was on duty at the time of the accident and dispatched officers and ambulances to the scene of the accident without knowing that his daughter was involved. Sheriff Rose returned to the office to inform him that she had been critically injured and was at the local hospital.

Judy would have been a junior at the Charlevoix high school this fall. She was a member of the high school and city bands. A vivacious and fun-loving girl, she was popular with her classmates and teachers and a great favorite with all those who knew her. Born in Charlevoix, she would have been 17 on November 25.

Besides her parents, she is survived by a sister, Joyce, of St. Louis, Mo.; a brother, David, of Charlevoix and her paternal grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dell Dutcher, also of this city.

Funeral services were held at the Winchester Funeral home Wednesday with the Rev. Harold E. Kohn officiating. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

Mr. Deschermeier, who was to be married Saturday to Polly Ingalls of Petoskey, was born in Charlevoix June 28, 1957, and attended the Petoskey high school before enlisting in the U. S. Army. He was discharged from the service in April after serving three years.

He was a member of St. Francis church at Bay Shore.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Deschermeier of Bay Shore; a brother, Joseph L. jr., at home; three sisters, Mrs. Arthur Burnett of Cheboygan, Mrs. Albert Speigl of Bay Shore and Betty Kay at home and his maternal grandfather, Arthur Barnes of Charlevoix.

Funeral services were held at St. Francis church at Bay Shore Wednesday morning with the Rev. Fr. Kozmac officiating. Burial was in St. Francis cemetery, Petoskey. The rosary was recited at the Winchester funeral home Tuesday evening.

Mr. Lawson was born in Petoskey June 10, 1936, and was graduated from the Petoskey high school in 1955. He was discharged from the U. S. Army two weeks ago after serving three years with the 82nd Airborne Division, part of which was spent in Germany.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Florence Lawson of Bay Shore; his father, Donald Lawson of Clare; two brothers, Dwight of Detroit and Duane, at home; a sister, Elaine, at home; two half-brothers, Arthur and Allen of Clare and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Josie Marquardt of Petoskey.

Funeral services will be held at the Stone funeral home in Petoskey at 3 p.m. Thursday with the Rev. Lloyd Brassure officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

The traffic accident was the worst in the history of Charlevoix county and brings to six number of traffic fatalities in the county since July 3.

Ellsworth Nine Captures League Softball Title

Ellsworth captured the City Softball title for the second straight year Tuesday night despite the fact that they were upset by Freedman's 2 to 1 in the final game.

Only a loss by Airport Inn to American Mold by a score of 3 to 2 gave Ellsworth the title without a play-off game.

Ellsworth had a record of eight wins and one loss going into Wednesday's game while Airport Inn had seven wins and two losses. Had the latter won, it would have been necessary to go into extra games for the title. Ellsworth won both the first and second rounds to take the title.

5-Car Pile-up Causes Damage But No Injuries

Approximately $1,000 damage was done to cars involved in a five-car accident six miles north of here on US 31 at 11:40 p.m. Sunday, according to Sheriff Glenn E. Rose.

The accident occurred when Mrs. Catherine B. Phillips of Pontiac, signaled and stopped her car while waiting to cross the highway to a road-side park. The car following her, driven by Robert McGuire of Dearborn, had also stopped when a third car following them, driven by a 16-year-old Indianapolis, Ind., youth, struck the McGuire car from the rear, driving it into the Phillips' car. The impact caused the youth's car to veer into the opposite lane where it struck an oncoming car driven Leo Shaw of Hesperia, throwing the Shaw car out of control and into a car parked along the highway belonging to Charles Lorenz of Muskegon.

No one was injured in the accident although all five vehicles were damaged.

A summons was issued the youth for not having his car under control. He appeared before Justice J. Connolly who ordered him to pay $5.00 fine and $4.30 costs.

Justice Connolly did not reveal the youth's name and though Probate Judge William T. Downs had waived jurisdiction form probate to justice court he advised that the boy's name not be used.

First Maple Syrup Festival To Be Inaugurated in Spring

Plans for Charlevoix's first Maple Syrup Festival to be held here next spring have been announced.

The event will be held under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Kiwanis club and will feature an open house during February, March and April climaxed by the festival tentatively scheduled for April 17, 18 and 19.

Evaporators will be set up in East Park where sap, gathered from sugar maples thruout the city, will be converted into golden maple syrup.

The proposed festival is the result of years of planning and research by persons interested in and familiar with the making of syrup on a commercial basis.

Research shows that sugar maples grow best at 600 feet above sea level and Charlevoix, according to the U. S. Coast Guard is 578.5 ft. above sea level.

* *

OTHER STATISTICS show that 20 per cent of the sugar maples in the United States are located in Michigan which presently ranks fourth behind Vermont, New York and Pennsylvania among the 11 states which produce the commodity.

In 1958 Hayes township located north and east of the city produced approximately 3,000 gallons of the golden liquid or nearly two-tenths of one per cent of the entire U. S. production.

This startling amount of syrup was processed at only a few sugar bushes from a token number of tha county's entire sugar maple production.

Sponsors of the idea estimate that there are more than 1200 maple trees of tappable size, that is, maples more than 10 inches in diameter, growing between the streets and sidewalks within the city limits of Charlevoix which could be utilized in the project.

Added to that is the fact that trees growing in the open such as these have larger crowns and as a result would be better sap producers.

* * *

A GREAT DEAL of research on the sugar maple has been done at Michigan State University, the only agricultural col-

* * *

THUS FAR ONLY one new teacher has been engaged at the public school according to Mr. Bennett who said that Mrs. C. A. Odmark had been engaged to teach homemaking classes in the junior and senior high school.

In making this announcement Mr. Bennett said any decisions regarding the hiring of other teachers would have to await the opening of school to determine teacher needs.

No other major changas in teaching personnel have been made, Mr. Bennett said.

At St. Mary's school Sr. M. Eileen has returned as principal and early elementary teacher. Sister Ann Michele, who taught in the Alpine parochial school last year has joined the faculty as junior high teacher.

Mrs. Irene Milville who taught during the second semester last year is returning to teach the third, fourth and fifth grades.

Enrollments in both schools are expected to be up from last year's, due to the influx of several new families. Some came to Charlevoix with the U. S. Coast

Community Chest Budget of $10,000 Set By Directors

A budget of $10,148.06 for 1958 was adopted by the Community Chest board of directors at a special meeting held Friday night at the high school band room. Leonard Burns, president of the chest board, has announced.

The goal for the 1958 campaign to raise funds for 11 agencies was set at $9,996.06 after $152.00 of funds on hand were applied to the budget.

The 1958 budget is $720.90 over last year's budget of $9,427.16. Last year's campaign goal was $9,150.

A major part of the increase in the budget is accounted for in the admittance of an agency which has not asked for funds since 1954, the Charlevoix Service Organization, which sends the Charlevoix Courier to all local servicemen. A request for $450 has been made by this organization headed by Ralph S. Hamilton.

* * *

ONLY OTHER sizable increase in requests is for the Community nurse whose request was hiked from $1,300 in 1957 to $1,450 this year.

Of this total $300 is for travel axpenses whila on duty in the community.

Other requests as approved follow: Michigan United Fund, $1,452 or an increase of $16.00; Charlevoix hospital, $1,121.06, an increase of $4.90; Scenic Trails Council, Boy Scouts, $1,450; American Red Cross, $1,000; Charlevoix Girl Scout Council, $750; Charlevoix City Recreation, $800; Salvation Army $325; Charlevoix Association to Aid Retarded Children, $950; Emergency Fund, $300; Campaign expenses, $100.

* * *

MR. BURNS, IN announcing the plans for the 1958 drive, said that the board voted to give priority to local organizations if the 1058 goal is not reached.

The board proposes to give local organizations the full amount of their requests and prorate the remainder to outside organizations.

Plans call for the 1958 fund drive to get underway Sept. 29 and continue through Oct. 15 or until the drive is completed.

There was some discussion regarding the funds raised last year for the Boy Scouts and the Scenic Trails Council. Mr. Burns appointed a committee composed of Mrs. J. K. Reed, Hal M. Hill and Fran Martin to study the issue.

* * *

A REQUEST by Boy Scout Troop 11 for $50 to be applied toward the purchase of eight tents was approved by the board from funds earmarked for local Scouts.

The board of directors will meet again at 8 p.m. Sept. 5 in the band room.

Government Aid Benefits Up 32 Per Cent in County

Old-age, survivors, and disability insurance benefits are being paid in Charlevoix County at the rate of $878,064 a year, according to E. O. Wiles, manager of the Traverse City social security district office.

"This is an increase of about 32% over last year," Wiles said.

"Our studies have shown that many of these aged people, widows, and orphans have little or no other resources," he pointed out. "For something like 9%, social security benefits, received as an earned right, are the only cash income."

* * *

WILES ALSO stressed that while the benefits are intended primarily as basis for individual economic security, the payment of social security benefits at the rate of $878,000 a year in Charlevoix helps business generally because most of the money is spent immediately on food, clothing, and other necessities.

"This is especially important in a time of economic recession," he said. "Social security benefits are being paid nationally at a rate of more than 8 billion dollars annually."

Payments to a retired worker average about $65 per month, Wiles said. The average for a widow with two young children is $145. The maximum payment for a retired couple is $162.80 a month, and the maximum for a family is $200.

* * *

"THERE WERE several reasons for the increase in benefits over last year," Wiles said. One was the payment of benefits to people who were brought under the law for the first time in recent years — self-employed farmers, for example. Other reasons for the increase were the reduction in the retirement age to 62 for women and the starting of disability insurance benefits to disabled people 50 or over.

Mr. Wiles agreed that one factor in the increase may be tha business recession.

"I'm sure some older people who would have preferred to keep on working have been forced to retire because of the general business conditions," Wiles said. "Also some mothers may be getting survivors insurance benefits for themselves as well as their children because they have lost jobs as a result of the recession.

* * *

WHILE ORGANIZED primarily for the summer concert series, the band rehearses weekly thruout the year and will begin its rehearsals for the 1959 season next month.

The personnel of the band donate their services to the community without compensation.

Tha administrative expenses are paid by the city of Charlevoix for the pleasure of its residents and visitors.

The band is credited with making the first contribution to the newly-created Park Stage fund by voting to turn over a donation of $100.00 received from a summer visitor to the park stage committee.

It is expected that the band will be active this winter in promoting this fund.

Beware of the School Bus

No driver of a motor vehicle would intentionally run down a child but the possibility of such a thing happening this year will be greatly increased if drivers do not heed the new regulations respecting stops for school buses loading or unloading passengers.

Effective Sept. 13, all vehicles approaching a school bus from front as well as from rear must stop at least 10 feet from a stopped school bus. Heretofore, only vehicles approaching a school bus from the rear were required to stop. The new regulations, effective this year, requires vehicles approaching from the front are also required to stop. Passengers crossing the road upon being discharged from a school bus must cross in front of the stopped bus.

Drivers of buses, before resuming motion, are to signal the stopped traffic to proceed. The side-arm stop signal on school buses has been discontinued. Two flashing lights, front and rear, are operated manually to warn traffic that the bus is about to make a stop.

Drivers should constantly keep the new regulations in mind. Drivers must automatically stop when approaching a stopped school bus from the rear. Now they must be continually on the alert when they are approaching a school bus from the front. One moment of carelessness may cost a life and it is most certain to result in a fine for traffic violation.

Editors Oppose More Tax

If the thinking of newspapers, radio and television editors in Michigan reflects the attitude of the citizenry, state spending would be cut to fit anticipated revenues.

Results of a recent questionaire sent to these editors in Michigan indicated that 95% advocated reduced spending, the court of action followed by the Republican majority in the legislature. Only five percent suggested new taxes and increased spending for state services. None approved increased spending for services through deficit financing.

Replies indicated that the newspaper men felt most state services had been adequately provided for. Specific services brought the following reaction: State Colleges and Universities, 82% adequate, 18% inadequate: State Police 76% adequate, 24% inadequate; Mental Health, 64% adequate, 36% inadequate; Highways, 81% adequate, 19% inadequate; Health, 95% adequate, 5% inadequate; Public Grade and High Schools, 77% adequate, 23% inadequate; State Parks, 68% adequate, 32% inadequate; Unemployment Compensation, 94% adequate, 6% inadequate.

Replying to the question, "If taxes must be increased, what would you suggest?," 17% of the editors felt no more taxes were necessary and suggested that ways be considered to cut rather than increase state taxes.

Included in the summary of the survey were some of the comments made by the editors. Suggestions as to way of getting more taxes were varied but in the main the cry was to cut waste and extravagance in state services.

BY FRAN MARTIN

IT WILL BE back to the classroom shortly for all those of school age . . . Many will return next Tuesday while Charlevoix's youngsters will have another week of freedom before they must get back to readin' and writin' and 'rithmetic . . . After a summer in the sun the kids are all so tanned and look so wonderful it almost seems a crime to put them back in the classroom . . . especially if the weather is nice . . . But then, we'll never make scientists and teachers and what-have-you of them if they don't, so . . . back to school they'll go.

• • •

THEN THERE ARE those little folks who'll be going for the first time . . . And we don't know who'll shed the most tears . . . the children themselves or their mothers who are being brought face to face with the fact that their little Johnny and Jill are growing up . . . But it will be a happy day too . . . 'cause these little ones have been waiting all of five years for this day.

• • •

AND WON'T ALL YOU grown-ups as drivers be just a little more careful . . . Remember . . . these little folks have been chasing balls and playing all summer and they've sorta forgotten about traffic rules . . . They may see some little friend for the first time since June and dash off madly to greet him . . . You wouldn't want to spoil that reunion so do drive more cautiously than usual.

• • •

LABOR DAY'S a sad time of the year for us . . . because it seems as tho' we're saying goodbye to everyone . . . and we find it more than a little difficult to say 'goodbye' . . . to all our summer friends whom we won't be seeing for some nine or 10 months . . . Did you who are leaving ever stop to think what it's like for those of us who must remain here? . . . Every time we go around a corner we're looking for you and it takes a time for us to realize that you've gone home . . . Whether you believe it or not, you're pretty much a part of our lives . . . a part that's all too brief . . . so we'll miss you . . . To those of you who'll be leaving shortly . . . have a wonderful winter, take care of yourselves and we'll see you next June . . . And when you hear reports of snowstorms in northern Michigan, give us a thought or two, won't you?

• • •

SUMMER MEANS golf and the end of the summer usually means championship rounds . . . We understand there was a big tourney played off last week with Mrs. Harry Lesser and Mrs. Sol Hassenbusch defeating Mrs. Joseph Nathan and Mrs. David Liebschutz in a red-hot match which attracted quite a gallery.

• • •

BEFORE WE forget it, there's one other thing we'd like to mention about youngsters returning to school . . . The 'older' group will be returning to college campuses or taking off for the first time . . . We have no way of knowing about these kids unless you, their parents, tell us about them . . . Sure, we hear about a few but there are others we just never hear about . . . you see, the school does not notify us as some of you think . . . So won't you give us a buzz and tell us where and when your college students are going to enroll . . . We don't mean to neglect anyone . . . it's just that we have no way of knowing about them.

• • •

AS YOU MAY not know, all U. S. Coast Guard buoy tenders are named for shrubs or flowers . . . To name a few the Woodrus, the Hollyhock, Hyacinth and the Tamarack . . . Don't know what we thought our own Sundew was named for but since we'd never given it any thought, we were more than a bit surprised when Mrs. Ted Miller stopped by and asked if we'd ever seen a sundew . . . We were about to tell her where the ship was tied up when we noticed she had a 'something' in her hand . . . that something turned out to be a sundew plant . . . We're not kidding . . . there is such a plant . . . It's found in swampy areas of our north country and it's known as an insectivorous plant . . . that is, insects become trapped in its sticky leaves (which are a varigated red and green in color) and then the plant 'eats' them . . . One way of getting your vitamins, you know . . . but it's really true . . . it has a teensy flower that is rather nondescript . . . but it's the leaves that are eye-catching . . . really something to see.

• • •

IN THE MAIL this week a postcard from one of our traveling servicemen . . . Bob Miles . . . He's stationed in France with the U. S. Army . . . but when this was written he was on a swing through northern Europe including a stop in Copenhagen, Denmark, from where the card was mailed . . . Earlier he'd visited Italy and Switzerland and said he had seen many fine things and met many fine people . . . He ended by saying that he hoped to be home in December but must return to Europe as a civilian . . . from which we gather that he's enjoyed his duty there and the things he's seen.

• • •

IT WILL BE back to the gridiron Monday for more than 60 young high school athletes who'll be candidates for Rayder squads . . . That first week's going to be rugged . . . but we've got to get rollin' . . . It won't be too long before that first game . . . So lots of luck to Coach Carey and his fine boys who are going to give us a lot of good football this fall . . . just wait and see.

Voice of Our Readers . . .

Thanks to the Chamber of Commerce for making plans for the erection of a park stage which is badly needed and would be an improvement to our city. According to the zoning ordinance the East Park is located in the Scenic Reserve District and no structure or building is to be erected. The committee will have to proceed in a legal manner in order to avoid any entanglements in the future with the zoning ordinance.

The committee should also take into consideration that we badly need shower facilities for our summer boatsmen. The structure requires a foundation and it would not take much more to provide a basement with showers. That would bring in an additional revenue to the City.

Local Ministers Comment on Liquor In Temperance Week Observance

Fitting observance of Temperance Week will be observed in Charlevoix churches next Sunday, according to plans announced by the Charlevoix Ministerial association.

Stressing the importance of temperance, members of the association have submitted the following statements, drawing attention to temperance.

• • •

Rev. T. B. Thodeson

"Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging: and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise" —Proverbs 20:1.

Thus speaks the Holy Bible in revealing God's will to man. The persistent social indulgence in intoxicants is sure to bring confusion, disillusion, sorrow and poverty. Any person, community or nation that hopes for stability, to be influential and to maintain high standards cannot afford to accept intoxicants as belonging.

• • •

Fifty-five percent of an examined group of drivers who were killed at the wheel or who died within 24 hours of motor vehicle accidents in New York City in 1957 were under the influence of alcohol, the police department reported.

Add to this list the many others killed and injured in these accidents, and then multiply this by the thousands of cities, towns and villages where similar reports could be given, and you begin to see a little of the tragic picture of the growing use of alcoholic beverages in our land today.

Gladstone said, "The ravages of drink are greater than those of war, pestilence, and famine combined." This is not an exaggeration.

What can be done to halt this growing menace? Something can be done. As an organized society dedicated to the welfare of one and all, we can restrict the flow of glamorous and solicitous alcoholic beverage advertising, pouring into our homes daily.

• • •

Rev. Wilson H. Rinker

There is no more horrible condition than the state of drunkenness. Total abstinence is the only wise course to follow in view of the fact that Jesus Christ is coming again. The Bible says, "He will come as a thief in the night." Would you want to be found drunk? The Bible says that those who engage in drunkenness can have no part in the kingdom of heaven.

• • •

Rev. Fred O'Neil

The consumption of alcohol is one of the ways in which modern man, apparently ignorant of his world's crying out for moral leadership, continues to spit in his creator's face. No man can do this without contributing to the ruin of self, family, group, and nation.

Amos comes right to the point after discussing the sinfulness of Isreal, of which drinking was a most grievous example. He says "Prepare to meet your God." In the context of his fourth chapter and of today's world problems, it is worthy of our consideration.

England's largest and finest palace is Hampton Court, near London. Built by Cardinal Wolsey in 1515, and later the favorite residence of Honry VIII, its beautiful galleries and 44 acres of gardens are open to the public.

The Northport Methodist church was the scene Saturday evening of the wedding of Martha Lorraine Baumberger and Carlyle A Roberts jr.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baumberger of Northport and Mrs. Bertha Hicks Roberts of Charlevoix.

Arrangements of white gladioli formed a setting for the double ring service which was read by the Rev Robert J. Treat, pastor of the church. More than 250 guests witnessed the ceremony.

Mrs. George Ranger was the pianist and Judy Carlson the soloist. She sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Organizations Are Urged to Clear Dates for Functions

Organizations planning to sponsor bake sales or similar events are reminded that they should call Mrs. Thomas Maxwell and clear the date they would like to schedule their special event.

This 'clearing house' was established some time ago in order to do away with conflicts in scheduling such sales. During the summer, groups have become lax in reporting their plans so this reminder has been issued by Mrs. Maxwell.

Unpaid Baby-Sitter

There are a lot of advantages to having a well built fence, and not the least of them is the service it performs as a dog guard and baby sitter. A good fence built in a sturdy, but handsome, pattern of vertical offset boards basketweave or estate styling is not only escape-proof for two-footed roamers but also effective towards keeping wandering canines on the other side of the line. Such fences can be built inexpensively of tough wood like western red cedar, and either stained to match the house siding or trim, or left to weather to a soft gray shade.

Rocky Resources Of State Should Interest Tourists

Michigan, famous as a water wonderland, also is a rock wonderland.

Many places in this "rock wonderland" would be fine additions to summer tourists' itinerary, says George M. Ehlers, University of Michigan professor of geology.

Flat Rock has borne many names since its founding in 1924 and at one time was known as "Smooth Rock." Both names originated because the river bed at that point is located on a dolomite (Calcium magnesium carbonate) which overlies sandstone.

The U-M professor reports that Rogers City has "probably the biggest limestone quarry in the world." The quarry contains almost pure calcium carbonate, or fluxstone, a rock used in the steel and chemical industries. More Fluxstone is produced at the Rogers City quarry than at any other place in the U. S.

Another geological point of interest is Pictured Rocks, near Munising. "The colors of these sheer cliffs on Lake Superior are caused from iron oxides and various glauconitic material," Ehlers says.

Even older than the Munising rocks are the Pre-Cambrian ones found in the Keweenaw Peninsula. "These copper-bearing rocks are over 700 million years old," says Ehlers.

Ehlers explains that Michigan's rock formations are "like a series of saucers placed one on top of another, with the highest and smallest saucer containing the youngest rocks."

Some of these younger rocks (only 250 million years old), are located in quarries at Grand Ledge, near Lansing. "Some marine fossiles are found there," Ehlers says, advising fossil seekers to gain permission before exploring.

"Traveler to the Western side of the state can see present-day geology," Ehlers observes. One of the Lake Michigan sand dunes still forming is Sleeping Bear Dune near Leland, which is being eroded by the waves of Lake Michigan and wind.

At Pointe Aux Barques, are rocks which have been undercut by Lake Huron. These rocks, named by early Frenchmen in the area, look like sterns of ships, hence the name "Barques," meaning ships, says Ehlers.

Small Game Laws Remain Unchanged

Season lengths and bag limits on major small game species will be unchanged this year, following action this month by the state Conservation Commission.

Hunting seasons will open October 20 in the southern lower peninsula for pheasants, rabbits, squirrels, ruffed grouse, raccoon and woodchuck.

In northern portions of the state, the ruffed grouse season will be October 1-November 10, except on Hog Island which is closed to ruffed grouse hunting.

Rabbits, snowshoe hares, squirrels and raccoons also will be legal game north of highway M-20 beginning October 1.

One change in regulations closes the bobcat hunting season this year in the lower peninsula south of highway M-55, in Crawford county, and in Oscoda county west of highway M-33.

Another change closes Sugar Island, Chippewa county, to hunting for sharptail grouse and prairie chickens. In addition, bag limits on these game birds are reduced on Drummond Island to two birds per day, four in possession and eight per season.

Regulations on deer and waterfowl hunting are scheduled for consideration by the Commission in August.

The Bahamas, made up of 3,000 islands, caves and rocks, depend on the sea for transportation, food and wealth. From the time of the first settlement, the sea has been the chief highway. Columbus found dugout canoes that were capable of voyaging between islands. Fish has always been the main staple of diet.

Complicated Job

Buying a home is a pretty complicated job, the West Coast Lumbermen's Association advises. As an aid to prospective home buyers, especially to young married couples making their first investment in shelter, the lumbermen have issued a booklet, "How You Can Own a New Home." It is available without cost merely by writing to the association, Room PR-24, 1410 S.W. Morrison Street, Portland, Oregon.

Plan Color Areas That Unify Room

Carefully planned areas of color can help give a feeling of unity to a room, points out Jane Graff, extension home furnishings specialist at Michigan State University. Unity in a room is the feeling that everything goes together — a room with real unity is not "busy" or cluttered looking.

Windows, doors, individual pieces of furniture and accessories break up solid spaces and make for a "busy" or confused look. You need to pull these things together. Using one color for most of the large areas in the room is the quickest and most effective way to gain this unity, continues Miss Graff.

When planning a color scheme in a room, plan for large areas first. These include the floor, walls, large pieces of furniture and draperies.

Choose a color that the family likes and that goes well with colors in adjoining rooms. Use this color on 2/3 or more of the room area—concentrate on large unbroken color areas. Look at the size and layout of the room; your eye will tell you what areas make up 2/3 or more. If you want a small room to look larger, you'll probably want more than 2/3 of the room the same color.

Don't have fear of monotony when you use one color. Textures and values can be varied. In a kitchen you might use a green spatter pattern on the floor, a lighter green on the walls and a still lighter green for the cabinets.

An area of paterned wallpaper, printed fabric for draperies or a patterned floor may be what you'd like to add interest. Accessories of colorful enamel or pottery, copper, stainless steel, brass, and glassware can be used to lend variety, too.

When you're making your plan, plan in the proportion in which the color will be used. If light green is to be used on the walls, have a large swatch as this is usually the largest area in the room. Have a medium-sized swatch for the lighter green of the cabinets and a proportionate sample of the floor covering. How colors will look in the room depends on the proportions used.

It's a good idea to see a large sample of a color that is planned for a wall or other large surface. The more of a color that is used the stronger it becomes. What looks fine on a small chip sample may be overpowering when you get it on four walls, concludes Miss Graff.

The Eskimo village of Kotzebue, Alaska, holds an annual Fourth of July celebration that includes foot and boat races, acrobatics, and dancing and beauty contests, the National Geographic Magazine says. Instead of bathing suits, entrants for the title of Miss Arctic wear fur parkas.

Stretch Your Yard

Best way to make a small, hard-to-manage back yard into something livable and beautiful is to convert much of it into a wood-decked patio. The deck can be multi-level, to give added illusion of size. It can be inexpensive if built of ordinary grades of Douglas for dimension lumber set on sturdy fir frames. Deck floor can be made of 2x4s set on edge or flat, or 2x6s laid flat with a quarter inch space between each board for water runoff.

The Druses fighting in Lebanon's civil war are an 11th-century religious sect, the National Geographic Magazine says. They constitute a large and important segment of the Lebanese population of 1,500,000. Though Druse beliefs are shrouded in secrecy, the clansmen venerate the sixth Egyptian Fatimid Caliph Hakim.

A Touch of Greatness

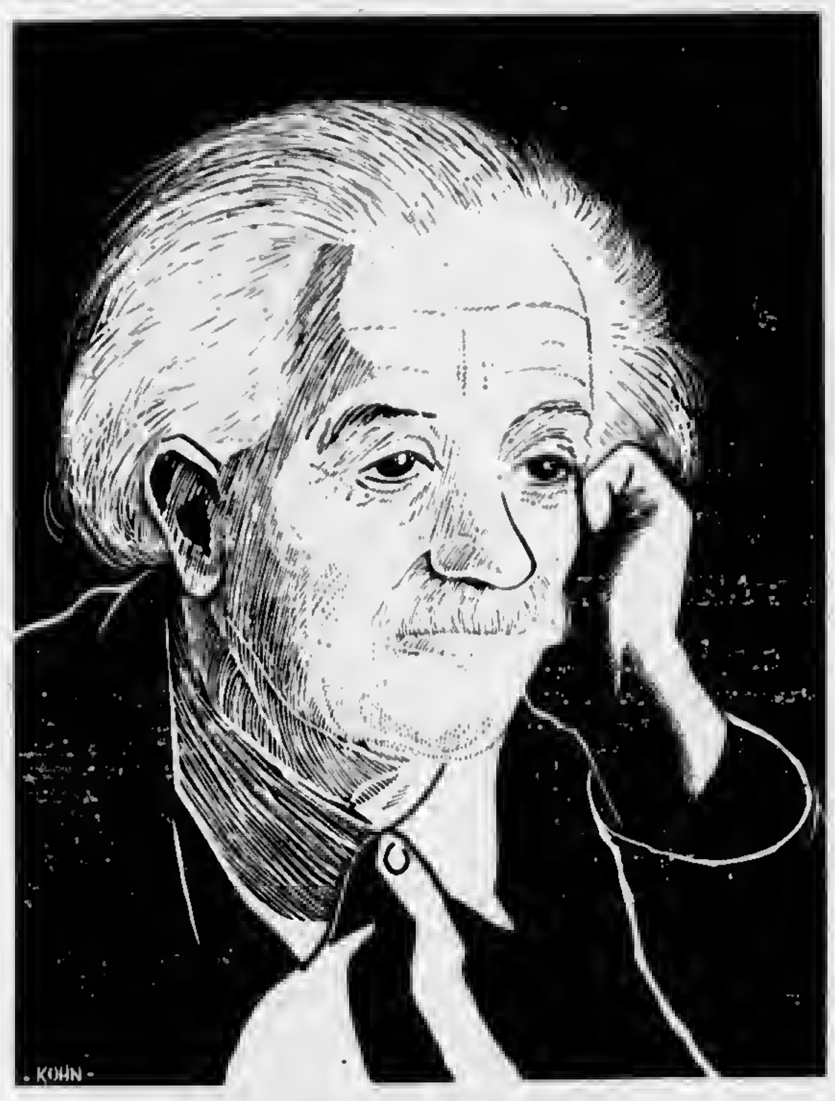
By Harold E. Kohn



ALBERT EINSTEIN

A High Regard For Human Beings

While taking a world tour Albert Einstein made a stopover in China. There he observed that a principal means of transportation was by jinrikisha, originally a Japanese invention, a small two-wheeled carriage drawn by native Chinese. Einstein refused to ride in one of these vehicles. He explained, "I will not be a part of making any man a draft animal."

Such a conviction of the innate worth and dignity of human life is found in great men everywhere. They will not treat human beings as beasts, because men, women and children are more than animals. They are creatures set above the rest of the animal kingdom by their capacities for loving, for being strangely stirred by beauty, for creating, for having high purposes toward which they work. They are the beings that dread futility, that wish to count for something, that hope to have some effect upon the world that is their very own effect. They are the animals concerned about their own ignorance, eager to know more, dissatisfied with what they are. They are the mortals capable of worship.

Because of what man has done to man in recent wars, and because of the realization of what man can do to man in the future, we are inclined to take a dim view of human nature. Our pessimism concerning the nature of man is shown when a person makes a moral blunder and we say, "Well, he's only human, you know." Or when another falls into waywardness we half excuse him by exclaiming, "That's human nature for you!"

Of course man has a sinful, rebellious, and weak side to his nature, and it is the purpose of religion to lead him to redemption. But man has the breath of God in him, too, as the Genesis account of creation points out, and no one understands human nature at all who does not recognize in man that touch of the Eternal. When the Titanic sank on her maiden voyage with terrible loss of life, one American periodical carried two illustrations of the disaster. One was a sketch of the great ship, supposedly indestructible, striking the ice berg and splitting wide open. Beneath this picture was the inscription, "The weakness of man, the supremacy of nature." Beside this drawing was another, picturing one of the ship's passengers, W. T. Stead, stepping back to offer his seat in the last lifeboat to a woman with a little child. The act meant certain death for him. Underneath this picture were the words, "The weakness of nature, the supremacy of man."

If it is the weakness of human nature that makes sinkable ships, it is the glory of human nature to die sacrificially trying to save others when those ships go down. If we exclaim, "That's human nature" when we see moral failure, we can just as truly repeat that assertion when we witness moral triumph. If the Prodigal Son was human when he left home to go to the far country to spend his substance in riotous living, he was just as human when he turned homeward in penitence. If human nature is sometimes egotistical, strutting its stuff before all on-lookers, seeking acclaim, delighting in self-display, human nature is also the desire to be useful, attempting to do good quietly, caring more for being serviceable than for public applause. If man is capable of being a sinner, he also has a potential for saintliness. If there are occasions when he acts like the devil, there are others when he is godlike.

Say what we will about human nature, pretend, as we will, that we are cynical about it, yet we betray our deep belief in its value whenever the sense of tragedy arises in us, when a young person dies, or when an injustice is perpetrated upon a member of our community. Tragedy denotes profound regard for human beings. If human beings were worthless, then it would not matter if they were driven like beasts in the traces of a jinrikisha in China, or if they died in a war, or wasted their lives in purposelessness. The fact that, to nearly all of us, it does matter what happens to human beings means that we have an awareness of the value of people, and to the measure that we love people and work for their welfare we are partakers of the greatness of the God who is love and the God who cares.

Vacation Facilities Attract Industry to Michigan

Some Michigan oommunities may have new industries before another summer vacation period rolls around because a visiting manufacturer enjoys its recreation facilities and some local resident is alert to the possibility.

In its program to bring more industry and jobs to Michigan, the state's Econmic Development is expanding its "tourist screening" project.

Started several years ago as a summer program, the Economic Development Department now urges communities to continue the "screening" program throughout the year as Michigan increases in popularity as an all-year reacreation area.

* * *

CHAMBERS of Commerce and industrial development groups are being asked to mobolize service station attendants, hotel, motel and restaurant employees and all persons associated with the resort trade to "talk up" their areas as good locations for industry.

The Economic Development Department has some specific examples to back up its program.

Charlevoix has an industry because a South Bend, Indiana, manufacturer was forced into port here during a Chicago-Mackinac race a few years ago. He liked the town well enough to buy a cottage. The more time he spent here, the more he liked the community. Eventually, at the suggestion of a Chamber of Commerce official he located his manufacturing operation here.

* * *

REED CITY has a growing industry that developed into an international business because a Niles industrial official liked the Osceola County community on a visit there.

Up in Leelanau County an industry was added some years ago because a long-time vacationer was watching a baseball game.

When the victorious hometown team walked off the field, the visitor commented "If you boys can work as hard as you play ball, I'll open a branch of my company here." They proved they were as good workers as they were ball players. Some of those ball players still work in the company's plant there.

* * *

TO ASSIST in this "tourist screening" program, the Economic Development Department has prepared a manual with suggestions on how to make the program most effective.

A White Cloud restaurant carries on its menu some of the area's advantages to industry.

In a number of other localities, cards carrying invitations to industry to locate there are on display.

One of the important features of such a program, the department stresses, is to have everyone in the community familiar with sources which can provide definite information on industrial locations and advantages. These include the Chamber of Commerce, industrial development groups, public officials and representatives of railroads and public utilities.

* * *

IF A PROSPECT is located among a community's visitors, agents of the Economic Development Department are available to help "sell" him on Michigan's natural resources, its markets, skilled workers and transportation system.

Senator Potter Abhors Tactics Racketeers Within Unions

EXTORTION, murder and theft by certain union bosses, as revealed by the Senate rackets committee for almost two years, have shocked the nation. The sordid tale, culminating recently in the horrible death by burning of a teamster thug, has sparked a number of letters from rank-and-file union members, who have appealed to me for legislative safeguards against the criminal elements in their midst.

There is considerable doubt whether a protective law will be enacted this year. The extremely moderate labor bill, passed almost unanimously by the Senate, has been bottled up in the House. In my view, Congress has a mandate to act. It is failing a solemn duty and flouting public opinion if it leaves Washington without protecting union members from these offenses.

A HIGHLY-PLACED Commerce Department official recently confessed in public that petroleum and steel products are leaking into Soviet bloc countries. I am told that aviation gas has gone into Prague, soft sheet steel into the USSR itself, bunker fuel to Russian ships and lubricating oil for farm implements elsewhere behind the iron curtain. If this is so, it is in direct defance of the Battle Act. In the best interests of the United States, no such strategic items—even in the smallest quantity — should be permitted to squeak through. Steel and oil, as is well known, have a war potential.

I am looking into the matter no wand if the facts justify it, will recommend a Congressional investigation. I would want to know first if steel or oil is slipping through our restrictive barlers; second, to what extent these violations are occurring; and third, whether we should stiffen penalties for the lawbreakers.

ANOTHER 11,000 Michigan farm families are receiving rural mail service under an extension ordered by the Post Office early this month. For some time I have been urging the Postmaster General to include additional families. After some study, he ordered an expansion touching 300,000 rural homes throughout the United States. Back in 1953, four families to the square mile were required before extensions were authorized. This was liberalized to three, and the latest action cuts it to two families per mile.

HE MAY BE AN INDUSTRIAL PROSPECT

The visitor to your town or to the lakes and streams of your area is an important person.

But he may be more important than you think; more important, that is, to the future of your town. He may be the executive of a manufacturing company which could consider your town as the location for its expansion, now or in the future.

Talk to him about your town as a good place for industry to locate and prosper. At the slightest indication that he might someday be an industrial prospect, or that he could lead your town to one, call in a representative of your industrial development committee for detailed discussion with him. A town on its toes always looks good.

Almost always you'll find that a company's interest in a town began when somebody visited the town and liked it.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

This ad is published as a public service by this newspaper in cooperation with the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Economic Development Department.

Michigan Press Association

RIVALS FOR SPACE in Michigan's wonderland of lakes and forests are bringing to a head the crises of the state as it prepares for its future.

The issues are being made clear — whether industry and the rich resort industry can live together in Michigan.

With the coming of the St. Lawrence Seaway expected next year, its deep channels making Michigan a world port, the fight is already embarrassing state officials.

THEY ARE ALREADY alarmed that the broad rights-of-way of the highway revolution, which desperately are needed by the state, are taking wide strips of valuable land.

* * *

CITIZENS in the Tawas City area are opposing construction of a 1,000-foot dock and a 3,000-foot deep channel into Lake Huron by the National Gypsum Co.

At a recent hearing in Lansing they offered evidence that the project is ruining the beach area and is lowering the value of valuable resort property.

* * *

COMPANY officials, who contended they have always tried hard to be "good neighbors," said the economic benefits to the state generally would outweigh the "minor" disadvantages.

City and county officials painted a dark picture of the consequences if the company is not allowed to build its dock and deep-water channel to facilitate shop-loading for the market.

Both sides have powerful arguments.

Michigan is advertised and promoted as a tourist mecca. The resort industry is a $600,00,000-a-year business. Its leaders want to protect it from exploitation by industry.

* * *

MICHIGAN IS known on a world scale as the home of the automobile and the spawning place of big industry.

tIs Great Lake routes provide a ready-made channel for world trade through the St. Lawrence Seaway. Industry needs access to the water routes.

* * *

STATE GOVERNMENT has a special agency, the Department of Economic Development, assigned to lure industry to Michigan. Another agency, the State Tourist Council, promotes resorts and travel in the state.

* * *

NATURALISTS organized a special group to oppose a proposed lease of a wilderness state forest area in Porcupine Mountains State Park, in the Upper Peninsula, to a copper mining firm. It is the last wilderness in Michigan.

The company wants to obtain the mineral rights on 933 acres of state property, plus several thousand acres of underwater land in Lake Superior.

* * *

SPORTSMEN and other nature groups argue that the fumes from the mining operation will damage the forest, the access roads will wreck its beauty.

The same arguments prevail in both disputes.

Some upper peninsula residents, eager to develop the area industrially, are supporting the lease, which the state conservation commission is empowered to award.

* * *

SLIGHTLY different in impact, but identical in principle, is the controversy over the routes of new state superhighways which bypass small towns and their businesses.

The shops, service stations and retaurants along U.S. 16, the new Brighton-Farmington bypass, have already had the experience.

* * *

SOME PEOPLE object that their businesses have dropped in volume. Others predict they will come back later.

Mt. Pleasant and Clare facing a bypass in the relocation and new superhighway construction of U. S. 27, are wrapped up in the controversy.

Complicating the problem now is the thought that the 90 per cent Federal aid for highway construction in Michigan could be threatened if the towns are not by passed.

The Federal Bureau of Public Roads offers the aid only for limited-access four-lane highways — a factor that might be defined as requiring the bypasses.

The whole question must be faced by Michigan, now or later.

Annual Statistical and Financial Report for the Charlevoix Public Schools

1957-1958

A Statement of the General Condition of the Charlevoix Public Schools and Problems Facing The School

There are two serious problems facing the Schools for the year 1958-59.

1. The High School building is not only inadequate for the number of students, but does not permit the program a modern curriculum demands and the people of Charlevoix desire.

2. The membership in the Elementary School is so distributed that certain grades have too many for satisfactory results. Illustration: The first grade may have as many as 70 for two rooms; the sixth grade may have as many as 78 for two rooms; the fourth and fifth grades have 3 teachers for the 2 grades and have a good distribution. The only room available to help the first and sixth grade problem would be to use the present art and music room for one class room, but the other grade must continue as it is. This would require the music and art teacher to move from room to room for her program.

The recommendation that offers the most satisfactory solution is the one made by the Study groups of last year, i.e.: A new high school that would permit the seventh grade to be removed from the present elementary building and two rooms made available for the early elementary grades.

Red Devils Win Championship

The Zephyr Red Devils captured the Peanut League Championship Monday night when they edged the White Cross Tigers 8 to 7 in the play off game at Kipke field.

Zephyr won the second round and the Tigers the first round to win berths in the play-off.

Herb Cummings was the hero of the game as he hit a triple, two doubles and a single to drive in six runs. He scored Mike Crain with the winning run in the bottom of the seventh to give the Devils the title in their first year of play.

* * *

Jim Racignol led the Tigors with two hits, both singles.

Bagwell Takes Issue With Governor's Denial of Hoffa

Paul D. Bagwell, Republican nominee for governor, this week snapped back at Governor Williams' allegations linking James R. Hoffa to the Republican party:

"Intellectual dishonesty," he snorted. "Williams used Hoffa and his Teamsters union until they were no longer of any political value and then accuses the Republican party of harboring them.

"In the 1952 election Williams campaigned in one of Hoffa's Cadillacs. Accompanying our chief executive in this donated automobile were Hoffa's nephew and his most trusted aid.

"And this isn't just hearsay," Bagwell said. "I have the license number of the Cadillac and the names of the two teamsters who accompanied Williams during the campaign. The car even bore Hoffa's name on the radiator.

"But now Hoffa's name and reputation are such that his support is no longer an asset. And so he has been magnanimously willed to the Republican party by the governor.

"It's an insult to the intelligence of the voting public to presume that the people will swallow such propaganda," Bagwell said.

"If Williams had admitted he had erred in judgement I believe the people would have forgiven him," he said, "but this blatant attempt to discredit the Republican party by such absurd claims is, to me, a political maneuver which will backfire.

"I expect this to become a major issue in the 1958 campaign," he said. "The governor set the table, now let him eat what he prepared."

Softball Results

In the Junior league of the city softball circuit, VFW, first round winners, were to play Lake Construction last night (Wednesday) for the second round title.

A win by VFW squad would give them the league title. However, if Lake Construction won the game a play-off will be necessary.

If a play-off game is necessary it will be scheduled for 7:15 p.m. Friday.

The highlight of the Junior league season will come tonight (Thursday) when the North Side All-Stars square off against the South Side All-Stars at 7:15 p.m.

THE NORTH SIDE team is composed of players from the north and west sides of town and the South Side squad of players from the valley and south side.

Named to the north side nine were Tony Duerr, Gary Balch, John Norton, Corky Curtis and John Pearl, all of Edwards' team; Don Nowland, Kurt Curtis and Butch Wagner of VFW; Stewart Boal and Jack Stewart of Lake Construction; Dan Moss and Pete Phillips of Browe Electric.

Presentation of trophies Class A and B winners, if they are determined by that time, and ribbons to the Peanut league champions, the Zephyr Red Devils, will follow.

In the Class A league batting race, Ron Cunningham appears to have the trophy all wrapped up with a big lead with only one game remaining to be played.

Ron Cunningham	48	19	.396
Harvey Cole	60	20	.333
Deano Davenport	51	17	.333
Ted Potter	55	17	.309
Bill Lusk	42	13	.308

Atomic Blasts May Open Door to More Riches

Atomic explosions may dig a harbor in Alaska's coast, about 100 miles north of the Arctic Circle.

The harbor would open the way to what may prove a bonanza of coal, oil, asbestos, zinc, tin, copper, gold, and other mineral ores. The lack of ports has so far prevented extensive development of this wealth, but the Atomic Energy Commission has announced that nuclear excavation of a harbor may begin in 1960, if surveys are favorable.

The area under study is in Alaska's Second Judicial Division, one of the four great territories into which Alaska is divided, the National Geographic Society says. The Second Division, with headquarters in Nome, includes most of the western coast facing Siberia and the northern coast fronting on the Arctic Ocean.

The site of the harbor would probably be between Cape Thompson and Cape Seppings, northwest of Kotzebue Sound. The surrounding country is sparsely inhabited by Eskimos, who live largely by hunting and fishing.

Northwest Alaska, the frontier country of the recently approved 49th State, has become something of a forgotten land since the Nome gold rush in the early 1900's. Despite popular belief, the section is not excessively cold. Kotzebue, an Eskimo village near the harbor area, has a mean July temperature of about 52 degrees Fahrenheit. Gardens at Unalakleet, less than 200 miles from the Arctic Cicle, have produced excellent vegetable crops.

Arctic waters, though icy, may support several times more marine life than tropical waters, because cold waters are a better solvent for life-giving oxygen than warm waters near the Equator. Species are fewer, but the sea teams with plankton, a prime food of whales and other sea life.

Northwest Alaska boasts king crabs with leg spans of seven feet. A king crab may weigh up to 22 pounds, of which 25 to 30 per cent is pure meat. Shrimp, clams, cod, herring, halibut, salmon, and other seafood are also found in the area.

The Second Division, more than half as big as Texas, is practically barren in the upland country and mountains, but elsewhere lichens, shrubs, flowers, grasses, and other vegetation grow. Reindeer have been successfully raised, and authorities believe the territory could support many more.

The Eskimo has proved his ability to fit into civilization, and may become invaluable in the development of the region. At the same time, the colorful Eskimo customs may someday make Kotzebue and other northwest Alaska towns popular as tourist resorts.

During daylong festivities each Fourth of July, the Kotzebue Eskimos hold dance contests in which the stories of whale hunts are related. Drummers pound sealskin stetched over wooden hoops, while women chant. Furclad Eskimo belles vie for the title of Miss Arctic Circle.

A corrugated box that stands up under the drenching of hundreds of gallons of icy water is the newest development in the corrugated box industry. Above, peaches in the new boxes are being taken from the hydro-cooler that removes the field heat from peaches. The development of M/R (moisture resistant) corrugated board for boxes will have wide application in the produce industry. Early tests by Hinde & Dauch Division of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company show that use of corrugated boxes reduces peach damage in transit by 50%.

First Maple Syrup Festival In Spring

The one on the campus in East Lansing has been tapped regularly since 1915 and during that period it has been shown that the trees have continued to increase in diameter and are in vigorous condition.

The making of maple syrup is a process known to the American Indians for many centuries.

When the first white men came to the North American continent where the only sugar maples grow, they found the Indians making syrup and sugar by dropping stones, heated in a fire, into vats of sap made by hollowing out huge logs.

The resulting syrup and sugar were used as items of barter by the Indians. Prior to 1875, maple sugar was the principal sweet commerce in the United States.

CHARLEVOIX has all the prime requisites including warm sunny days and cold nights for an excellent maple syrup harvest.

The Charlevoix Kiwanis club has voted to capitalize on these to give Charlevoix its first Maple Syrup Festival next spring.

Which Way Are The Fashions Going?

If one is trying to follow the latest in back to school togs it may become somewhat of a problem as to which way our fashions are going. It seems plaids are gaining popularity among the young set, chemise, sheath and box pleat skirts have taken hold because of the versitility. Many manufacturers have designed dual purpose clothing to stretch the student wardrobe dollar yet give as many as three interchangeable outfits, matching or contrasting with the purchase of what you could call one outfit.

The chemise overblouse with matching sheath skirt should become a very popular combination for the more formal high school event.

The long pull in sweaters look a little like a throw back from grandmothers time but this follows the trend of a few years back when it was a must to wear a sweater at least four sizes too large.

You young men will find the "Como" sweater still doing top honors but finding a tough challenger in the (new?) heavy knits.

Here again if we go back a few years or just dig out some of dad's old sweaters you will find styles are changing, changing back to when dad was a lad.

Ivy league slacks seem to be doing very well but there again we find only one place to go, and that is back to pleats which we must agree was a little more flattering to those of us who are heavy eaters.

But with all of our style changes we still find the youth of any community setting fashions to suit their own desires and doing a very nice job of looking sharp and well groomed.

Out of the past . . .

If the walls of the Mormon Printing House on Beaver Island could talk, they could repeat the tales of one of the stormiest chapters of Michigan's history.

Within the walls of the historic structure were set up in type and printed the teachings of James Jesse Strang, who declared himself 'king' of a Mormon colony more than a century ago.

It was here that the first daily newspaper in northern Michigan, "The Northern Islander, was printed. Started as a weekly newspaper in December, 1850, there were 90 issues printed irregularly. Changing to a daily it lasted for 33 issues when rebellion against the rule of "King" Strang resulted in his untimely death.

After Strang's assissination at the hands of three island residents who resented his iron-handed rule, everything that had the mark of a Mormon was abandoned, including the print shop. The building however, was left to the elements and was about to be razed a few years ago when two southern Michigan men, A. J. Roy of Pontiac and A. P. Hoffman of Plymouth purchased the property and resold to the Beaver Island Civic association for an historical museum. The building has been squared up on a substantial foundation, painted, roofed and new windows added. Museum pieces are being collected on a donation or loan basis for the exhibit to be installed.

For an ever to be remembered cruise to historic Beaver Island, a spot of natural beauty, rich in history and legend. Once ruled by King Strang, the Island was the only kingdom ever to exist within the bounderies of the United States. Here too, lived Dr. Protar, reputed Russian nobleman in exile, who devoted the last years of his life ministering to the sick. And, on the Island still stands the building which housed the first daily newspaper printed in northern Michigan.

Accomodations on the Island are excellent for an extended vacation or a one day visit, and "Welcome to America's Emerald Isle," is the friendly greeting to the visitor.

City Beautiful On Three Lakes

Charlevoix is truly an example of Michigan's Water Wonder Land, bordering the clear blue waters of Lake Michigan on the west, beautiful Lake Charlevoix on the east, and completely surrounding Round Lake in the very heart of the city.

The community was first established as a lumbering center and soon became an important shipping point because of the accessible waterways so necessary to transportation in pioneer days. But early visitors foresaw more than a commercial center in Charlevoix. As the lumbering industry declined the community gained popularity as a summer resort area.

Next came the railroad, followed by the automobile and good highways. Each contributed to the development of Charlevoix as one of the favored resort areas of the north.

Yachtsmen, too, have discovered a literal boatsman's paradise in the Charlevoix yacht basin in Round Lake where they can dock in slips bordering a beautiful, well-kept park convenient to the city's shopping center. Headquartering in the Charlevoix harbor, the yachtsman has complete protection along with every convenience and is accessible to restful cruises on the two long arms of Lake Charlevoix and the waters of northern Lake Michigan.

Rayder Gridmen Practicing Daily for Approaching Games

Charlevoix Rayders are reporting for two practice sessions daily in preparation for the 1958 grid season which is scheduled to open Friday, Sept. 19, with Rogers City playing here.

Coach Don. Carey said Wednesday that conditioning would be the chief goal this week as candidates for the Varsity squad confine their efforts to callesthenics during the 8 to 10 a.m. and 4 to 6 p.m. practice sessions. Fundamentals, drills and finally some plays will be the program followed during the next week, he added.

Among the more than 35 juniors and seniors already reporting daily for Varsity practice sessions are the following lettermen: Bill Pouquette, Mike Geneit, R. Ostrom and Tom Lakies, backs; Ron Vandenberg and Floyd Genia, ends and Dick Muma, Scott Supernaw, Ken Wojan and Steve Wells, linemen, who are seniors and Gary Balch and Stan Smith, backs; Bruce Pease, lineman, and Dick VanRaaphorst, end, who are juniors.

Two other seniors, Steve LaBlance, an end, and Erik Arvilla, a lineman, are expected to report, for practice after completing summer jobs.

Nearly 20 juniors who saw action with the Reserve squad last season are reporting regularly and are expected to give the lettermen mentioned above plenty of competition for the starting assignments, Coach Carey said.

A number of freshmen and sophomores are reporting for the reserve squad practice sessions under Coach Terry Rice. However, this program will start in earnest with the opening of school next week. When regular sessions get underway it is expected that another 35 players will be out for the squad.

Swainson to the Rescue!

When Paul D. Bagwell, Republican candidate for governor, spoke at the Ionia Free Fair he challenged his opponent, Governor Williams to a series of debates on campaign issues in the 1958 gubernatorial race. At that time Mr. Williams, also a speaker at the fair, told reporters that debates are "not in the great tradition of American politics," and that he preferred the "accepted type of campaign."

There followed an official invitation, a personal letter from Mr. Bagwell to his opponent, to discuss the issues. Next a Detroit television station (WWJ-TV) offered its facilities as a public service for four 30-minute debates during October.

Apparently the pressure to discuss state issues has become too heavy for the governor and recent reports are to the effect he will disrupt his "heavy schedule" and discuss Michigan campaign issues in one meeting with Mr. Bagwell despite the fact that he (the governor) has stated, "The main issue in this campaign is the national recession." Should we interpret that to mean that the fate of the nation rests on the election of a Michigan governor?

Now comes a reverse in thinking from Mr. Williams' running mate, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, Senator John B. Swainson. In a press release dated Aug. 29 he has invited his opponent, Republican candidate Donald A. Brown of Royal Oak, to meet him on television to discuss the "issues confronting Michigan."

Senator Swainson's announcement states that he feels it "the duty of any candidate for public office to take the issues to the people as long as this was done in an appropriate manner." He calls attention to the offer of four public service half hours offered by station WWJ-TV.

We have no basis for questioning the sincerety of Senator Swainson's proposal beyond the fact that his suggestion is so contradictory to that of the governor who said debates are "not in the great tradition of American politics." In view of the free television time offered and Mr. Williams apparent reluctance to discuss state issues with Mr. Bagwell, could it be Mr. Swainson's offer is to save face for his running mate, the Democratic candidate for governor.

If, however, Senator Swainson believes there are campaign issues within the state of Michigan, he would be a worthy opponent for Mr. Bagwell in public debate and on the ballot.

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

SEPT. 1, 1959 . . . though autumn is still three weeks away by the calendar we actually greeted the new season Monday . . . for Labor Day means the beginning of fall in these parts, as far as we're concerned . . . The majority of our summer visitors are gone and the day marks the beginning of a whole new way of life as far as those who remain here are concerned.

* * *

THE SUMMER was nice while it lasted, didn't you think? . . . But it's been all too brief . . . Soon, like in the song, leaves will come tumbling down round our heads and it will be Indian Summer . . . Before we know it Hallowe'en will be here, then the deer hunting season and winter.

* * *

BUT BEFORE ALL that there will be the beginning of school next week and then football . . . The lil ole Rayders got their first workout Monday . . . and what a workout . . . If you saw everyone limping around it was because they'd found a whole new batch of muscles they'd forgotten about . .. But come next week at this time they'll be whipped into shape and then there'll be fundamentals . . . good ole fundamentals . . . and drills and finally plays in preparation for opening game Sept. 19.

* * *

EARLIER THIS summer we saw the most unusual African violet . . . It was raised by Mrs. Harold Bedford and had the most beautiful frilly blossoms and white leaves on it . . . If you African violet fanciers are looking for something new and different you should see this . . . We found it very beautiful and unusual.

AS THIS WAS being written Monday we had a visit from Quint Walker who wants the world to know he's home and happy to be here . . . We told him we'd be really happy to tell everyone about it so here 'tis . . . He's back from two years service, most of which was spent in the Far East.

* * *

HAD A CHAT the other day with Mrs. William VanRaaphorst who told us that there's a possibility that a story about their house and others in the same block might appear in a national magazine . . . Seems a writer for Life magazine was going thru town, saw the house and asked if he might take pictures of it . . . Mrs. Van explained about the house and the others in the block as well as about the Weathervane and Earl A. Young who has planned every inch of every one . . . Using the theme "Houses out of Fairland," he did a series of pictures which he hopes the magazine will use . . . Wouldn't it be wonderful if the editor of the pictoral magazine did decide to use it? . . . What a grand bit of publicity for everyone concerned . . . So keep your fingers crossed!

* * *

IT'S BACK TO school this week . . . for a lot of youngsters going away to school . . . and for scads of youngsters returning to grade or high school . . . It will be great fun seeing the kids again . . . But won't you drivers be a bit more careful . . . As we said before, returning to school after a summer of freedom is pretty rugged and the kids may be a little careless so won't you watch your driving . . . Our town has suffered enough tragedy for one summer, don't you think?

* * *

WE'VE SEEN many dahlias but last week we had three of the most beautiful ones we ever hope to see . . . A salmon pink in color, the three blossoms all on one stalk measured eight inches or better . . . Our friend, John Rosquist, brought us the lovely flowers and said they were just a few of many that he had at his fruit farm.

Incidently, he also brought us some apricots . . . some special ones that he's developing for Michigan State University . . . We think they're jucier and tastier than the average apricot . . . We sure hope they turn out to be everything that Michigan State is seeking in an apricot . . . It would certainly be an addition to the varieties of fruits offered today . . . And a feather in Mr. R's cap, so to speak . . .

* * *

A COLD, STARK tragedy it was that struck our town last week . . . with three young lives snuffed out in less time than it takes to tell it . . . The heart-ache that follows is beyond description . . . All that is left to be said is that we're sorry . . . It will be echoed a million times in the days ahead . . . We hope it helps just a little to lessen the loss.

Diggings at Cannae Battle Site

After more than 2,000 years, the Battle of Cannae is still making news and influencing people.

The Italian Government has lately started digging at the site of Hannibal's overwhelming defeat of the Romans in 216 B. B. It is hoped the extensive excavations will establish the exact location of the classic battle and bring to light more details on the period.

Such information would not only be of keen interest to historians and archeologists. It would provide a fresh sightseeing goal for visitors who are beginning to discover the appeal of classical scenes in Italy's long-neglected southeastern provinces.

The Cannae site lies about 10 miles west of the Adriatic seaport, Barletta, in Apulia Province, says the National Geographic Society.

Authorities agree that the battle took place beside the river known as Aufidus in ancient times, and now called the Ofanto. The question as to which bank is still unsettled, however, with an added complcation. The river has since shifted its course.

The Cannae engagement was a nearly decisive one in the second of the three Punic Wars fought between Carthage and Rome. The prologue opened in 218 B.C., when the Carthaginian general, Hannibal, crossed the Alps to carry the war into northern Italy. After winning a succession of victories there, he moved down the peninsula and met Rome's massed legions on the plain of Cannae.

By that time Hannibal's forces had dwindled to perhaps 35,000 infantrymen and 10,000 cavalry. The Romans, under the joint command of Consuls Varro and Paulos, numbered about 70,000 infantry and 6,000 horsemen.

As historians reconstruct the event, Hannibal planned his strategy with consummate skill. He drew up his lines in the form of a horseshoe, with the weaker Gallic and Spanish troops in the forward center and veteran African forces making up the powerful wings extended toward the rear.

When the center gave way, as planned, the wings closed in on the trapped Romans in a giant pincer movement. Crack cavalry moved around and completed the encirclement. The result was virtual annihilation of the Roman hordes at a cost of only six or seven thousand of Carthage's men.

Later, Hannibal went on to other victories in southern Italy. Although he failed to take Rome, and eventually had to abandon the Italian campaigns, he left to future military tacticians the dramatic object lesson of the first recorded pincer maneuver.

Relics turned up so far include quantities of human bones, weapons, metal ornaments, vases, and bowls. Some are on view in a museum built recently near the ruins of the early town of Cannae, which survived until the Middle Ages.

Modern visitors to this Italian Adriatic region are enchanted by its scenes of fishing villages and farms set amid vineyards, olive and almond groves; by its Roman ruins and medieval castles.

South of the Cannae site stretches the strange stone world of the trulli — the unique cone-shaped cottages that peasants have built with convenient field limestone since time immemorial.

But the emphasis is not all on the past in this part of Italy. A land reclamation project is now underway, with irrigation and power dams rising on many of the rivers, including the Ofanto system.

If you keep your ear to the ground you can pick up a lot of dirt.

Eight Men Called for Pre-Induction Exams

Eight Charlevoix county draft registrants will be called for pre-induction physical examinations in October, Mrs. Mary Bourgoin, clerk of the draft board, said this week.

There will be no draft call for next month.

On Wednesday C. Thomas Bleha and Wilfred R. Browe of Charlevoix and Lawrence M. Kirby of Boyne City left for induction into the armed services to fill the county's September draft quota. No one was called for pre-induction physical examinations.

No matter how tough the problem, do something — then try again!

Exchange Student From Ireland To Attend Charlevoix High School

She'll tell you that her name's really Elizabeth Rebecca Mary Ann Saunders but she prefers the name of "Ruby" . . . for her grandmother, she'll explain.

She's 17, a native of Bangor, North Ireland where she attended Bangor Collegiate Girls' School. She is the daughter of James Saunders, an engineer, and Mrs. Saunders, a primary school teacher.

She arrived in Charlevoix recently to spend the next nine months with Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Saltonstall and their daughters, Connie and Wendy.

Though she was graduated in June from the Bangor school, she will enroll next week as a senior in the Charlevoix high school.

* * *

SHE IS IN this country on a scholarship offered by the Michigan Council of Churches and already she's fallen in love with the United States.

Despite her petiteness, Ruby likes adventure and it was this interest that resulted in her present trip to the United States.

When a notice announcing the exchange student scholarship appeared on the bulletin board at her school, she figured that it would be good for a try so she applied.

She'd quite given up any hopes of winning it when she was notified in mid-June that she and a classmate, Isabel Miller, had been selected to represent Ireland in the program.

In less than a month they were in Belfast preparing for the trip which was to take them to London where they were among 75 students from England, Holland, Germany, Belgium and Finland who departed July 12 via chartered plane for the United States.

* * *

THEY HAD their first glimpse of this country when they landed briefly in Boston. After a day in New York City where they spent most of their time at the United Nations building, they continued their trip to Ann Arbor.

After two weeks there, where all the students were briefed on American ways and customs they departed to the communities where all will live during the forthcoming school year.

Ruby spent two weeks in Fenton before becoming a part of the Saltonstall family and the community in an effort to learn more about life in this country.

The vastness of this country was the first thing that impressed the young visitor. American highways and the speed of American cars are two other things that have left her quite breathless.

* * *

PROBABLY THE thing that surprised her most is something all Americans take for granted . . . Bermuda shorts. At first she thought they were little boys' pants. She soon found, however, that they were an important part of the wardrobe of young America.

Since being introduced to them by Mrs. Saltonstall and Connie and Wendy she's practically lived in them and now only dons a 'frock', as she calls a dress, for formal occasions.

The informal attire worn by professional and business men also shocked her which is understandable when one realizes that in Ireland the well-dressed man wears formal morning coat, striped trousers and a bowler when he leaves for the office.

She has found the business suit as well as the sport shirts, jackets and slacks a little too informal but is gradually becoming used to them.

Teen-agers, she feels, have much more freedom here than in Ireland. They go about the community much more freely, date earlier and have many more privileges than a boy or girl the same age would have in her country.

* * *

SHE IS LOOKING forward to attending a co-educational school for the first time when she enrolls in high school here next week.

"At home," she relates, "they even give us, the boys and the girls, vacations at different times so we can't become too well acquainted with the opposite sex."

She likes the informality of home life in this country. She thinks that people here have more concern for the people they know well than do her countrymen.

She likes American food. She had corn on the cob for the first time recently and loves it. Hamburgers and hot-dogs are two other American dishes she likes.

There's a much larger choice of sweets and pastries here. However, Americans eat fewer salads than the people of Ireland.

And they eat fewer meals. According to Ruby, who is slowly becoming accustomed to three meals a day, the Irish 'eat around the clock'. First there's breakfast followed by a snack time. After lunch at noon, there is snack time, followed by tea at 4 p.m., high tea at 6 p.m. and supper at 9 p.m. And then perhaps a snack before retiring.

* * *

THOUGH RUBY is finding her trip to the United States very exciting, trips are nothing new to this young lady for she has made two students trips to the continent from her native Ireland.

One trip included three weeks in France where she visited the Loire Valley district as well as Paris. Another trip took her to Spain for three weeks.

And after a year here when she will take her senior year in school for the second time, than what?

Ruby hopes upon her return to Ireland in the summer of 1959 to enroll at Queen's University in Belfast where she will major in art, English, literature and languages.

"You see, I don't care much for mathematics or science," she explains.

* * *

THOUGH SHE feels that the educational system in her country is superior to the one in this country, she's confident that she will learn much by attending school here.

After completing high school abroad she has completed work comparable to two years of college in this country.

Though she hopes to learn much about the American way of life, Charlevoixans are sure to learn even more about Ireland from this young colleen whose youthful exuberance, keen interest and Irish charm make her a true ambassador of good-will and understanding.

On Monday night, Ruby was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club held at the Masonic Temple. She was introduced by Harold Totten, program chairman.

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

Spring-Fed

The reason our stream keeps on flowing through hot weather and drought, when water tables are generally low, and when many other brooklets have entirely evaporated, is that this brook has its source in inexhaustible springs. These natural fountains lie only half a mile to the east of us. From these sources happy streamlets dance toward each other, join, and then romp thru open pasture and dense woods toward Lake Charlevoix, and on their way the capering waters pass through the forty acres known to us as Hidden Brook.

While driving over country roads some summer days, I have seen the parched, stony beds of vanished rivulets. Then fears for the welfare of our stream have plagued my mind until I could get to Hidden Brook. Always I have been gratified to find it there, sometimes running low, its tinkling laughter less gay, but never allowing its spirits to be entirely subdued. It is a dependable stream. It is spring-fed.

One reason for the anxiety and uncertainty of our times is that too many people are seeking satisfaction in streams that easily ovaporate. They are counting on a perishable popularity, or impermanent health, or transitory wealth, and seeking gratification in passing pleasures while plagued with the haunting fear "Supposing something happens." We are easily dismayed by life's transitory nature. Andre Gide has told that he once knew a man who was plunged into darkest despair at the mere thought of having to replace the worn shoes he has wearing, or his clothing, linen, and necktie. His problem. Gide insisted, was not one of stinginess, but anguish at not being able to depend upon anything as being durable. He was tortured by a lack of absolutes.

Anyone who looks for an abundance of absolutes in this life is bound for disappointment. The newness and usefulness of shoes and clothes will fade. Some ideas, like "the inevitability of progress," are fashionable today and obsolete tomorrow. The playthings we clamor for at three years of age we regard as foolish at thirteen, and the "puppy-love" of sixteen-year olds is laughed at by sixty-year-olds who have forgotten the excitement of being "in love with love."

But, thank God, there are some spring-fed streams that do not run dry. They are rare, but they do exist, and we need to find them. There are some homes that we can resort to, knowing that we will find there a dependable flow of love and concern—not gushing sentiment today and bone-dry indifference tomorrow.

There are spring-fed friendships where we, like thirsty deer coming to water, can always find refreshment allowing us to go back to our duties and our work mentally stimulated, reassured that life is good, our joys redoubled, our griefs somewhat assuaged, our sympathies broadened. Friends may come and go. We can lose friends, but we need not lose our capacity for friendship. Indeed, we dare not, for it is one of these streams that keep the soul alive.

There are churches that are spring fed, dependably inspiring and helpful, stemming from fountains of vitality and flowing with faith, profound insights, high hopes, noble purposes, and spiritual courage.

The kind of faith that makes for confidence in our tomorrows is the trust that when my present strength is spent more will be available. It comes from knowing that God is a source that never goes dry, that His grace is beyond the blight of drought and His love is unending, and that His grace and love flow through the fields and forests of my being now and as long as I live.

Extension Clubs to Start Season with Rally Day Program

The County Home Extension clubs will begin their winter program with their annual Rally Day program held at Whiting Park at 2 p.m. on September 11, according to Clare Brown, county extension agent in home economics.

Mr. O. W. Dey of Walloon Lake, will present a program on his successful hobby as a "Round Hound" that has turned his retirement into a busy and profitable career making polished stone jewelry.

East ordan Clubs will be hostesses for the tea. Each club is asked to bring a plate of cookies and each member is to bring her own tea cup.

More than a billion dollars in gold, copper, silver, coal, lead, tin, platinum, and mercury have been taken from Alaskan soil since the region was bought from Russia in 1867. Though the boisterous gold-rush days have passed into history, the annual yield from gold still exceeds the purchase price of $7,200,000, says the National Georgraphic Magazine.

Saltonstall, president of the Guild. Salable items of men's, Women's and children's clothing will be welcomed. They may be left at 429 Michigan ave.

A pat on the back and well-done to Mrs. Glenn Krohn and Mrs. Jeff Novotny from membership chairman, Mrs. Karl Schultz who reports that these two members have sold more memberships in the Guild than any other six people . . . There are active and inactive membership which cost only $1.00 each . . . It's one way of helping the Guild so if you haven't signed up or renewed your membership, now is the time . . .

A well-done and thank you to Mrs. L. E. Grate and her hospitality committee for the splendid job they did on the 'open house' at the hospital to display the new solarium . . . Mrs. Grate and her gracious committee made everyone welcome and served delightful refreshments . . .

Thanks to two thoughtful people, patients confined to the Charlevoix hospital for treatment are finding three new books on the library cart for their enjoyment. "Marco the Monkey" and "The Fire Dragon," a child's story of the great Chicago fire have been donated by the author, Mrs. Fredrika Smith who does a great deal of her writing at her summer home at the Chicago Club and Mrs Harry Gebeau has donated a copy of Elizabeth William's "Child of the Sea," a story of life among the Mormons on Beaver Island. The Guild is most grateful for these books which are sure to add much to the patients' enjoyment during their long days at the hospital.

From the Ways and Means committee a big thank you to Mrs. Andrew Essenberg jr. and her telephone committee and all those who contributed baked goods to the sale sponsored by the Guild. Proceeds will he applied to the cost of a lamp for the delivery room.

A life membership in the Guild has been purchased by Mrs. John P. Wilson sr. This will be added to coffers of the Guild to purchase equipment for the hospital. An anonymous gift of $150 will also be used for this purpose. Many thanks to the generous donor.

Contributions were made to the Guild recently in memory of Mrs. Myron J. Sherwood by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morse; in memory fo Mrs. Hannah Hines by the Gebeau family; in memory of Hiram Blackman by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morse.

Contributions were made also in honor of James Reis' birthday anniversary by Mr. and Mrs. Henri Meis; of Mrs. L. E. Block's birthday anniversary by Mrs. Clarence Coleman, Anna Kampfer and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Loeb jr.; in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Meis' wedding annivesary by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Loeb jr. and Mrs. James Coleman.

These contributions may be made in memory of or in honor of someone. A suitable card is then sent to the family of or the honoree, as the case may be, telling them of the contribution. For such a service call Mrs. E. D. Hawley, chairman of the memorial and gifts committee.

Voice of Our Readers . . .

To The Charlevoix Courier

The Pine Point Fishing Club wishes to make the following statement in hopes of increasing its membership and encourage the desire to return to Charlevoix year after year.

Charlevoix need look no further to increase its summer business if there were enough fish in Lake Charlevoix to make it world renowned as a Fisherman's Paradise.

Nature gave the city the best it had but the white man, not the eel, took the fish out of the lakes, as the woodsman took the trees out of the forests, but little effort to replace them.

We are convinced that if the Board of Commerce along with the Rod & Gun Club and the Sportsman's Club make a consistent effort to have the Conservation Department plant some fish it could be accomplished, giving Charlevoix an eight month season in place of two, and put the City on the map forever.

Parnell Thomson,
President Pine Point Fishing Club, Dayton, Ohio.

Davy Jones is the popular name of sailors for an evil sea spirit or the devil generally.

Gridiron Positions at Stake in Opening Non-Conference Games

With 10 days of strenuous practice sessions behind them, coaches of the Northern Michigan Class C league are taking stock of material on hand and casting about for newcomers to Varsity ranks for candidates for positions left vacant by graduation.

Decisions regarding possible line-ups for opening games will be made shortly as all eight teams in the league prepare for opening games against non-conference opponents Sept. 19 or 20. These games are planned primarily to give coaches a chance to see players under fire before they meet conference opponents in games that are counted in the win and loss columns.

Games scheduled for Friday, Sept. 19, include a meeting between Charlevoix and Rogers City at Kipke field here; Oscoda at Mancelona; Gaylord at Cheboygan; Grayling at Roscommon and Kalkaska at East Jordan. All games will be played at 8 p.m.

On Saturday the defending champions, the Boyne City Ramblers, will travel to St. Ignace; Petoskey St. Francis will invade Harbor Springs and Pellston will go to Cheboygan to take on the Catholic Central squad in games scheduled for 8 p.m.

Most coaches have record turn-outs for football. A few are finding a fair number of veteran players and lettermen around whom to build this year's line-ups while others have only a few scattered regulars and still others will be starting almost from scratch.

Among those in the latter category is the Boyne City eleven which lost the major part of its smooth working machine to the cap and gown parade last spring. For the first time since coming to Boyne City Coach Paul Pfahler is finding himself without a wealth of experienced material. As a result he must utilize the services of three regulars, George Shiotelis whom he is shifting from a tackle position to end, Paul Hibbard, a tackle and Don Tomkins, center all regulars and John Kirby, a letterman halfback. Other starters in the game against St. Ignace on Sept. 20 will be selected from the ranks of last year's J-V squad.

At Gaylord where Coach Don Burnison has 26 candidates for the Varsity reporting regularly, there are five regulars returning. Among these are Bruce Walker, a regular end, Jim Morey and Bob King, guards and the Burnison brothers, John, a quarterback and Bob, a fullback.

At Grayling where Don Ferguson, a recent graduate of Central Michigan College has taken over the coaching duties to succeed Art Thayer, 40 aspirants are out for the team. Among these are junior backs Roger Hatfield and Dave Wyman and sophomore backs Tim Perry and Roy Lovely, all of whom saw quite a lot of action last fall. Also on hand are Curt Haase, Tom Galvini, and Larry LaGrow, senior linemen who played regularly and Bill Luckstead who is returning to the backfield after recovering from injuries received in a hunting accident early in the season last fall. These players are expected to give the Vikings their best team in recent years.

At Pellston Coach Francis McMahon has 74 candidates including a good crop of freshmen and sophomores out for the team. This is the best turn-out in the history of the school.

Among the more than 70 candidates for the team are 10 lettermen including two regulars from last year's team whom Coach McMahon plans to use as

Alvin D. Goldman, Philanthropist, Dies Suddenly

Alvin D. Goldman, 77, prominent summer resident here and retired St. Louis, [illegible] business leader, died Sunday at the Charlevoix hospital where he had been a patient for 10 days.

Private funeral services were held Wednesday morning at the Rindskopf funeral home in St. Louis with burial in a St. Louis cemetery.

Mr. Goldman, who had been a summer resident here for 45 years, was president of the Lesser-Goldman Co., one of the world's largest firms engaged in buying, selling and merchandising cotton. Sheriff Grabs Youth Enroute To Second 'Job'

Thomas C. Mann, 17, of Grand Rapids charged with breaking and entering, waived examination before Justice Connolly last Wednesday and was bound over to the next term of circuit court.

He is being held in the county jail after failing to furnish a bond of $1,500 set by Justice Connolly.

Mann and a 16-year-old companion were arrested by Sheriff Glenn E. Rose and State Police Detective William Simmons when the latter, returning to Charlevoix from East Jordan where they had been investigating another case, noticed the two youths walking along M-66 and stopped to question them. They found the pair armed with a .22 automatic, and a .32 cal. revolver, an ice pick and a supply of ammunition. After bringing them to the jail, the youths admitted taking the guns and ammunition from the Bud Russell home and entering buildings at the Church of God camp grounds in Marion township.

They also admitted stealing a car in Grand Rapids and later abandoning it near East Jordan when the car went off the road.

Their descriptions broadcast by the Grand Rapids police led to their arrest by Sheriff Rose and Detective Simmons.

The youths told the officers they were enroute to Ironton to hold up the store there when they were apprehended.

The 16-year-old is being held here until it is decided if jurisdiction will be waived so he can be taken into justice court. As a minor he is under the jurisdiction of probate court.

City Softball League Reports Good Season

The City Softball League closed its 1958 season showing a slight profit for the fourth straight year despite the fact that expenses were higher according to Dean Davenport, city softball director.

In other respects, however, the season was the most successful in the history of the program with 96 youngsters playing in the Peanut league, 50 in the Junior league and 104 adults in the Senior league for a total of 250. The crowds were also the biggest ever.

At the beginning of the season an outfield fence was purchased at the cost of $218 from funds on hand. The fence added a lot to the program, Mr. Davenport added.

Major expenses were umpires, $401.50; equipment, $246.12 and score keeper, $41.25. Contributions for the season amounted to $549.34 and entry fees $41.25. In addition the league underwrote the August district softball tournament in the amount of $100 which in the past had been paid by the city.

As a result of these expenses the League finished the season with a total of $25.00 on hand, the smallest amount in the past four years.

Schools Open with Record Enrollment Of 1,055 Students

Opening day enrollment in the Charlevoix Public and St. Mary's parochial school jumped to a new high as 1,055 students in the kindergarten through the twelfth grades registered for classes.

Greatest increase was in the Charlevoix elementary school where the enrollment increased from 471 last year to 513 this year. Figures revealed an increase of six in the seventh thru the twelfth grades. The enrollment in St. Mary's school where there are classes in the first through the eighth grade increased from 124 to 141.

The kindergarten this year is the largest in the history of the school with 105 youngsters enrolled. This is 21 more than the peak enrollment of 84 last year.

The large enrollment in a classroom which is geared for a smaller group has created quite a problem which school officials are trying to work out.

Car Accident Leads to Arrest Of Two Suspects

An accident on M-66 Saturday afternoon resulted in the arrest of the driver of the car, Roger Rathburn, 44, of Grand Rapids, on a charge of breaking and entering in the night time, according to Sheriff Glenn E. Gose.

Sheriff Rose went on to say that the car involved in an accident at Cooper's Corner nine miles south of here on M-66 answered the description of one being sought by his department in connection with the robbery of the Klooster Farm Implement store at Atwood the night of Sept. 2. Rathburn was taken to the Charlevoix hospital for treatment of bruises and minor lacerations and then held for questioning in the Atwood breaking and entering.

Later Mrs. Dorothy Hull, 42, of Charlevoix, was arrested and held in connection with the breaking.

On Monday the pair appeared before Justice Hart Stewart in Bellaire. They demanded examination which will be held at a later date. They are being held in the Antrim county jail after failing to furnish bonds of $5,000 each. Detective William Simmons of the Traverse City State Police post assisted in the investigation.

Sheriff Rose said that the tire on the Rathburn car matched the treads of the car believed to have been used in both the Klooster and the Carson Lumber Co breakins. Other information learned by the police during the investigation lead to the arrest of Rathburn and Mrs. Hull.

Neil Wallace, 48, of Charlevoix, who was a passenger in the Rathburn car at the time of the accident is in good condition at the Charlevoix hospital where he is being treated for a fractured right elbow, lacerations and bruises.

"A Bird in the Hand . . ."

The program for industrial development in Michigan is a free-for all contest with nearly every city and village in the state, including Charlevoix, on the job to track down and clench every likely prospect. But while the race for new industry continues, let's not overlook the fact that perpetuation and expansion of existing local industry affords Charlevoix its best industrial opportunity for improvement of the area's economy.

This point is emphasized in the third of a series of advertisements on industrial development appearing in the Courier this week and more than 300 other weekly and daily newspapers in Michigan as a public service. This ad is captioned, "A Bird in the Hand Is Worth Two in the Bush!" It stresses the importance of existing industry to every community.

Our industrial payroll proved to be a "a priceless possession" during the last year when so many communities were seriously affected by the slump that swept the automobile industry. We should not forget that during that period our payrolls and employment were maintained at a normal level.

Let's not overlook another fact in this state-wide industrial development program. It's a hundred to one that any community in the state would snatch any one of our industries from under our nose if the opportunity presented itself.

It's well to bear these facts in mind and don't just take Charlevoix's industries for granted. Let's show our pride in them and be on the alert to help and promote them in every way possible. As the ad points out, "There's no better payroll than the homegrown variety."

Students and Cars

Students driving to school and parking on adjacent streets has resulted in congested traffic and always poses a hazard in the area. This week a petition asking that student drivers be required to park at least two blocks from the school was presented to the Board of Education.

Adoption of this proposal would, no doubt, eliminate some student driving but it would, in turn, create a similar situation in the areas approved for parking.

The reaction of the Board indicates that it may take action to ban student driving if traffic violations are committed or if there appears to be hazards due to careless and reckless operation of cars by students. With transportation furnished by the school, few, if any students would suffer a real hardship in getting to and from school.

Observation in the vicinity of the school will convince most unbiased persons that the big majority of the student drivers are careful and observe traffic regulations. They use their cars strictly as a means of transportation and should not be deprived of the privilege because of the few unscrupulous.

There are always a few smarties who must gun the motor to take-off and screech the tires when stopping. Then there are the few who use their cars for a "club room" during the noon hour and before and after school. Occasionally their actions are not a credit to the student body. These undesirable actions by a few are always so conspicuous that they are inclined to overshadow the commendable conduct of the whole student body with the result that some of us "has beens" are not above remarking that "youth is going to the dogs."

Should the Board of Education be forced to put a ban on students driving cars to school, it should be observed that other schools have taken similar action. Even Michigan State College has a ban on students using their cars to attend classes, except by special permit, and that entails some lengthy walks if the student does not have a bicycle.

YOU'VE ALL been reading of the exploits of the submarine Nautilus . . . But did you know that a Charlevoixan barely missed making that historic trip over the North Pole via an under-ice route/ . . . He's Bob (better known as 'Eenie') Albright who has been meamber of its crew almost since it was commissioned . . . But late in June Bob came home to be married . . . to the former Roberta Mayne . . . About the time he was to return to duty he ended up in the Charlevoix hospital as a patient and didn't get back until late in July . . . After the Nautilus had left on its history-making jaunt . . . Just another of those quirks of fate. We understand, however, that Bob will receive the Presidential citation presented to all regular members of the crew.

INCIDENTLY, did you happen to watch that music gambling game on TV the other night . . . You're not supposed to use the word in print in our fair state but how else can we tell you that the program was 'Music Bingo' . . . Midway through the program we got a call from Archie LaFreniere whose first words were "Do you have Music Bingo on? If you haven't, turn it on" . . . We immediately complied with his order and then awaited an explanation . . . which we soon received . . . Seems that the Irishman whose been competing on the show, Brendon O'Reilly, spent 10 days on the island this summer . . . We don't know much about him except that he's been in this country attending the University of Michigan . . . And that he visited America's Emerald Isle during the summer before starting the return trip to the Auld Sod . . . And enroute to the island he spent some time here and had dinner at the Nautical where the Jack Crosses also met him . . . So, if he's still on the program, take a look . . . Incidently, everyone tells me he is much handsomer in person than on television.

FROM DOWN KINSTON, N. C. way a copy of the Kinston Daily Free Press . . . a special tobacco edition . . . that's right 'Tobacco edition' . . . Kinston is in the heart of the tobacco country and this edition is evidently published during the market season in the south . . . Since about the only tobacco we've ever seen is the finished product . . . you know, the kind that comes in cans, cigars or cigarettes . . . It was interesting reading all about the market, how it is operated, seeing pictures of the massive warehouses . . . It's really something . . . We lost count of the big companies that had buyers at the market publicized as the "world's foremost tobacco center" . . . After reading about tobacco from the time it's planted, harvested, aged, etc., we wonder why a pack of cigarettes doesn't cost twice as much as it does sans state and federal taxes . . . We'd love seeing the sale in action . . . It must be colorful.

* * *

THE PAPER, by the way, came from our former city superintendent, Roy R. Robinson, who is city manager in the southern city . . . We noticed that one of his problems at the moment is the construction of a sewage disposal plant . . . which, if built, will cost better than three million dollars . . . Seems that according to new state laws the city must build one although one city father is fight it . . . stating that there's no reason why they can't continue to use the river . . . With a deadline of 1961 facing them, Mr. R. and his commissioners have their work cut out for them . . . Aren't we fortunate that that particular problem is behind us? . . . even if we're still paying for it.

* * *

AND THE RAINS came . . . and how they came . . . But we are told by some farmer friends that moisture is welcome . . . So don't complain too much . . . Not if you want to go on eating . . . But when you get caught in it as often as we have recently . . . well . . . it could hold off a little.

* * *

IF YOU WANT to see a beautiful sight, drive past the football field and take a look at the turf . . . We have never seen a gridiron more beautiful any place . . . It's been fertilized, seeded and nursed along until it's like a thick, thick carpet . . . The players tell us that when you fall on it, it's like falling on a cushion . . . Whoever is responsible for it deserves a great big 'well done'.

* * *

A SECOND beautiful sight can also be found at Kipke field . . . in the person of some 60 or more players, half of whom will be candidates for the Varsity squad . . . It's always a joy to see kids but we have hopes that this particular crop will make up THE team to put Charlevoix back in the running . . . Now we're not saying this crew will shape up . . . and believe us, they'll need a lot of shaping . . . we're just saying that for the first time in about three years things are lookking up from where we're sitting . . . But it's going to take a whale of a lot of hard work by everyone concerned before we'll have anything that resembles a team.

* * *

WE THINK this is one for the book and we're sure you'll agree . . . Bob Somerville of the Charlevoix Police Department told us about it. Seems one day last week a couple from South Bend, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Harding, stopped briefly to look around town while on a trip thru the north . . . When they returned to their car which was parked on Bridge st. their found a note under the windshield wiper advising them to call the State Police . . . They went at once to the police office here where Mr. Somerville was on duty . . . The writer of the note, it seems, had been listening to the radio and heard a police broadcast for a car bearing a certain Indiana license plate . . . They had made a note of the license number and when they had sighted the car on the street had left the message . . . Seems they were also travelers from New York State . . . Anyway, with the assistance of Mr. Somerville, the State Police was contacted, the Hardings received their message (regarding the death of a relative) and departed for home . . . All because someone had made a note of a license plate and relayed the message via a note on the windshield . . . Who says it is a good world made up of a lot of thoughtful people?

An understatement if you've ever heard one!

Comparing the Industry which is located in your town with industry located somewhere else which your town might like to get, the bird in hand is worth a hundred in the bush, and more.

It's a hundred to one that the best opportunity your town has for more industrial payroll lies in expansion of its present industry.

The industrial payroll of your town is a priceless possession. Protect it. Other towns would like to get it and some may even now be trying. Don't take the industry in your town for granted. Show your pride in it. Help it expand.

Donna Alward- Donald Heeres Married at Ellsworth Service

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Alward and Mr. and Mrs. James Heeres.

Mrs. Hans DeYoung was the organist. Mrs. Robert Klooster, as the soloist, sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and "Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of nylon tulle over taffeta for her wedding. The nylon tulle yoke had a Peter Pan collar and the fitted bodice featured long pointed sleeves. Her full skirt was of tiered net over taffeta. A pearl headpiece secured her fingertip veil and she carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of white carnations centered with a pink orchid.

Mrs. Robert DeYoung, was her sister's matron of honor and Virginia Brown was bridesmaid. They wore identical ballerina length gowns of yellow net over taffeta, and matching floral hair clips and carried bouquets of white gladioli and ivy.

Lorrie Heeres and Danny Strange, niece and nephew of the couple, were flower girl and ringbearer.

Jeroll Drenth assisted the bridegroom as best man. Ted Heeres of Charlevoix, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman. Leonard Strange and Chester Farrell, brothers-in-law of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Mrs. Alward selected a blue and white print gown, white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Heeres, mother of the bridegroom wore a pink satin and taffeta gown and white accessories. Each had a corsage of pink and white flowers.

A reception followed in the church parlors.

After a wedding trip through the upper peninsula the couple will reside in Grand Rapids. For traveling the bride wore a turquoise knitted suit, white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Both are graduates of the Ellsworth high school. The bride is a nurse's aid at the Christian Home and the bridegroom is employed at Keeler Brass in Grand Rapids.

All-new 1958 BEAUTYREST

Just arrived... THE ALL-NEW 1958 BEAUTYREST

...with more buoyant firmness than ever before!

New resilience! New firmness! 12% greater spring support! And this newest and most restful of mattresses actually costs least to own!

Here is important news for all who treasure their rest, their comfort, their budget. The world's finest mattress has been made finer, firmer—and designed to last longer and cost less than any mattress you can buy.

New power-packed springs, pocketed under compression, have added 12% more firmness.

And it is buoyant firmness . . . best for your back, your comfort, your rest.

In torture tests made by the United States Testing Co., Beautyrest lasted 3 times longer than the next best mattress. This means Beautyrest costs less to own. Order yours at once.

Made only by SIMMONS

Normal Firm or Extra Firm Box Spring $79.50

Ordinary mattress is made with about 200-300 springs. Wired together, they sag together under your weight. When you push down on one, you push down on all. They're not free to push up and correctly support the shape of your body. This "sagging support" is bad for your back, your comfort, your rest.

Beautyrest mattress is made with over 800 separate springs. Not wired together, they can't sag together. Each is free to push up under you. Together they firmly support the weight and shape of your whole body. In the new Beautyrest springs have been power-packed to give 12% more firmness.

WE THANK YOU

We sincerely believe that Sheriff Glenn Rose should be publicly commended for the diligent and dependable service he has rendered the county. This was focused directly to us personally last week when his keen alertness apprehended two armed young men who had just committed a theft in our home in the Loeb district and assumed to be on their way to commit an armed burglarly at Ironton. He may well have prevented a heinous crime, and we thank you Glenn.

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

"Home"

The home is deeply rooted in instinct. Animals, as well as human beings, have a generous supply of home consciousness. Dogs and cats have been known to walk hundreds of miles to return, emaciated and worn, to their old homes after a brief separation. Home, to a pigeon may be but a roosting spot in a barn loft or a nesting box barely larger than the bird itself. Yet, so highly treasured is that single spot that pigeons will make their way in swift flight over many miles of strange country, buffeted by wind and storm, drawn irresistibly on by the mystical attraction of home.

The white-tail deer posses a consciousness of home. If food and water are within easy reach a deer may spend weeks or months within a circle less than a mile in diameter. One authority, W. J. Schoonmaker, writing for the New York State Journal of Mammalogy, has told of closely observing a certain buck and doe throughout an entire winter. So far as Schoonmaker could see, these animals never once crossed a nearby road, and seldom wandered more than a quarter of a mile in any direction from a special small knoll where they often slept. This authority concludes, after much observation of many deer, that the home range of the whitetail is small, and, except for the rutting season and heavy hunting pressure or food scarcity, most deer prefer a home area no more than one-half mile square.

When white-tail deer are forced from their home territory they seem to develop feelings akin to homesickness, and, altho unaccustomed to travelling far, will strike out for their distant home. A deer live-trapped here in Michigan at the Hanson Refuge and released 10 miles away in Kalkaska County was later trapped again at the Hanson Refuge to which it had returned. Another, also caught at the Hanson Refuge in 1938 and released 16 miles away in Roscommon County was trapped again a year later at the Hanson Refuge. Once more it was taken to the same swamp in Roscommon County and eight days later showed up at its home refuge.

A deer's home is replete with comfortable familiarity. He knows every sun-splashed forest aisle, every lake-side pasture opening washed by damp breezes, and the murmuring of a certain small stream. He is familiar with places where winds tune up their music on pine boughs, and intimate with coverts where he can lie secluded, surrounded by dense foliage and thick silence.

The point of the foregoing paragraphs is that an instinct for home is one of this world's elementals. Since the Instinct is rudimentary in human nature, as well as in our animal neighbors, we need to recognize the significance of home and make the most of it. With out increased mobility, furnished by the automobile, and a growing trend toward travel, there is real danger that our modern restlessness may stifle our recognition of the value of home and frustrate the realization of its benefits. Aware that many of the services of home had been supplanted by other institutions one modern young woman asked a real estate agent. "What do I need of a home? I was born in a hospital and educated in the public schools and in college. I was courted in an automobile and married in church. I live out of the delicatessen, tin cans and paper sacks. My mornings are spent at the hair dresser's and on the golf course, my afternoons at the bridge table and my evenings at the movies. And when I die I will be sent to the undertaker A home? All I need is a garage."

But home is much more than a place where part of the family waits until the rest bring back the car. Home is life's Beginner's Department where we learn the principles and the spirit by which we shall live. There we learn sacrifice, or we are unlikely ever to learn them at all.

Home is much more than a house built of brick, or stone, or wood. A home is built of sturdier stuff. A home is walled with love and truth, loyalty, helpfulness and trust. A home is warmed by companionship and cheer.

Home first interprets heaven to us, and God.

A good home is the incentive and reward of much of our labor and striving.

Home is that place where we usually grumble the most and are treated the best.

Home is where the biggest failure can know he is a success if he has made a woman love him, respect, admire and trust him, and if little children there want to be like him.

Home is that place where you are loved, not only because of what you are, but often in spite of what you are.

A home is a house in which people live happily.

Robert Rainy, the great churchman, often contended with general misunderstanding and was tested by carping criticism. One day a friend told Dr. Rainy that he could not understand how Rainy could bear the burden of so much opposition, and Dr. Rainy replied, "Ah, but then, you see, I'm very happy at home."

A chief privilege and responsibility of every one of us is to make home such a place of resource and strength that from it every member can confidently go out to face any testing that life can hurl at him, and then return with expectation of finding peace and joy.

Lagerman-Orlando Spoke Vows Saturday at Nuptial Mass

St. Mary's church was the scene Saturday morning of the wedding of Marjorie Kay Lagerman and John W. Orlando jr., Airman second class, U. S. Air Force, stationed at the Empire Air Station.

Parents of the couple are Edward J. Lagerman and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Orlando sr. of Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Frank Oleksy was the organist. Barry Pischner and Mrs. C. D. Geiken were the soloists.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a waltz length gown of Chantilly lace over satin. The bouffant skirt had side panels of lace and the fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline: A lace cap trimmed with seedpearls secured her fingertip veil. She carried a white prayer book and an arrangement of red and white roses.

Anne Lagerman of Chicago was her sister's maid of honor and another sister, Mrs. Ronald Cunningham was bridesmaid. They wore identical sheath dresses fashioned with tapered V-overskirts and crushed velvet cummerbunds in coral pink. Their headdresses were of matching pink and white carnations and they carried bouquets of the same flowers.

A-2c Kenneth Warts of Detroit was best man and Airman 2c Jerry Woods was groomsman. Ushers were Airmen Donald Bols, John Giladon, Rudy Duarte and Russell Roberts, all of the Empire Air Station.

An afternoon reception was held at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham. Mrs. Earl Miller, aunt of the bride, assisted.

After a northern Michigan wedding trip the couple will reside at 812 East Eighth st. in Traverse City. For traveling the bride wore a light princess dress, navy duster and accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The bride attended the Charlevoix high school and graduated from a Grand Rapids School of Cosmotology. The bridegroom is a graduate of East Boston high school and is presently serving with the U. S. Air Force.

Joe Faculak and his friend Francis Wiggens of Chicago visited Joe's cousin, Tony Faculak, and family from Wednesday until Tuesday.

Mrs. Alfred Fratrick and three children visited Mrs. John Fratrick Friday afternoon. They have returned to Detroit after visiting several families in our area.

Sorry to report that Joe Gengle had a heart attack Friday He was taken to the hospital in Charlevoix. His son, Eddie Gengle, of Detroit and daughter, Mrs. Mary Richardson, of Grand Rapids came to see him this weekend.

We extend sympathy to Mrs. Henry Hilton and other relatives in the death of Mrs. Hilton's aunt, Mrs. Florence Olney. She was brought here from Bruel, Wisconsin by her son Lee. Graveside services were held Monday at 2 p.m. Mrs. Olney was 91 years old. Her maiden name was VanDusen.

Last week Mrs. Guy Stutzman had a trip of 2,000 miles through Canada, from Detroit to Montreal and Quebec and home via the Soo. She went with her sister and brother-in-law and niece, of Detroit. They visited an ornate and much publicized Catholic Church in Quebec; a museum in Montreal of wax figures; a home of a family of midgets, who were three and one half to four feet tall, whose house was like a doll house; also a mansion near London, whose foundation cost $100,000. Taxes were $1,000 a month. Inside trim was of special black walnut shipped ready cut from France. The bathroom was finished in gold with a special shower of gold to spray perfume, and one to give powder. A stable for horses was ½ mile away with an underground tunnel from the house. Stalls were of black walnut from France, trimmed with gold, with plaques in gold of names of the horses. The first owner only lived in it ten years. Too expensive to keep up. French is spoken in Quebec. They had difficulty in getting service at motels and cafes. The food was different and not well cooked. The road from Montreal to Quebec was narrow and not very good. But from Montreal to the Soo was good and beautifully cut through the mountainous country, with great slabs and boulders of stone to admire. The road near Dionne Quints home was under repair. Leaves an excuse for another trip next year. The gypsy strain in me is calling for a trip via the Straits of Mackinac and the Soo to Canada. They also visited the birthplace of the mother of Mrs. Stutzman and her sister at Morfield, which they had never seen.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

She's Got Dad's "Number"

Dad Fowler and his Mrs. are about to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary—so I asked them if there's any "secret" to this kind of wedded bliss.

"Oh we've had our arguments," said Dad, "but for fifty years I made it a point to count to fourteen before any argument could turn into a real quarrel. Fourteen — because that's exactly the amount of money I had the day we were married."

"From now on," smiled Mrs. Fowler, "you better count to twelve. The two dollars for the marriage license was mine."

From where I sit, we all need some kind of formula for getting along with each other. The best one I know is "tolerance" — the business of live and let live. It has to do with little things, too, like your preference for tea, and mine for beer. Let's count to ten, twelve or fourteen —and never let our differences turn into quarrels.

Michigan Mirror

By ELMER E. WHITE

PARADOX: Michigan is bordered on three sides by water; has more than 11,000 inland lakes. It boasts myriad streams and rivers stretching in every direction across the land.

But, Michigan has a water shortage.

It is a problem of mal-distribution; enough water is not always in the right place. Enormous new uses of water for farm irrigation, for industry, for sewage disposal systems of mushrooming cities and for recreation emphasize the shortage.

The legislature is concerned. The problem has been growing more acute for five years. It is approaching the critical stage as indusry and cities expand into new areas.

* * *

RURAL AREAS, which once made Michigan an agricultural state, are shrinking under pressure of progress in other fields. Now, only 10 peeent of the population is engaged in agriculture.

Farmers are turning to irrigation to make the fields do more work: to produce food for Michigan's 7,000,000 people ond other markets.

* * *

EXPERTS RECOMMEND that artificial ponds be created to collect water during the winter and spring for use during the hot, dry summer.

George S. McIntyre, state director of agriculture, contends ponds are impractical because of the large investments, land and equipment.

As the study goes on, the problem becomes more serious.

* * *

INDUSTRY needs more water in its processes.

A new copper mining technique to coax low grade ore out of the ground in marketable quantities uses tremendous amounts of water — 1,000,000 gallons for each ton of ore mined.

The process, which has been tested and proven in the Upper Peninsula, promises to bring another economic boon to the state. But the supply of water must be guaranteed.

The Bear Creek Mining Co., planning an installation in the Upper Peninsula is waiting for, among other things, the certainty that it will have sufficient water over a long period of time.

Rep. James Goulette (R-Iron Mountain) said the company, assured by geologists that the copper field exists under Lake Superior, is not interested even in test borings until making sure of water.

* * *

NEW CITIES spreading out from the metropolitan centers ore preparing sewage disposal systems of the most modern design. They need water to make them operate efficiently.

Southeastern Michigan, a honeycomb of small towns grown into big cities, critically needs water for their new homes and factories.

* * *

AS THE SHORTAGE grows daily, the state still argues about a solution. The issue: whether to set up a priority system for water use or stick with the present system which guarantees the first owner the right to use it anyway he sees fit without damage to others.

The solution becomes important when the use of water by an industry or city lowers the stream level and the shoreline property owner declares it is diminishing his rights.

* * *

THIS, TOO, AFFECTS the resort and recreation industry, which has made Michigan a vacation spot for the nation during the summer months.

Lower levels on inland lakes and streams would give the tourist industry a new headache.

* * *

ALREADY, THERE is competition on the water between fishermen and swimmers, boaters and water skiers. This situation will become more severe with more people and longer vacation periods.

Senator Edward Hutchinson (R-Fenniville) is chairman of a special House-Senate water rights study committee which plans to develop a legislative proposal for the 1959 session.

What it will be remains the problem — whether to protect exisiting rights of ownership or place a priority system on the way water is used.

* * *

AN IMPORTANT issue comes before voters Nov. 4 when they select state and local officials for coming terms.

It involves a proposal to call a state constitutional convention. If approved, machinery would be set in motion to redo the prosent state constitution which was last designed in 1908.

Republicans have supported the proposal in their state convention. Democrats oppose it only because they feel the manner of selecting delegates would give Republicans an "unfair" majority in the convention which would decide terms of the new constitution.

Today's City of London — the business and financial section of the British capital — still lies largely between boundaries set by an old Roman wall, says the National Geographic Magazine.

a nucleus for this year's eleven. They are Bill McClutchey whom he is converting from an end to a fullback and Jerry Mallory, a center, who were regulars with the '57 squad and Barry Anderson, quarterback, Gary Spencly, halfback, Allen Cameron, end, Earl Marshall and Bill Shawa, guards, and Nelson Marshall, Lucius Cabinaw and Jim Groulx, tackles who earned letters last fall.

At Harbor Springs where Charlie Paige has assumed football coaching duties in addition to those of the basketball court which he has handled for two years, 42 candidates including two regulars and four lettermen are reporting for practice. Despite the fact that the Rams lost most of its starting line-up Coach Paige has John Borowski, a guard, and Stan Huffman, a tackle, both regulars, as a nucleus for his line. Ed Meyer whom he is shifting from the tackle position to fullback, tackle Steve Adams and ends Ken Garver and Bob Bernhardt, lettermen around whom he plans to build his team.

At East Jordan where Coach Gayle Saxton has had several slim years things are looking up. Among the 50 candidates reporting are five regulars including Bill Sherman and Bill Johnson, guards; Bucky Cihak, center; Larry Hayden, right end and Jack Gee who will play in the backfield this year. In addition he has several lettermen including Jim Kinney, a quarterback; Jim Yettaw, full back; Jack Kraemer, a tackle, Curt Thompson, a lineman and Bob Johnson, who lettered as a guard two years ago but who did not play last year.

Coach Saxton has a new assistant who is no newcomer to northern Michigan sports fans He is Wes Fleet, who will be remembered as the top scorer in the league while playing with Mancelona. He was graduated from Michigan State last year and taught industrial arts at Battle Creek Lakeview for one semester before coming to East Jordan.

At Mancelona where 63 players are reporting for practice, Matt Jacobson, dean of northern Michigan Class C coaches, has eight regulars plus three lettermen around whom he plans to build this year's team. Among these are three veteran backs, Don Beihl, a quarterback, Jerry Biehl who has been shifted from halfback and Rod Chase who will take over a halfback position after lettering as a guard. Other regulars are Jon Jacobson, a guard, Fred Moore, Leslie Robbins and Danny Rahilly, tackles and John Hart, center.

Lettermen include Glenn Collins, a halfback, Roger Dickinson, an end and Terry Meeder who will play end after lettering as a substitute center.

Though the Charlevoix Rayders cannot be classified as an experienced team, Coach Don Carey has a host of lettermen on whom he plans to call when naming this year's line-up.

Among these are backs Gary Balch and Stan Smith, juniors and Bill Poquette, Tom Lakies, Rod Ostrum and Mike Geneit, seniors.

Returnees who are expected to give the Rayders its heaviest and most experienced line in some years are Ron Vandenberg, Steve LaBlance, Dick VanRaaphorst and Floyd Genia, ends and Dick Muma, Ken Wojan, Bruce Pease, Scott Supernaw, Steve Wells and Eric Arvilla, other linemen, who will be called on to start against Rogers City next week. A senior transfer student from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., Larry Minch, may also see action.

A number of juniors up from the ranks of last year's J-V squad are expected to give the seasoned players plenty of competition for starting assignments.

School Coaches Attend Clinic on Athletic Safety

High school athletic personnel from four northern Michigan counties were in Petoskey Saturday morning for a clinic held under the sponsorship of the Northern Michigan Medical Society.

The use of athletic protective equipment was discussed by Henry J. Montoye of Michigan State University who also showed a film on the subject.

Dr. A. F. Litzenburger, director of District Health Unit No. 3, spoke on physical examinations for athletes; Dr. Robert Pearson of Boyne City talked on injuries on the field; Dr. Gerald Drake of Petoskey on internal injuries; Dr. Victor S. Mateskon of Petoskey on injuries to bones and joints and Glenn D. Garrett of Petoskey on insurance problems.

Purpose of the clinic was to teach coaches, assistant coaches and others associated with coaching how to cut down on the number of football injuries by use of protective equipment and how best to detect and care for injuries which do occur.

In Petoskey for the clinic were Don Carey and Leonard Burns of the Charlevoix coaching staff.

Rev. O. B. Ansted Retires After 52 Years of Service

Rev. O. B. Ansted, pastor of the First Baptist church here for the past three years, has retired after serving 52 years in the ministry.

He and Mrs. Ansted left last week to make their home at Topinabee, 12 miles south of Cheboygan on Mullet Lake.

The Rev. Mr. Ansted was ordained in June 1905. His first pastorate was a mission composed of three small churches near Port Huron. Later he served 12 years at Harbor Beach and the Eau Clair Community church, Wolverine Congregational church and Baptist churches in Rollin and Kalkaska before coming to Charlevoix in 1955.

The Rev. Mr. Ansted said that he and his wife love the north country and had been looking around for a small community in which to retire when they happened to stop in Topinabee to visit a friend. Mr. Ansted went on to say that while there they heard about this house on Mullet lake which sounded like what they had in mind. They found that it was within walking distance of the community church, postoffice and shopping center so they purchased the house and a nearby cottage where their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ansted and family are now living. Both their son and daughter-in-law teach in Cheboygan so Mrs. Ansted assists with the children, a chore she likes very much. Mr. Ansted plans to tinker with his boat and paint another one which came with the boathouse on the property.

The couple has two other sons, Harold of Royal Oak and Phillip of Flint and a daughter, Mrs. Gaylord Kimble of Toledo. They also have eight grandchildren.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ansted have been very interested in community affairs. The Rev. Mr. Ansted was a member of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association and both were members of the Charlevoix P.T.A. They are both interested in young people and enjoy working with them. As Mr. Ansted says "That's how we keep young."

Furnishes 'Drinks' To Minors; Given 90-Day Sentence

Clifford P. Napont, 21, of St. James, appeared in Justice Court here Wednesday on a charge of breaking and entering in the night time and also on a charge of furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors.

He waived examination on the charge of breaking and entering and was bound over to the October term of circuit court. Justice John Connolly set bond at $100 which was not immediately furnished.

He was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail on the charge of furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors. However, Judge Connolly suspended all but 10 days of the sentenced and placed him on probation for the remaining 80 days. If he breaks the terms of the probation order he will be returned to the county jail to serve out the sentence. He also was ordered to pay court costs of $4.90.

If he fails to furnish bond on the first charge he will be held in the county jail until the Oct. 27 term of circuit court.

Napont is charged with breaking and entering the Shamrock Bar at St. James by breaking a basement window early Sunday morning and taking four cases of beer.

Western Unfolds Absorbing Story At Palace Theater

This week the Palace Theater is presenting one of the westerns rated very good by a recognized reviewing service. "From Hell to Texas," starring Don Murray, Diane Varsi and Chills Wills is beautifully photographed in Cinema-Scope and DeLuxe color.

What lifts the picture above most westerns, in the eyes of the reviewer, is the taut and absorbing story which centers around a sharp shooting but peaceful young cowpoke who finds himself pursued relentlessly by a vindictive cattle baron whose son had been killed accidentally in a fight with him.

The story moves along at a fast tempo from start to finish and is packed with suspense and explosive action, hitting high melodramatic notes in the sequences in which the hero finds himself trapped by one or more of his pursuers.

Don Murray is very effective as the quiet but fearless hero, as is Chills Wills as an old rancher who aids him. Diane Varsi is daughter with whom Murray finds romance.

The outdoor backgrounds are a treat to the eye and the story and scenes are suitable for the entire family.

All Class C Teams Get First Action Tests in Non-Conference Tilts

The Northern Michigan Class C football season will open Friday with all eight teams on the league taking on non-loop rivals.

The Charlevoix Rayders will host the Class B Rogers City eleven; Gaylord will travel to Cheboygan to take on another Class B outfit; Mancelona will entertain Oscoda; Grayling will travel to Roscommon and East Jordan will meet Kalkaska on the Red Devils gridiron at 8 p.m. Friday night.

On Saturday Harbor Springs will entertain Petoskey St. Francis; Boyne City will cross the Straits of Mackinac to take on St. Ignace and Pellston will journey to Cheboygan to meet the Catholic Central eleven in games scheduled for 8 p.m.

After three weeks of practice sessions plus one scrimmage session for each team; coaches are looking over the situation and deciding on starting line-ups for opening games. Though the games will have no bearing on the battle for the league title now held by Boyne City, each team will be out to rack up a win as coaches look for weaknesses and try to remedy them before it is too late.

The Charlevoix Rayders scrimmaged a team from Kalkaska Saturday night. Though both teams ran the simplest of plays, coaches were able to see what players would do under pressure and to iron out a few rough spots before 'playing for keeps' as they will this week.

Coach Don Carey early this week had not named his starting line-up for this week's game and said he probably wouldn't until game time Friday. However, he said that chances were that Mike Geneit would get the signal-calling assignment, Tom Lakies and Gary Balch would start in the halfback positions and Stan Smith at fullback although Bill Poquette may get the nod for the latter position. These players would give the Rayders an experienced backfield as all players named lettered last season.

Ron Vandenberg, a veteran, Dick VanRaaphorst, a letterman and Joe Beaudoin, up from the Reserves, are expected to see action in the end spots, Ken Wojan, weighing in at 200 pounds and Dick Muma at 180 pounds, both veterans and Erik Arvilla, a letterman, will be called on to fill the tackle positions; Bruce Pease, Scott Supernaw or Mike LaBlance will start in the guard spots and Rod Ostrum in the center position. End Floyd Genia will see some defensive action. Coach Carey said that others may be called into action but at this time he was undecided who those players would be.

Coach Matt Jacobson will be fielding the heaviest line and most experienced backfield in the loop when his Ironmen go against the eastern Michigan Oscoda eleven Friday night.

The middle of his line, that is the tackles, guards and center positions will not only be made up of veterans but will average about 200 pounds. John Hart will start at center, Jon Jacobson (202) and Danny Rahilly (205) in the guard positions and Fred Moore (220) and Leslie Robbins (175) in the tackle spots. Two lettermen, Tim Meeder and Roger Dickinson, both lettermen, will fill the end positions.

Donny Biehl will call the signals. Another Biehl who answers to the name of Jerry, will take over at fullback and Rod Chase and Glenn Collins will fill the halfback positions. All are seniors and all but Collins, who is a letterman, are regulars from last year's squad.

With this outfit Coach Jacobson may well be on his way toward a title his Ironmen have been eyeing for some time.

Coach Don Burnison ran into hard luck over the weekend when his two veteran guards, Jim Morey and Bob King, suffered ankle injuries in a scrimmage. He plans to send Hugh Campbell, a junior, and Terry Warner, a sophomore, against Cheboygan this week if Morey and King are not available by Friday.

Bud Soaper or Fred Moore will start at center; Wayne Reed and Bill Karbowski at the guard positions, giving Gaylord an experienced line. Veteran end Bruce Walker, Roy Wolf or John Johnston will get the flanker assignments.

Terry Cremeans, a newcomer, will get the starting quarterback assignment and another newcomer, Roger Walker will start in one of the halfback spots while two veterans, John Burnison, a senior will take over the

"Don't Pass the Buck — Give a Buck to the Party of Your Choice."

That's the slogan of the current nationwide campaign of the American Heritage Foundation to get all voters to contribute to their political party.

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

THIS WEEKEND will mark the official arrival of autumn in the north country . . But if you've been out and around during the past week you know that it's actually arrived . . The first red and yellow leaves have made their appearance, the sun has lost its scorching touch and there is just a smell of autumn on the breeze . . Then too, all the fall flowers are in full bloom with splashes of color every place you look . . . One of the prettiest of these we've seen are the rosy red petunias in the planter on the east end of the Weathervane Inn . . . Unless you're looking for them you miss them.

* * *

AND DON'T FORGET the red mountain ash berries . . . As we've mentioned before, the number of berries on a tree are supposed to tell you what kind of a winter you can look for . . . From our observations, there's quite a bountiful crop of them so if this holds true, watch out.

* * *

SOME OF OUR more avid duck hunters have been voicing hopes that the ducks and geese show up early this year . . . they'd like to get some hunting in while the weather's still good . . . But we'd just as soon have them honk their way south sometime around the middle of November . . because bad weather usually follows them down from the north country where they spend the summer.

* * *

SAW SOMETHING Saturday we haven't seen in a long, long while . . . a whole pail of wild blackberries picked in this immediate area . . . Our neighbor, George Bergmann, stopped by to show them to us and to offer us some . . They were a beautiful sight to see and very lucious . . . He told us that there were a lot of them around tho' they weren't too big . . . as the result of all the rain we've been having . . We're glad something benefited from the rain!

* * *

ANOTHER SIGN of autumn is football . . . and quite a crowd turned out Saturday night to watch our lil ole Rayders scrimmage with Kalkaska . . . It was a deal where each team got to keep the ball for 10 minutes but it sure was something to see . . To begin with the weather was ideal . . . everyone was standing around in light jackets without freezing to death . . . Then it was good to see how the team is shaping up . . . We might add that we thought they looked pretty fair . . . a lot of corners to be polished off and a long way to go but plenty of promise, if you know what we mean.

* * *

AFTER A COUPLE of slim years we hope this will be the year for Coach Carey and his squad . . . They've waited long enough . . . But there are others who have waited equally as long . . . so it's not going to be a breeze of a season, by any means . . . But as long as they're in there pitching that's all that matters . . . So against Rogers City this week lots of luck.

* * *

WE UNDERSTAND that our super, R. G. Bennett, had occasion recently to talk with another school official in the newest of the 49 . . Don't know which city in that new state located in the land of the midnight sun . . . Alaska . . . but Mr. B. got quite a boot out of the call which was in regard to a former teacher in our school system.

* * *

AND SPEAKING of school, how about those enrollment figures? . . . Wouldn't be so bad if they were spread out . . . but 105 in the kindergarten . . . Wow . . . Poor Mrs. McRae and her assistants . . . and she'll need plenty . . . But all kiddin' aside, can you imagine handling that many five-year-olds in a day . . . We're glad we aren't in the teaching profession.

* * *

CHARLEVOIX has lost one of its best friends . . . He's Alvin D. Goldman who passed away ten days ago at the Charlevoix hospital . . .

Mr. Goldman was probably one of the most understanding and humble men we've been privileged to know . . . And we think a lot of people in this community will echo that sentiment . . . He was many other things too but those, to us, were the important ones . . . In the nearly half a century he and his family had been coming to Charlevoix he helped more people in more ways than anyone will ever know . . . We could go on at great length but to our way of thinking his deeds speak for themselves . . . We know we speak for the entire community when we extend to his family not only our sympathy but that of everyone in Charlevoix . . . We know we have lost a good and sincere friend . . . We will miss him greatly in the days ahead but we will cherish the knowledge that he was our friend and that we were privileged to know a great man.

* * *

FROM UP INDIAN River-way, a note from Mrs. Elmer Barber former resident who plays the organ at the Inn there every summer . . . She tells us that the Irish lad we mentioned last week, Brendon O'Reilly, spent the summer of '57 at the Inn as a waiter and did a bit of singing on the side . . . He has a delightful Irish voice, she writes, and everyone loved him . . . So it was with a great deal of interest that they watched the recent TV program on which he was appearing.

* * *

HAS THE HULA HOOP fad hit you yet? It is making the rounds in our neighborhood and some of the youngsters are doing right well with the darned things . . . And then there are others who are finding it most difficult to master the hoops . . . But whether you're adept or not, it looks like a great sport.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens of Charlevoix and Grand Rapids.

Our Wild NORTHERN NEIGHBORS

By Harold E Kohn

Restless Ears

Human beings are nearly blind and deaf. as compared to many of their animal brethren. While a person with keenest sight can see only what is going on in front of him and within the scope of his limited "side-vision," a rabbit's protruding eyes, located in the sides of its head, enable it to see what is happening behind him. The ornithologist, E. H. Eaton, has reported an eagle's sighting a fish washed up on a lake shore and diving for it from a measured distance of three miles. From what distance could you clearly see a ten pound fish?

Dr. Kolischer, of the Berlin Physiological Laboratory, in the early part of this century conducted an elaborate series of tests of the tonal sense of dogs. He discovered that dogs have an uishing the exact pitch of sounds. Not only can a dog discern the difference between the sounds made by two adjacent keys on a piano, as can many human beings, but the dog's acute hearing permits it to distinguish between notes that are separated by only one quarter of the range represented by two adjacent piano notes.

Fish and amphibians have canals of sound sensitivity running along their bodies and branching out over their heads, and these canals enable them to sense sound waves vibrating as low as six per second, while our low limit is twenty.

Our neighbors, the whitetailed deer, are among the most alert of all large mammals as far as acute hearing is concerned. They depend upon their restless, ceaselessly moving ears to pick up the subtlest sounds that could warn them of approaching danger. Normal sounds, such as the whispering of grasses and leaves excited by the touch of soft summer winds, leave deer unaffected. But an abnormal note, such as the alarm call of a bird, or the stealthy step of a predator or of man, will be quickly detected and acted upon.

A fawn's sense of hearing appears to be exceedingly sharp, even at birth. Experiments have shown that the slightest noise, enough to make grown deer turn their heads and twitch their ears, would cause a newlyborn fawn to cuddle closer to the ground.

This year's fawn, born in May or June, by early September will be an expert at sifting the air for significant sounds. When feeding, he will never become so absorbed in lush browse that he will lose caution. He will fold his ears back against his neck so that he can decipher sounds coming from quarters to which his vision will not extend.

By fall every young deer will need all his newly acquired skill to hear the approach of hunter in time to make a swift and safe retreat.

telephone lines

DO YOU SOMETIMES feel that it takes hours to cook a meal but only a few minutes for your family to eat it? If you do, count your blessings. There are some people who'd keep you busy cooking all day and night. Take the Belgian who once ate 44 boiled eggs in 30 minutes . . . the man from Chicago who put away 77 hamburgers at a sitting . . . the Australian who swallowed his way through a mound of 480 oysters in the hour.

* * *

YOUR HUSBAND and the children eat a great deal less than some, you see. Even so, to feed them well, you need to spend a lot of time over your pots and pans. That's why a handy extension phone in the kitchen is such a big help. It lets you answer the phone without leaving your cooking—or young children—to chance. The space-saving, wall type extension is most popular for kitchens. It comes in a choice of colors and costs only $1.10 a month, plus tax.

SCHOOL DAYS are here again, and with them comes the chore of outfitting the kids for fall and winter. Always reminds us of how much the youngsters grow from year to year (especially boys' feet). At a time like this remember there's no quicker, simpler way of buying things than to look in your phone book Yellow Pages to find the nearest dealer. And when you're in doubt, you can use your phone and call to make sure who's got what. Do your searching in the Yellow Pages and save time and shoe leather.

* * *

IF YOUR CHILDREN WILL be away at college, keep in touch by Long Distance. If they have a busy schedule, they might not be in when you call—but that's an easy problem to solve. Just have them call you "collect" one evening each week. It costs very little. And that familiar voice on the telephone will be the best cure for the blues ever invented.

Bowling News

BY DES

Freedman No. 1 took over the number one spot by taking Lake Construction for 4 points. High man for Freedman's was Bill Baker with a 508 series. Bill was the only man on both teams to hit over the 500 mark. It's not hard to figure out where he got all that energy when you know that Vera has been down in Indiana since last week.

* * *

Last year's champs, the Airport Inn, looked like chumps as they lost 4 points to Browe Electric. High man for Browe's was Ted himself with a 444. Des and Hank tried their best with Des rolling a 554 with a 220 game and Hank with a 505 series including a 203 game. Supie didn't think 178 pins was enough spot for Browe's so he gave them some help with a 404. Better check Supe, maybe you did lose that finger a couple years ago.

* * *

Neff held down a tie for 2nd place by winning 3 points from the Moonlight. Howard Struthers and Bernie Ward led the way for Neff's. Howard with a 214 game in a 542 series and Bernie with a 518 including a 208 game. The only man to hit 500 or better for the Moonlight was Lyle Miles with a 533.

* * *

Well "Poor Puff" bounced right back this week by hitting a real nice 546 including a 206 game. Nice going Puff! We all knew you could do better than that 404. Puff was the only man to hit over 500 as they split with Hess 2-2. Herb Moore was again high man for Hess with 482. R. V. Jr. had a big 218 third game and although we added the other game with it — all we could get was a 445 series. Ralph always did get stronger later in the night.

* * *

Sinclair Oil moved up the line by taking Swanson's 3-1. Meg came through as anchorman and had the only big series, a 546, although Tip had the big game with a 213. Bob Ferguson was high for Swanson's with a 463.

* * *

Brown Motors stayed right up in the running by taking 3 points from Freedman No. 2 Pete Withers was the high bowler for Browns as he led the way with a 415 series. Freedman No. 2 was game but we're not too sure what game they were thinking of. On second thought they must have known — They didn't write any of their last names on the score card. "Bob" was high with 438, also a "Joe" was there and rolled 287 series.

Thats alright though Joe. Everybody had to learn sometime and I know a couple of guys who would rather have your average at this time of the year than the ones they now have. One especially—me!

We Support Government For All The People

The sad state of affairs in Michigan can be helped by you if you are one of those who believe that: Every normal law abiding citizen and individual worker has rights.

Public officials should serve all with impartiality.

Everyone has a right to work without paying political tribute.

Expenditures of public funds have exceeded the ability of citizens to pay increasing taxes.

Industry will come back to Michigan as soon as the alliance of the labor bosses and the politicians is ended with an all Republican State Administration.

Among the Indians of the Northwest Pacific Coast, "potlatch" was the winter's main social event. The host for this ceremony gained stature in the eyes of his fellows by giving away his possessions. He not only added to his prestige, but made himself potentially richer than before. Self-esteem dictated that each recipient must return to him a greater gift than the one received.

DeVries-Houtman Vows Exchanged Church Ceremony

The Atwood Christian Reformed church was the scene recently of the wedding of Minnie May DeVries and Robert Houtman of Grand Rapids.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur DeVries of Atwood and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Houtman of Grand Rapids.

The Rev. Douglas VanGessell officiated at the double ring service before an arrangement of late summer flowers. Mrs. Hans DeYoung was the organist and Mrs. Robert Klooster the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of Chantilly lace and nylon sheer over satin for her wedding. Her fingertip veil fell from a matching lace cap and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and pink roses.

Mrs. Erwin Holocheck of Charlevoix attended her sister as matron of honor and Frieda another sister and Patricia Houtman of Grand Rapids, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They wore identical waltz length gowns of pastel blue lace over satin and carried cascade bouquets of yellow carnations.

Jerry Hendricks of Grand Rapids was best man. John DeVries, brother of the bride, and John Koedoot of Grand Rapids were groomsmen. Mr. Holecheck and Allen Elzinga seated the guests.

Mrs. DeVries selected a beige linen dress and matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Houtman, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of beige lace and satin and brown accessories. Each had a corsage of pink roses.

A reception followed in the church parlors.

Wedding guests were present from Grand Rapids, Vermontville, Greenville and Royal Oak.

- Mrs. Dan Swartz and Mrs. Marion Jackson sr. have returned home from South Bend, Ind., where they were called by the death of a nephew, Fred Bockover.
- Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Orlebeke have returned to their home in Grand Rapids following a two weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Timmer.
- Mr. and Mrs. Gordon F. Lahive of Detroit were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Totten.

Blue Cross Offers Enrollment Plan For Individuals

Once again all Michigan residents under 65 who cannot enroll through a regular group will be able to get special Blue Cross-Blue Shield coverage on an individual mail enrollment basis during the last two weeks of September.

Wm. S. McNary, executive vice president of Michigan Blue Cross said enrollment under the Non-Group program will be open from Tuesday, September 16th through September 30th.

He pointed out that this makes prepaid, hospital and surgical coverage available to the thousands of persons who are not eligible through regular employee, farm, professional or association groups.

He stressed that enrollment is open during this period to all Michigan residents under 65 without physical examination or health statement whether they are working or retired.

Only requirement is that married persons include spouse and unmarried children under 19. Although the applicant must be under 65, the spouse will be included in the coverage even though over 65.

McNary added:

"We believe this program offers the best coverage available at the price on an individual, non-group enrollment basis."

Folders outlining the benefits and rates of the Non-Group program in detail, together with application cards, are available at doctors' offices, hospitals, all blue Cross-Blue Shield offices or by mailing in a coupon contained in newspaper advertisements.

Enrollment can be completed entirely by mail, but the application must be sent in before the September 30th deadline.

McNary said that more than 175,000 Michigan residents are already covered by the Non-Group plan through previous annual enrollments.

Hearing Group Selects Petoskey

The 27th annual convention of the Michigan Association for Better Hearing will be held in the Perry Hotel, Petoskey, Sept. 19-20-21. The theme for the convention is "Hearing and Speech Clinics."

The program is designed to inform parents of hard of hearing children and the community as a whole, just what services are available to their children and how these services may benefit the parents, the child and the community.

Guest speaker for the Saturday night banquet will be a world famous hypnotist, Edwin L. Baron of Chicago, who will explain and demonstrate the art of hypnotism. Persons wishing to attend need only register. The new mobile unit of the association will be on display and open for inspection both Friday and Saturday.

Protect Your Income

People are just common folks wherever you find them, one simple pattern common to all . . . a farmer, a factory worker, professional man, a laborer or a capitalist. All have the same hopes, plans and responsibilities. We must not be misled by superficialities or by trappings with which men surround themselves. Underneath we are all the same, facing identically basic financial problems that can be solved only by income.

There are only two sources of income, man-power at work and dollar-power at work. Our prosperity depends upon these two sources of income. A man needs income to maintain a home, to buy food, clothing, education, shelter, medical attention and the thousand and one items which go to make up a standard of living. Without income we have misery, discontent and poverty.

We must have a type of government that understands the problems of the people and is willing to take the necessary steps to solve these problems. Your Democratic party will provide you with this type of government. Your Charlevoix County Democratic Committee urges all who are interested in this type of government and who are not registered to vote in Charlevoix county to register with your township or city clerk by October 6 so you may exercise your Democratic privilege to vote Democratic in the November 4 election.

Motorist Warned To Heed School Bus Stop Rules

Michigan's new school bus law requiring motorists to stop when meeting as well as overtaking a school bus stopped to receive or discharge passengers will become effective Saturday, September 13, according to a reminder by Sergeant John Davis, of the Petoskey post of the Michigan State Police.

The old law required stopping only from the rear. The new law now conforms with all states but Utah in requiring stops from both ways

The law does not apply in incorporated villages and cities, but stopping can be required by local ordinance if there are signs informing motorists of the regulation.

"Stops must be made at least 10 feet in front of or from the rear of a stopped bus and motorists may not proceed until the school bus resumes motion, or the school bus driver signals other drivers to proceed, or visual lights on the bus are no longer actuated," said Sergeant Davis.

"There are two exceptions to the rule. Stops are not required at intersections controlled by a stop-and-go signal or a police officer. But in this case drivers may not pass a bus at a speed greater than 10 miles per hour and then with due caution. Cars traveling on the opposite side of a divided highway are not required to stop when meeting a school bus."

When a school bus is about to stop or is stopped to receive or discharge school children, the bus driver is required to give notice by operating flashing red lights at the front and rear of the bus

A Touch of Greatness

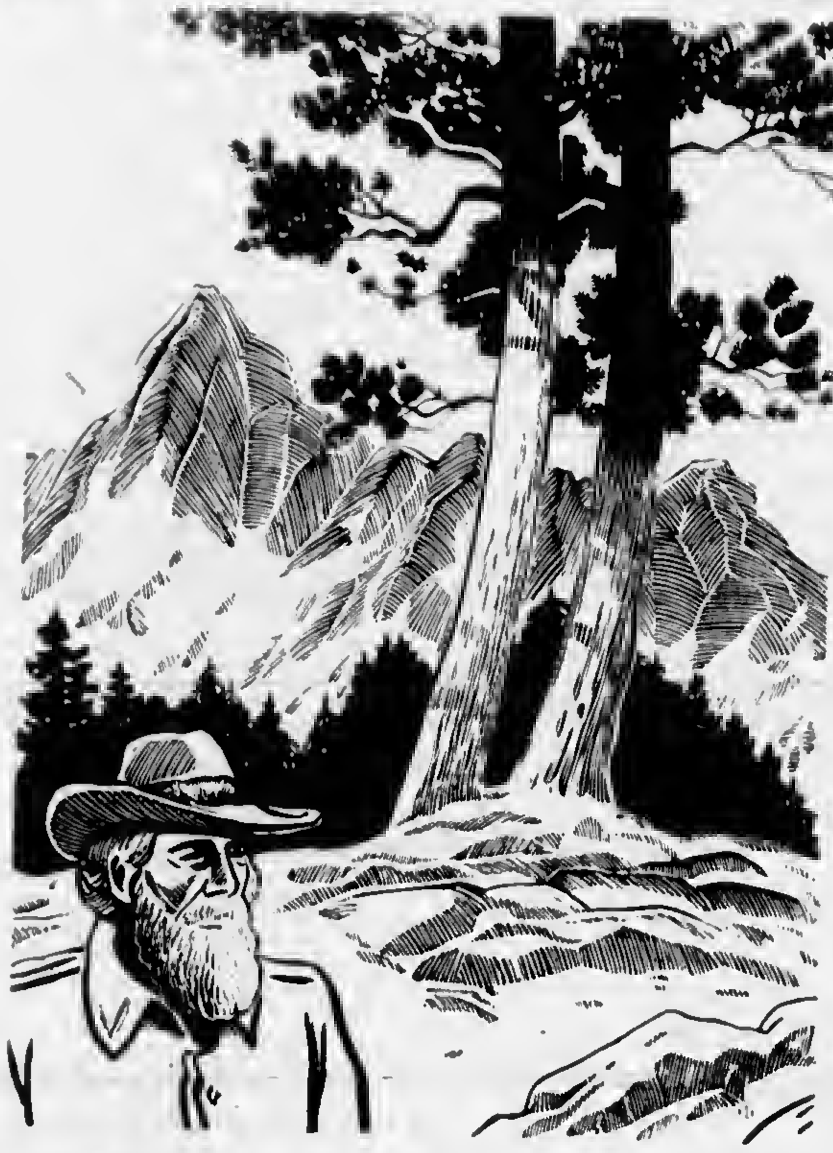
By Harold E. Kohn



Knowledge: New and Secondhand.

Of all the naturalists America has produced — Audobon, Henry David Thoreau, W. H. Hudson, John Burroughs, and the rest — the wildest of the lot was John Muir. He traveled widely in the nineteenth century American wilderness, alone, unarmed, unafraid and perfectly at home. He was stimulated by hardships and delighted in hard work. When night overtook him he could find a sheltered spot almost anywhere and lie down to untroubled sleep.

"John of the Mountains" he was called, for he loved the Sierra ranges and doubtlessly knew them more intimately than any man before or after him. But he could have been named "John of the Forests" just as appropriately, for trees were his friends. One of his best known essays described his reckless ride in the top of a wildly whipping Douglas fir tree during a violent wind storm near the Yuba River in northern California.

Not only did John Muir travel deep into the wilderness, but the wilderness went deep into him. His sense of honor towered like a virgin pine and his manner was as forthright and unmistakably plain as a mountain peak. He was free as the wind, unbound by convention. While his clothes were clean they were nearly never pressed and a razor never touched his face.

Most impressive of all his traits was Muir's search for first-hand knowledge of nature. He read what others had to say about animals and birds, lakes and rivers, forests and mountains, but he was impatient with second-hand information. He sought facts about nature, but more than facts. He pursued a life of communion with the out-of-doors.

John Muir once said a startling thing about books, and as a booklover I was shocked when I first read his statement. "I have a low opinion of books," Muir declared. "They are but piles of stones set up to show coming travelers where other minds have been, or at best signal-smokes to call attention. Cadmus and all the other inventors of letters receive a thousand-fold more credit than they deserve. No amount of word-making will ever make a single soul to know these mountains. As well seek to warm the naked and frost-bitten by lectures or caloric and pictures of flame. One day's exposure to mountains is better than cartloads of books."

Muir's low appraisal of the value of books seems out of character because he was drenched in good literature. As a boy in Scotland he had memorized all of the New Testament and much of the Old Testament. Later, as an adolescent pioneer in Wisconsin, cleaning the forests, building fences, and tending to crops and livestock he found time to pursue the study of great literature. His stern father forbade him to read in the evenings after days of hard work telling him that he would have to read earlier if he wished to study. So the inventive young Scot devised a clock attached to a mechanism that would dump him out of bed onto the floor at an early hour. Then he studied until time to do the morning chores.

John Muir wrote and published a great many magazine articles and books, and after his death in 1914 collections of his heavy articles were published by his friends. John Muir was a reader and writer, and his declaration "I have a low opinion of books" must be accepted as a relative statement that might well be completed with some such expression as ". . . when compared to first-hand experience." For the second-hand experience of nature that we get through books is a poor substitute for the direct experience of beauty in the mountains, on the lakes and high seas, on the wide, sweeping plains or under a sunset or star-splashed sky.

The experience of nature can hardly be satisfactorily savored second-hand. One must taste for himself. The great students of creation have not written books for the purpose of satisfying the reader's craving for information or to slake the reader's thirst for life's elemental beauties. Rather, their writings have been invitational, reminiscent of the prophet Isaiah's cry "Ho, everyone that thirsteth, come ye to the waters."

The best things in life must be experienced first-hand to be enjoyed. The Puritan Fathers came to North America and discovered here freedom they had never known before. They then sent word to their friends across the Atlantic, "Come, see for yourselves." Louis Pasteur found a way of combating disease, told of his findings before the French Academy of Science, and informed the distinguished and somewhat sceptical assembly that his expedition into the unexplored realm of prevention medicine was not a private enterprise for Louis Pasteur alone, nor was it an experience they could only have second-hand. "Come and see for yourselves," he invited them.

A person can know all about driving a car by reading a pamphlet about it, and he can learn all the traffic and safety laws by memorizing a few simple instructions. But while knowing about driving, he is still no driver until he has had considerable experience behind the wheel of a car and until the proper habits of thinking and acting become automatic with him.

Blaise Pascal, the French mathematician, scientist and philosopher, was at work in his laboratory soon after the death of his beloved daughter when a scientist friend stopped by to see him. Observing Pascal's faith and quiet trust in the face of his tragedy, the friend said, "Pascal, I wish I had your creed, then I would live your life." Pascal replied calmly, but firmly, "Live my Life and you will soon have my creed."

The great creeds are attempts, often fumbling, to explain a way of life, just as books are endeavors to explain experiences. But creeds and books do not come first. Experience does. Whether we want to know nature, freedom, driving a car, or the goodness of God, as the Japanese proverb puts it, "One look is worth a thousand reports."

other halfback position and his younger brother, Bob, will fill the fullback spot.

At Grayling Coach Don Ferguson has had to call on a newcomer, Bob Haskins to take over the quarterback position after Steve Sink whom he had been grooming for the position suffered a knee injury in practice. Dave Wyman, one of several lettermen, will take over the fullback duties while Roger Hatfield, a veteran and Bill Lucksted will take over the halfback slots.

Coach Ferguson is expected to send Tim Perry and Don Leslie in as ends; Larry LaGrow and Tom Galvani into the tackle positions; Mike Goodrich, Curt Haase or Bill Staphan as guards and John Cox or Bill Weaver into the center position. Though the line will lack experience it will average about 185 pounds.

Though the East Jordan line will average between 165 and 170 pounds, Coach Gayle Saxton will be fielding one of his most experienced teams in several years. Larry Gee or Jim Kenny will be called to fill the quarterback position, Jim Yettaw will fill the fullback position while Jack Gee and Mike Kowalske are expected to fill the halfback positions.

Larry Hayden, a regular, and Jack Kraemer or Bill Malpass to probably start in the end positions; Bruce Brintnall and Jerry in the tackle spots; Bob Sherman, Bob Johnson, Bill Johnson or Louis Kraemer will be called on to take over in the guard positions with either Buck Cihak or Curt Thompson starting at center.

The defending champions, the Boyne City Ramblers, will have a line-up spotted with lettermen and a few veterans from last year's team. However, despite the lack of experienced players, Coach Paul Pfahler should come up with a pretty fair squad which could go far in defending the title it held for two years. John Kirby, a lettermen, at left half will be the only experienced player in the backfield along with quarterback Jack Dixon, a sophomore, fullback Doug Grubbe and halfback Tom Kujawski

Veteran George Shiotelis along with Dave Kirby are expected to fill the end positions; Paul Hibbard, a letterman, and Bruce Newville, the tackle spots; Pat Bryan and Lloyd McGeorge, the guard positions and letterman, Don Tomkins, center.

Pellston is another team that should shape up well as the season progresses. Coach Francis McMahon has done a fine job with the Hornets and before the season is over should give some teams a lot of trouble. Letterman Barry Anderson will call the signals. Bill McClutchey, one of two returning veterans, along with John Gibbons will alternate at fullback with McClutchey also working his old position at end; Gary Spencly and Ron Searles, a pair of juniors, will take over the halfback positions.

Allen Cameron will be the other end along with McClutchey; letterman Nelson Marshall and Lucius Cabinaw will fill the tackle spots; Earl Marshall, Bill Shawa and Bob Archer will be candidates for the guard positions and Jerry Mallory, a veteran center, will complete the starting line-up.

At Harbor Springs which was hard hit by graduation, Coach Charlie Paige will have one letterman, Ed Meyer, in the backfield as fullback. George Coveyon will take over the quarterback duties and Doug Meeer and Ron Niswander are expected to get the halfhack assignments.

Ken Garver and Bob Bernhardt, hoth lettermen, and a sophomore, Francis Lauer, will he candidates for the end positions, Stan Huffman, veteran tackle who weighs 235 pounds. Steve Adams a letterman, and Gerald Wells will be vieing for the tackle positions, another veteran, John Borowski and Jim Hill are expected to start in the guard spots and Terry Burns in the center position.

Local Stores Plan Friday Evening Hours

The Retail Division of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce met Monday evening at the city hall with more than 20 local businesses represented. Robert Neff, chairman of the group, presided.

A discussion regarding the evening opening of local stores brought out the fact that the Kroger company keeps its stores open on Friday evening as the result of a survey which revealed that the majority of householders do their shopping on this evening rather than Thursday or Saturday. Max Moore, manager of the local store, said that the Friday night opening was a state policy with the company. He went on to say that in one large northern Michigan community the Kroger company store was open Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening but that the store did more business on Friday evening than on the other two nights combined. As the result of this and other ideas presented, it was decided by the majority of the businessmen present to keep their stores open until 8:30 p.m. every Friday from Oct. 1 through the month of December.

Three local places, the Chatterbox, Moshy's restaurant and Williams News Stand will offer

Know Your Community Chest

Editor's Note: The 1958 Community Chest drive to raise funds for 11 agencies will begin Oct. 6. This is the first in a series of articles designed to acquaint you with the agencies which will receive funds through the campaign.

Among the agencies to receive funds through the Community Chest are the Charlevoix Association to Aid Retarded Children, the Community Nurse and the Emergency Fund.

The first, the Association to Aid Retarded Children, has asked for $950.00, the same as last year. These funds will be used to operate a school for the retarded children in the community.

There is no state aid available for such schools and the only way one can be operated is by community assistance. The school opened last week for the fifth year. Children attend half-day sessions of school throughout the school year learning to care for themselves, to get along with others and to do things in the home.

This year the Association has taken over the former Washington school. Necessary repairs and remodeling have been completed and classes have started.

The Association submitted an estimated budget of $1,660. The amount requested from Community Chest will be supplemented by the Association through memberships, special contributions and fees. A total of five children attend the school.

A request of $1,450 has been submitted for the community nurse by Dr. A. F. Litzenberger, director of District Health Unit No. 3 under whose direction the nurse carries out her duties in the community. Of the amount requested, $1,150 will be for salary and $300 for travel expenses.

Mrs. Jeanne Miles is the community nurse in connection with her duties as school nurse. Her salary is paid by the Community Chest, contributions, the school and the district health department.

Mrs. Miles serves the community by calling on new mothers and advising them in the care of their new babies, teachings home nursing and other courses under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix county chapter of the American Red Cross, visits homes where children are ill, works with the Civil Defense program and attends meetings and training courses relating to these duties.

A request of $300.00 for the Emergency fund has been submitted to the Community Chest. This is disbursed under the direction of Mrs. Miles. This fund underwrites the cost of eye examinations and glasses and other expenses for children in the community whose parents are unable to afford these needs.

Council Issues Permit to Build Dixon Ave. Motel

A building permit for a 24 unit two-story stone and glass motel to be constructed at the corner of Michigan and Dixon ave. was approved by the Charlevoix city council at a special meeting Monday night.

The permit was granted to Earl A. Young, agent for a corporation which will build the motel. Tentative plans call for the construction of an additional 20 units at some future date.

According to plans and specifications in which it was established that the building lot will face Dixon ave., the structure will be built along Michigan ave., across the southern section of the 198 by 200 ft. lot and then north on the eastern section of the property. The building will include 24 units plus an office. It is understood that construction will begin shortly.

At the same meeting it was decided to advertise for sealed proposals on waterfront improvements on Round Lake. The bids will be received in the office of the City Superintendent until 8 p.m. Monday Oct. 6.

Included in the project on which bids will be received is the installation of 145 ft. of a steel sheet piling bulkhead on Round Lake from Neff's grocery north; the construction of a new steel and timber pier behind the Chamber of Commerce building and dredging of the lake north of the Model Home laundry.

The project, known as the 1958 Charlevoix municipal harbor improvement project, is being done in conjunction with the Michigan State Waterways Commission.

Funeral Service Held Monday for Henry Block

Henry Block, 79, former garage owner and Marion township resident, died early Friday at Traverse City where he had lived for the past seven years. He had been in failing health for some time.

Work Started on Swimming Pool At Beach Hotel

The pool which will be located off Michigan ave. on the site of the former Butters' Sunset lodge, will be 20 by 40 ft. and will have heating elements built into it so the water will be a given temperature at all times, according to E. L Kramer, owner-manager of the popular summer hotel. The pool, which overlooks Lake Michigan, will have a concrete border around it where colorful lawn furniture will be placed for the convenience of the hotel guests. The entire area will be landscaped.

The work is being done under the direction of Floyd Hull by the Swanson Construction Co. The excavating has been completed and forms placed in readiness for the concrete work. The pool will be completed within the month, weather permitting, Mr. Kramer said.

This is only a part of a remodeling and improvement program planned for the hotel, Mr. Kramer added. The work will be done during the winter months in preparation for next season.

The first project was the razing of a frame structure north of the hotel overlooking Lake Michigan which was formerly used as a dormitory for employees and more recently for storage.

Girl Scouts Ask For Troop Leaders

The Charlevoix Girl Scout Council has issued a plea for leaders and assistant leaders.

There is urgent need for leaders and assistant leaders for eight intermediate and two Brownie troops, according to Mrs. Herbet Campbell, troop organization chairman, who added these prospective Scouts would have to forego the privilege of Scouting unless someone volunteered for the job.

It is not necessary to have previous training in Scout leadership to assume the posts. Anyone wishing to become a leader or an assistant is asked to call Mrs. Campbell.

Hunting Season Opens in North State Wednesday

Hunting seasons in northern Michigan will be in full swing October 1 with deer, bear and small game as targets.

Archery deer season gets underway throughout the state for some 35,000-40,000 bow and arrow enthusiasts. These modern Robin Hoods may take deer of any age, either sex during the October 1- November 5 season in 79 counties.

Archers are restricted to "bucks only" in Emmet, Menominee and Chippewa county — excluding Drummond Island. However, during an October 1-December 15 season in Allegan county, deer of either sex are legal game for archers.

Bow and arrow hunting for bears also is legal throughout the state during the October 1-November 5 season.

Firearm hunters, meanwhile, will be in action during an October 1-November 5 bear season in the upper peninsula and the northern lower peninsula. Bears may be hunted under a small game license during this season and use of dogs is permitted.

In the U. P. and the northern lower peninsula, an October 1-November 10 season is in effect for ruffed grouse and squirrels while an October 1-March 1 season covers bunting fo cottontail rabbits and snowshoe hares.

Prairie chickens and sharptails may be hunted in the U. P. only, during an October 1-November 10 season.

Specific areas closed to certain types of hunting during these seasons are listed in the 1958 Michigan Game Law Digest.

Plans Completed for Community Chest Fund Campaign

Final plans for the 1958 Community Chest campaign to raise $9,996.06 for 11 agencies have been announced by Mrs. James Coleman, chairman of the fund-drive.

The Business-Industrial and Professional division of the drive will be launched Monday, Oct. 6, with the residential campaign opening the following week, Oct. 13, Mrs. Coleman said.

In preparation for the campaign Mrs. Coleman called a meeting of captains in the various areas and divisions as well as all workers in the Business-Industrial and Professional group at the band room Wednesday night. Material was distributed and last minute instructions given.

In addressing the captains Mrs. Coleman and Leonard Burns, Chairman of the Community Chest board of directors, said that if Charlevoix is to meet its goal of $9,996.06 this year then every possible contributor in the area must be contacted. The 1958 goal is $750 more than last year's due to a few increases and the addition of one new agency, the Charlevoix Service Organization. If we are to meet our obligation to these agencies it will be necessary that workers make a thorough canvas of the community and that everyone in the community contribute to the best of his ability.

Agencies in the Community Chest fund campaign and the amounts being raised for each follow: Michigan United Fund, $1,452; Charlevoix hospital, $1,121.06; Community Nurse, $1,450; Scenic Trails Council, Boy Scouts, $1,450; American Red Cross, $1,000; Charlevoix Girl Scout Council, $750; Charlevoix City Recreation, $800; Salvation Army, $325; Charlevoix Association to Aid Retarded Children, $950; Charlevoix Service Organization $450; Emergency fund, $300 and Campaign expenses, $100.

Mrs. Coleman has enlisted the assistance of the following to work on the Business-Industrial and Professional solicitation com-

You're A Salesman for Charlevoix

Each of us is a salesman for our town. Our attitude toward industry, our town and our people could determine whether our community will get additional jobs.

It's not a question of whether we want to be salesmen. We are—good ones or bad ones.

All of us can be readily contacted by a "stranger" in town as we walk in the business district, shop or stop at a lunch counter. From us he can obtain information on industry and the progress of our town. As a salesman, each is a "very important person."

A generally favorable reaction to questions concerning community attitude may bring further study and eventual location of a manufacturing plant here. On the contrary, an unfavorable attitude may terminate the survey and eliminate us from further consideration.

Assurance that our town will receive full and careful evaluation as a plant site can be gained if we form the habit of "talking up" our good points. Our people are our town's spokesmen. Clerks, housewives, cab drivers, shoppers and others frequently hold the balance which determines whether a community obtains a new industry or if it goes elsewhere.

Necessity for this positive approach on the part of all of us is stressed in the series of advertisements being run in the Courier and 300 other Michigan newspapers in a campaign sponsored by the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Department of Economic Development.

Free Money for All

Or so the Michigan Democratic Platform would have us believe. Somehow the notion has grown that money from Lansing, from Washington, is free. How quaint.

Any government can give only what it has taken away from someone. And in the final analysis taxes are paid only out of production, out of the fruits of the work done by the entire community, and collected inevitably from the ultimate consumer.

Thus we have a retail sales tax to get free money from Lansing for our schools, and with it a host of rules, regulations, restrictions and the equalization board to set local property valuations for training purposes.

Just for a moment, ask yourself what services you have demanded that have increased the government spending over 100% in his ten years of office, and that would farther increase it in the next two years.

Your $upport is urgently needed, now and on November 4th.

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

WHAT WOULD YOU do if someone sent you two young, real young, palm-trees as a gift? Fantastic? No, it's not and we can tell you about someone who received two that are just sprouting from nuts . . . and if you don't believe us, stop by and take a look at one of them at Gill's Appliance . . . Mrs. G. received them from a former classmate, Elwood Livingston, who now lives in Naples, Fla. . . . When he was here for their class reunion he said he'd send them to her but who ever heard of anyone sending someone a real live palm tree? . . . So was she surprised when she received them recently . . . We're wondering how she's going to keep them from freezing, come cold weather . . . And, we might add, so is she! . . . We'll wait and see.

* * *

WHO SAWS THE day of the honest man is long gone . . . Mrs. Homer DeSlover of Mt. Clemens and a couple friends had occasion recently to find out that he's very much around . . . especially in Charlevoix . . . Seems they were on the commercial dock recently and somehow left their 'rather expensive' coats, as Mrs. DeSlover tells it . . . They had left town when they discovered the coats were missing . . . Last week they were back in Charlevoix and on the slim chance that the coats had been turned in stopped at the Chamber of Commerce office to inquire . . . And sure enough, there were the coats waiting to be claimed . . . Right where Joey Howard had left them, hoping that someone might return and want them . . . Mrs. DeSlover is ever so grateful about everything.

* * *

REMEMBER that night-blooming serus we mentioned recently, . . . We never did get up to Mrs. Harry Gebeau's to see it so the next time one of the blossoms popped out she brought it to us . . . And a lovelier bit of beauty we've never seen . . . The inside was as delicate as a bit of angel hair . . . the petals a heavenly white and the aroma as fragrant as a hothouse full of gardenias . . . If you get the idea that it's beautiful you're right . . . and don't take our word for it . . . Stop in and see the next one as it unfolds.

* * *

THERE'S AN effort afoot to keep the local theatre open this winter . . . Or haven't you heard? . . . Well, there is and you are being asked to support it . . . How? By going to the movies . . . in Charlevoix and not in six other communities in the north . . . All you have to do is check the coming attractions and you will find that those same movies will be here . . . maybe next week . . . but they'll be here and what difference does it make if you see them a week later.

* * *

YOU KNOW, when someone new comes to our town, he or she looks around for something to do . . . And what do you think their reactions are when they find that Charlevoix doesn't even have a movie? . . . So won't you do your bit by attending the movies now and then . . . Seems to us it's the least you can do to make Charlevoix a better town in which to live . . .

* * *

WE DON'T WANT to sound too confident but after seeing that crew in action last week, we're hopeful . . . that this is the year . . . Perhaps we're a bit premature but we're hopin' and darn it, we can dream, can't we?

But the boys have their work cut out for them for the next seven weeks . . . with one of the toughest games coming up this week . . . against Mancelona . . . We hope that they'll be real good little boys, stay well, mind their manners and play their best, come Friday . . . They'll need a bit of luck and a lot of backing . . . which we're sure they have from everyone . . . So lots and lots of luck and let's get with it . . . We're sure you have what it takes so how's about showing us.

* * *

WE'D LIKE to mention right here that we're pretty proud of the school spirit this season . . . And we don't mean following Friday's game . . . There's a different feeling around the old place and it's good . . . Let's hope they keep it regardless of what lies ahead.

A STRANGER IS IN TOWN

He is representing a company considering your town and several other towns as a place to put a manufacturing plant. But he isn't talking about that. He isn't even calling on the chamber of commerce or the town officials; not today, maybe never. They may never know he was here.

He came just to talk to people along the street and get an impression of the town. It may be a good impression or it may not be. That depends on the people he meets. At least he will know what they think of their town.

He will be influenced perhaps by a merchant, a cab driver, a barber, a service station attendant, a banker — perhaps by you.

Every citizen is a spokesman for his community, a good spokesman or a poor one. Your enthusiasm for your town can attract industry and put money in your pocket. Your lack of enthusiasm will send industry searching elsewhere.

Weaver-Gibbons Exchange Wedding Vows at Grayling St. Marys Church

St. Mary's church in Grayling was the scene recently of the wedding of Judith Hannah Weaver and Thomas A. Gibbons.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Weaver of Grayling and Dr. and Mrs. Gerald C. Gibbons.

Arrangements of white gladioli decorated the altar for the solemn High Mass which was celebrated Sept. 13 by the Rev. Fr. Joseph Sakowski. The Rev. Fr. E. F. Denay of Charlevoix was deacon and the Rev. Fr. Grille of Roscommon was sub-deacon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a chapel length gown of white embossed taffeta for her wedding. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion fell from a lace band and she carried a white prayer book topped with a white orchid.

Georgia Lucksted of Grayling was maid of honor and Judy Larson, also of Grayling, was bridesmaid. They wore identical street length gowns of deep blue organza and matching accessories and carried white satin puffs covered with minature pink roses.

Michael A. Gibbons of Charlevoix assisted his brother as best man. Victor Gibbons of Ann Arbor and Charles Gibbons of Detroit, brothers of the bridegoom, and John D. Weaver of Versailles, Ohio, and William Weaver of Grayling, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. Weaver selected a royal blue crepe dress, matching accessories and a corsage of white gladioli for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Gibbons, mother of the bridegroom, wore a shaded gray ensemble, red accessories and a red gladinli corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Grayling high school. The bridegroom is also a graduate of the same high school and attended the University of Detroit and the University of Michigan.

Take Your Medicine... ...But Take It As Directed!

Be sure! Be safe! When taking medicine of any kind, always read the label and follow the dosage directions exactly as given. One capsule, tablet or spoonful three times a day is not the same as three capsules, tablets or spoonsful once a day. The reaction could be greatly different. Over-dosage can be dangerous. Under-dosage can make the medicine ineffective. Be sure you know what you are taking—then take the medicine exactly as directed. You'll feel better faster doing "just what the doctor orders."

A Touch of Greatness

By Harold E. Kohn

Your Chief Competitor

One reason I enjoy our wild animal brethren is because they are so innocent of a common human fault — our insane pride in competitiveness.

That fawn that was born late last May and was hidden and nursed on our wild acres is growing at a rate all his own, not caring whether he is smaller or bigger than other fawns that saw the light of day in his natal month. (If he eats well he may attain the weight of 75 to 100 pounds by the time he is six months old, gaining one-third pound per day or more.) He is untainted by any arrogance at having more white spots on his heaving sides than do other fawns living in the same woods and pastures. Regardless of what other fawns may do, when the time comes to lose his spots, he will lose them, probably late in September. He may now run faster than his neighbors, or slower, but his greater speed will not engender conceit, nor would loss in a race across a sunlit meadow trouble his sleep. A fawn, like his animal cousins and bird neighbors, is quite content to live and grow at his own rate and in his own way, without making distainful or discouraging comparisons. I like that about animals.

We humans are born into a society that teaches us to strive to be first among our fellows, with the result that our happiness depends less upon our real achievements in life than it does upon making favorable comparisons between ourselves and others. Customarily our joys do not depend upon our doing a good job, or even an excellent one, but upon beating our nearest competitor. Our chief regrets are not that we have failed to meet a high standard of performance, but that we have lost out to a rival. Ordinarily, we could be fairly well satisfied with even a mediocre record as long as we surpassed all our competitors. This is equally true of our most personal relations with our acquaintances and with the relationships among the world's great nations.

Sometimes our competitiveness is expressed in a childish craving for predominance. A Polish family which had lived next door moved away, and a lonely little American girl was in tears. Her mother asked her the reason for her crying, and the youngster explained that she was sad because the Polish family had left. This astonished the mother. "I didn't realize you loved them so much," she said.

"Oh, it isn't that," the little girl confessed. "But now that they have moved there is nobody that I can feel better than!"

For some of us that is one of life's essentials, to have someone near toward whom we can feel superior

Sometimes competitiveness goes to such lengths that it is neurotic. Then a person measures himself against others in every situation — even in circumstances that do not warrant competition. It may be natural enough for two beauty contestants to question which is the more beautiful, or for two singers to ask themselves who has the better voice, or for two political contestants to question who is the more popular. But the person whose competitiveness has gotten out of hand applies such questions without discrimination —always, everywhere and under all circumstances making comparisons between self and others, asking who is more beautiful, who has the better voice, or who is more popular. He wants to be ahead of everyone and is miserable if he is not. If the question is one of popularity, he measures his own acceptance by the public against that of everyone, secretly wondering "am I more popular than he" when he faces the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker, as well as his political opponent.

So with intelligence. The person plagued with neurotic competitiveness must be ahead of everyone or he is uncomfortable. If someone in his group can outtalk him, being better informed or wittier, he is inwardly disgraced. As a result he can hardly savor any fellowship and be thoroughly satisfied by it, unless he comes out on top in what he considers as the race for approval and respect. Nor can he give his complete and dedicated attention to any cause because his first loyalty is to himself, and his first aim is conquest over other minds rather than the advancement of a great purpose.

The competitor makes himself wretched in another way. Not only must he be better than anyone else at one point, such as in popularity or intelligence, but often he seeks to be best in everything. Thus he stretches toward an impossible goal. His excessive ambition draws him in dozens of directions at once and, since he cannot possibly be the best in everything, makes him feel defeated in many of the projects he attempts. He cannot enjoy painting as a hobby, because his pictures must be better than anyone elses. He can hardly converse comfortably, because he must be the best conversationalist in the group, and if his circle of friends (competitors, to him) turn to playing croquet, he must win or suffer abject inner defeat. Since no one can be best at everything, the neurotic competitor will always be inwardly distressed, no matter how well he can "grin and bear it" outwardly.

Even the competitor's successes are usually bound to be disappointing to him. There is still someone, somewhere up ahead of him. That spoils everything. If he sings, there is someone in the world who can outsing him. If he paint, somewhere on earth there is someone who can paint better. If he speaks in public and does well, soon along comes someone who is a better orator. No matter how fast he runs, some day his record will be broken. Even his greatest successes are dimmed by the haunting awareness that someone, somewhere is better, or someday will be better.

Moreover the unfettered ambition of wild competitiveness makes a person dangerously aggressive. His longing to be best carries with it an implicit hostility that determines that no one else shall be quite capable, quite intelligent, quite successful. If he is to reach the mark, everyone else must fall short of it. So he secretly delights in another's defeat. He is inwardly pleased at another's faults. And, if the faults are not apparent he must imagine them and talk about them. If his pride is in intelligence, another person's mistakes are the result of being "stupid." If his pride is in popularity, another's disgrace "serves him right for being such a social climber." Others must be cut down to size, which means below his own level.

Is there a sensible antidote to our foolish, overgrown competitiveness? There is. One kind of contest is noble and justifiable— regard yourself as your chief competitor. Outplay yourself. Improve on your own record. Regard the person you were yesterday as the one you must beat. There is adventure in that, and satisfaction, too.

What a difference that would make in our businesses, if every business man and business organization did not try to "cut the other fellow's throat" but constantly improved his own products and his services! Every product on the markets of the world can be made more cheaply and sold for less — if all we want is cheapness. Every craft can be exercised more carelessly and shoddily for less money, if cost-competition among the crafts and trades is most desireable. But we need something in our business world beside low prices. We need pride in workmanship, delight in high quality, and satisfaction in rendering an improved service, and to achieve these things we must develop in business the kind of competition that counts most — the intense desire to outstrip yesterday.

We need such a purpose in international life, too— not to excel the record of another nation, but to become daily a better America, a better member of the family of nations, and a better symbol and example of freedom and hope. It is not enough to get ahead or to stay ahead of the Russians. We must get ahead of the America we are at any given moment of history.

In personal life such competition means a prolonged childhood of the spirit, perpetual growth. It means being a bit bigger and wiser today than you were yesterday. In all the contests that matter most, you are your chief competitor

BY DES

The Airport Inn took it on the chin again for the second week in a row. Moonlight Gardens was the victor this time as Grover Geneit lead them to 3 points with a 205 game and a 542 series. Lyle Ance also a 205 but a 123 first game offset that. Supie must have got some life in that finger this week as he finally came to life and bowled games 213 and 242 in a 606 series. Duz came in with a 569.

* * *

Lake Construction took 3 points from Swanson with Ron Wojan high man for the Lakers with 489. 3 points with a 2099 series. Now that's the way to bowl if you can get away with it. Al Smith was trying those first two games but he just couldn't hit 90. Maybe he is trying to work an angle so he can get Tuesdays off to rest up. Bob Ferguson was high for the losers with a 435.

* * *

Neffs went into a three way tie for first by taking 4 points from Freedman No. 2. High man for Neffs was Gordon himself who is getting off to a nice start this year. Gordon was consistent rolling games of 179, 178 and 174 to total 531. Freedman No. 2 had another bad night with only one man over the 400 mark and that was H. Pearsall with 415.

* * *

Freedman No. 1 stayed up as one of the top teams by winning 3 from Browe Electric. Don Gilbert and Bill Baker both hit over the 500 mark. Don with a 524 and Bill with an even 200 game in a 546 series. Most of Browes team had a pretty tough time except for Ted who tried to keep his team in the game by rolling a 216 in a 573 game. At least the other four men were consistent. They were all in the 300's.

* * *

Puffs made the 500 mark by winning 4 points from Sinclair. Ron Cunningham and Terry Rice led Puffs with a 511 and 216 game for Ron and Terry with a 504. The only man to do anything for the oilers was Meg again with a 523. Ted came out of retirement to bowl the anchor spot and had a 450.

* * *

Browns held down the other top spot by winning 4 points from Hess Furniture. Kenny Balch was top man with a 506. C. T. (Itchy) Bennett finally hit his stride and came up with a 518 series. Big man for Hess had been Herb Moore. Herb bowled anchor man last night and did worse than Ted. Novotny and Hess were along for the ride — why I don't know. Itch might have been able to take a point if he could have used their averages instead — even minus the 10 pins.

* * *

We owe an apology to Rrowe Electric. We gave the team high game and series to Neffs last week when actually it was Browe with a 941 and 2588.

High Game — Henry Soup 242
High Series — Henry Soup 606
Team High Game — Airport Inn 911
Team High Series — Puff's Appliance 2549.

Michigan Mirror

By ELMER E. WHITE

DELINQUENCY among the teen-agers of the new rock and roll generation is creating new ripples of alarm among the men who make the laws for Michigan.

Muggings, sluggings, robberies, car theft, vandalism — and a chuckle at the rules society lives by; all are too common for comfort.

* * *

THE PROBLEM arose in other generations. Though the case now may have different tools, the problem remains.

A special legislative committee headed by Rep. Harry DeMaso, of Battle Creek, is studying blunt testimony from shocked adults in an effort to develop new controls over the young.

* * *

PROBATE JUDGE Lee Mallison of Battle Creek suggests a form of "communal living" for teen-agers in trouble. It would be established in their hometowns but out of their former environment.

Mallison, who agrees that not all officials who work with youths share his views, said part of the blame is the attitude of leniency toward youngsters nowadays.

* * *

"A SPECIAL worker, a veteran in the field, told me a boy shouldn't be treated harshly because he only stole a car," he said. "This worries me and I believe it would worry the state."

Dr. James J. Brennan, of the Michigan State University Police Administration department and a former New York City police veteran, has views similar to Judge Mallison's.

FOUR MAJOR FACTORS in the upbringing of a child share the blame if he goes wrong, Brennan said

The are the family — the basic unit of society —, the church, the schools and the community.

* * *

IF ALL FOUR are working together and approach their top efficiency, juvenile delinquency is unlikely.

"Families have the first responsibility. From the day a child is born, there is the influence of the home to protect and guide him. Those with happy families rarely get in trouble." Brennan said.

Those are recognized waypoints in the process of growing up. Dr. Brennan proposes fourth, the community which can — if it will — control the vice, the type of magazines on the newsstands.

* * *

ANOTHER JUDGE, Vallie W. Dussia of Monroe, proposed a system of camps, similar to the depression-era Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) program.

This would be aimed at separating youngsters in trouble from their environment and the influences that created their problems; give them constructive work to do.

Judge Dussia said he would appoint a special committee of probate judges to study the problem and come up with recommendations for such a program.

* * *

THIS PROPOSAL brought up another problem — the state law which bars youngsters between 14 and 18 from working unless they get special permits from the state labor department.

Youths 14 and 15 years old cannot work after 9 a.m. or before 7 a.m. and 16 and 17-year-olds cannot work after 10 p.m. or before 6 p.m. Work in certain jobs is banned before 18.

* * *

THE LAW WOBBLES between the too-severe and the too-lenient for teen-agers.

The really tough juvenile delinquent under 17 often can get off with a lecture from a serious crime, but the 17-year-old who makes a minor mistake can go to prison with his elders.

Strict law can send a boy to prison for several years when, the experts agree, a six-month stay in jail could do more to teach him the error of his ways and salvage a life.

Michigan has 21 offenses for which the offender can be sent to prison for life. Generally, the crimes against property are punished more severely than the crimes against other people.

* * *

LEGISLATORS are considering a number of proposals.

The 1959 legislative session is expected to see proposals for a work camp plan, similar to Camp Pugsley for probationers near Traverse City, a new family court system and a revision of the state's penal code.

Meanwhile, the first work on a new $12,000,000 Boys Vocational School is underway.

One way or the other, Michigan is attempting to meet the problem of juvenile delinquency again.

MINUTES OF SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

September 22, 1958

Present: Martin, Freedman, Lieberman, Smith, Bennett, Supt. Absent: Boss

The meeting was called to order at 8:10 p.m.

Minutes of the meeting of September 8 were read and approved.

Moved by Smith, supported by Lieberman, that bills in the amount of $3,693.14 be approved and ordered paid. Motion carried: 4-0.

Mr. Richard Greenlese, of the architectural firm of Gordon Cornwell, appeared and the Board spent considerable time discussing the plans for a new high school. Mr. Freedman, who had just returned from Lansing where he had conferred with the School of Education of M.S.U., regarding the plans, advised they were very pleased and agreed the plans represented the best possible building project for Charlevoix. The Board decided to accept the project as presented and made arrangements for this plan to be presented to all the people of the District, with the necessary costs and other details. It was moved by Smith and supported by Freedman that Fred Thrun, bonding attorney of Lansing, be contacted regarding a bond issue for a new Charlevoix High School. Motion carried, 4-0.

Also appearing before the Board to discuss school pictures was Keith Miles.

The new kindergarten bus runs were discussed, as was the new teacher assignment to provide three teachers for the first grade.

Mr. Bennett advised that State Aid funds from the State will again be delayed. Moved by Freedman, supported by Lieberman, that permission be requested of the Municipal Finance Commission to borrow $15,000 in anticipation of State Aid — notes to be due and payable April 1, 1959. Motion carried: 4-0.

The meeting adjourned at 10:45 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
ALBERT H. SMITH, Secretary

Rayders Open Season With Overpowering Victory, 46-0

Rayder halfback Tom Lakies (33) far left, pictured toting the pigskin for one of the many gains which gave the local eleven a 46 to 0 victory over Class B Rogers City at Kipke field Friday night.

Running interference for him is Tackle Ken Wojan (74) while halfback Bud Balch (31), guards Scott Supernaw (65) and Bruce Pease (73) and others lend their assistance to the play.

This week the Rayders play at Mancelona.

St. Ignace 13
Boyne City 12

St. Ignace 13; Boyne City 12

The Boyne City Ramblers had their 18-game winning streak snapped Saturday night by St. Ignace who came from behind to win 13 to 12 in the last two minutes of play.

The Saints racked up a 6 to 0 lead early in the game when halfback John Robinson went over from the 10 yard line.

The Ramblers snapped back to tie the score 6-all on halfback John Kirby's 35 yard run. Kirby put his team ahead in the third quarter when he made his way into pay dirt from the 10 yard line.

With less than two minutes remaining quarterback Stan Ferris went in from the three on a sneak to tie the score. Tackle Bob Kalbfleisch booted the conversion for the victory as the final gun sounded.

Mancelona 26
Oseoda 6

Mancelona dsplayed its anticipated strength as the Ironmen racked up four touchdowns against the visiting Oseoda eleven. Left halfback Glenn Collins started the scoring spree off by taking the opening kick-off and romping 70 yards on the first play of the game to put Mancelona ahead 6 to 0. Quarterback Don Beihl converted and the quarter ended 7 to 0.

Quarterback Beihl went over from the four-yard line midway in the second period and then added the extra point on a boot to give Mancelona a 14 to 0 halftime advantage.

As the second half got underway Don Biehl took a 15 yard pass from Collins and then went 10 yards for another touchdown. This time the kick was wide.

East Jordan 14
Kalkaska 0

The East Jordan Red Devils came up with a win Friday night over Kalkaska after the latter showed little in the way of opposition to the inspired Jordanites.

The first period was scoreless but early in the second quarter the Jordanites put the ball in scoring position. Left halfback Jack Gee went around end to score from the five yard line. Fullback Jim Yettaw ran the ball over for the extra point.

In the third period Yettaw plunged over from the four and then booted the conversion to give East Jordan its first victory.

Kalkaska was on the march and had pierced to the 12 yard line in the final period when Yettaw halted their attack by intercepting a pass, one of four interceptions he nabbed during the game. Mike Schenck intercepted two and Larry Hayden one. Gee was the chief ground gainer, totaling 102 yards for the game. Yettaw accounted for 67. East Jordan had 10 and Kalkaska nine first downs.

Che. Catholic Cen. 14
Pellston 13

Pellston romped into a 13 to 0 halftime lead over the parochial eleven when left end Bill McClutchey intercepted a Cheboygan pass and galloped 65 yards to score in the first period. Gary Spencly ran the ball over for the extra point as the quarter ended 7 to 0. In the second period Spencly romped 40 yards to score and gave the Hornets a 13 to 0 lead at halftime.

In the second half, however, things were different as Bob Elliott, on a reverse, scored from the 35 yard line. Fullback Fred Martelli booted the impotant extra point as the period ended. Early in the final quarter Steve Poirer went over from the five and again Martelli connected to give the Cheboygan squad a one-point victory.

Roscommon 32
Grayling 0

A 69-yard touchdown run by Roger Hatfield which was called back because Grayling was offside in the first quarter took the heart out of the Vikings who lost to a strong Roscommon eleven by a five touchdown margin.

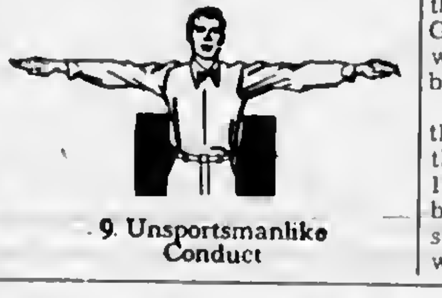
Right halfback Tom McCuthon scored from 20 in the first period, from the seven in the second quarter and from the 10 in the third period to account for three of the five touchdowns. Fullback Jim Brown plunged over from the three and left halfback Bob Stockman from the 10 to give the Roscommon squad a vctory. Brian Hubbard plunged over for two extra point tries.

From the Side Lines . . .

The opening of the 1958 football season brought many looks of surprise as most teams in the conference gave out with a display of power not expected.

With Charlevoix and Mancelona seemingly being the two top contenders for the Class C crown we are looking forward to next week's games when all conference teams will meet and battle for a spot in the race for the Class C title.

Looking at the records of last year we find the Rayders lost to Mancelona by one point, this close score of 19 to 18 would sound like a hard fought ground battle. However the Rayders dropped this game because of a weak pass defense, which seems to be the only weakness in their defense at present.



9. Unsportsmanlike Conduct

Next Week With Class 'C' Teams

King Football moved into the spotlight last weekend as all eight teams of the Northern Michigan Class C league took on non-loop rivals in games played Friday and Saturday nights.

On Friday Charlevoix romped to a 46 to 0 victory over the visiting Rogers City Hurons; Mancelona trounced visiting Oseoda 26 to 6, East Jordan defeated Kalkaska 14 to 0 and Gaylord rolled over Cheboygan 18 to 0. While Roscommon dumped Grayling 32 to 0.

The pre-league schedule games served their purpose well as coaches had an opportunity to see their teams in action before taking on conference opponents in the race for the loop title now held by Boyne City.

After flexing their muscles against non-loop rivals, Northern Michigan Class C conference teams will go against each other Friday as the long road to the title begins.

Heading the action will be the Charlevoix-Mancelona game on the latter's field which will pit two of the strongest teams in the league against each other.

Other games will find East Jordan playing at Pellston in an afternoon game scheduled for 3 p.m.; Grayling playing at Boyne City and Harbor Springs at Gaylord in night games.

The Jordanites' win over Kalkaska saw them returning to the victory trail for the first time since the 1956 season. This taste of victory might be just what the Red Devils need as they open their loop play against Pellston this week.

The Jordanites who have finished way down in the standings for the past two years are beginning their long climb back to the top. Players who started as freshmen and sophomores are now beginning to shape up and it looks as though Coach Gayle Saxton has finally got himself a ball club. How good they are will be determined this week as they go against Pellston, a team which lost last week to Cheboygan Catholic Central by a 14 to 13 score. The Hornets are also undergoing a rebuilding program and Coach Francis McMahon, in his second year at Pellston, is turning out which looks like a pretty fair squad.

Both teams will be put to a real test this week. On the basis of their performances last week, Pellston should have a slight edge in the duel although the Red Devils may have more than they showed against Kalkaska.

The Harbor Springs Rams lost nine of their starting eleven by graduation last spring. The loss was very noticeable as Coach Charles Paige sent his newcomers against Petoskey St. Francis last Saturday night. They may shape up into a good team as the season progresses but right now they will be no match for the Gaylord Blue Devils who last week knocked off Cheboygan by a three-touchdown margin.

Gaylord served notice that they were out for blood when they defeated the Class B team 18 to 0. With an experienced backfield that showed not only speed but finesse and a line that was capable of holding when needed, Gaylord should come up with a win over the Rams and take more than their fair share of games before the season is over.

Boyne City may have lost most of the veteran line-up which gave the Ramblers two titles but out of what remains Coach Pfahler has shaped a team that managed to do very well against a St. Ignce squad which not only had many veterans in its line-up but two games and three additional weeks of practice behind it going into the gmae Saturday night.

Coach Pfahler was well pleased with his backfield which featured one letterman, John Kirby, who scored both the Rambler touchdowns against St. Ignace, a sophomore quarter Jack Dixon and two freshmen halfbacks, Tom Kujawski and Doug Grubbe. Though his line was only dotted with a few experienced players it looked good against the big Saints forward wall.

Grayling, on the other hand, lost to Roscommon 32 to 0 and showed little in the way of opposition to the fast experienced non-league team. In time they may shape up but it is doubtful if the '58 Vikings will be any match for the Ramblers who will be defending their title for the first time this season.

Game of the Week

Mancelona

* * *

The Charlevoix Rayders rolled up an impressive 46 to 0 victory over the Rogers City Hurons at Kipke field Friday night to open their 1958 football season.

The surprisingly easy victory over the Class B squad gave Coach Don Carey a chance to see his '58 team in action and to give his entire squad a workout as everyone in uniform saw action.

In the game against Rogers City, the Rayders, in five plays after the kickoff, had scored and before the quarter was over had added two more touchdowns and an equal number of conversions for a 20 to 0 quarter lead. They continued their [illegible] attack in the second quarter for a 33 to 0 advantage at halftime despite the fact that Coach Carey was substituting freely. As the second half got underway, the Rayders scored two more touchdowns for a total of seven plus four conversions. The last quarter was scoreless as the Hurons tried desperately to connect on passes and Charlevoix recovered a couple of fumbles and ran out the clock.

Charlevoix took the kickoff on its own 25 and returned the ball to the Rogers City 43 where play got underway. Four plays and two first downs later Halfback Tom Lakies scored from the 21 yard line. End Dick VanRaaphorst took over his kicking duties and added the conversion for a 7 to 0 lead.

Rogers City took the kickoff failed to gain ground, punted and then recovered a Rayder fumble on their own 33. A major penalty set the Hurons back on their own 18. Two plays later quarterback Mike Geneit intercepted a Huron pass and went 40 yards to score. The conversion kick was [illegible] and the score remained 13 to 0.

Ro[illegible] after [illegible] kickoff [illegible] to Lakies who took the ball on his own 23 and returned it to the Hurons 17 yard line.

Bud Balch moved the ball into the six yard line where tackle Kenny Wojan, realizing a dream was shifted to the backfield and carried the ball in for a touchdown. VanRaaphorst's boot was good and the Rayders went ahead 20 to 0.

After taking the kick-off Rogers City look to the air to move the ball from their own 29 to their 48 before losing ground to their 38 on the next play. This forced them to punt. Charlevoix returned the ball to their own 48. Two offside penalties set them back to the 38. After losing three yards, Ron Vandenberg carried the ball out to the 48 after faking a kick. A penalty on Rogers City gave the Rayders a first down. After failing to pick up necessary yardage the Rayders gave up the ball to the visitors who were forced to punt after attempting three passes. The Rayders moved the ball from their own 48 to the Rogers City 41 where Bud Balch romped around right end to score. The conversion kick was wide and the score remained 26 to 0.

Charlevoix again kicked off to the visitors who were forced to punt. Taking the ball on the Huron 38, the Rayders then moved it into the 18 where substitute quarterback Charles Coleman took it over for another touchdown. VanRaaphorst added the conversion point as the score became 33 to 0.

Rogers City then took to the air and on the third try Fleming took a pass from Quade on the 25 and romped 75 yards only to have the run called back on an offside penalty. The half ended on the next play.

Charlevoix kicked off to open the second half and took a Huron punt when the latter failed to gain ground. Moving the ball from thier own 47, the Rayders picked up three first downs and moved the ball to the six from where Vandenberg carried it over for a touchdown, Again VanRaaphost's boot was good and the Rayders went ahead 40 to 0.

A kickoff by Charlevoix followed by a punt by Rogers City gave the Rayders another scoring opportunity as they moved the ball from the Rogers 38 to the half-yard line where Gene McBride went through the line to score. The conversion kick was wide and the score remained 46 to 0.

The fourth quarter was dotted with fumbles and pass interceptions as the Rayders' line-up changed with almost every play and the Hurons tried desperately to score as time ran out. The Rayders were in possession of the ball on their own 36 after recovering a fumble as the game ended.

Gaylord 18

Despite the fact that the Blue Devils were playing without veteran guards Jim Morey and Bob King, Gaylord had no trouble with the Cheboygan Chiefs as they rolled up a 13 point lead in the first half.

Quarterback John Burnison scored from the 10 yards line on an end sweep in the first period passed 12 yards to end Bruce Walker who then romped 12 yards to score early in the second period and then climaxed the Blue Devil attack by going over again from the 18 as the half ended. All attempts to boot the extra points were blocked. A recovered fumble on the Cheboygan 40 led to the final touchdown.

The second half was scoreless.

Dope Sheet

The Ironmen are said to have an impregnable line which allows its fast and experienced backs a chance to get away either a run or a pass as well as break through the opponent's defense and ruin its chances of a gain. Though quarterback Don Beihl and halfback Glenn Collins did the scoring against Oscoda, fullback Jerry Beihl and halfback Rod Chase were the chief ground gainers in the game. Much of their yardage was made via the aerial route although their halfbacks were able to pick their way through the Oscoda line.

This week Coach Carey will be working his Rayders in an effort to sharpen their pass defense and to work on other plays designed to halt the Mancelona attack. The Rayder line gave an excellent performance against Rogers City and the backfield displayed its versatility. However, the team showed several weaknesses including pass defense which Coach Carey will try to correct this week.

Friday's game between Charlevoix and Mancelona may well be THE game of the season, with both teams eyeing the title now held by Boyne City, Mancelona looking toward its first and the Rayders to their first since '55, the game should be a close one as each team puts its best foot forward. However, the team that remains the coolest under fire and anticipates and takes advantage of the breaks will emerge the winner, and possibly the 58 loop title holder.

Pet. St. Francis 26
Harbor Springs 6

The roof caved in on the Harbor Springs Rams Saturday night as Petoskey St. Francis ran rough-shod over them to win 26 to 6.

The visitors scored almost at will after a scoreless first quarter. A recovered Rams fumble gave Petoskey its first scoring opportunity as they moved the ball from Harbor's 30 to the six-yard line where halfback John Wodek took the ball in to score. Wodek scored later in the same period on a short pass from quarterback Terry Claser after the Crusaders had recovered another Ram fumble, this time in the 32 yard line. Glaser kicked the conversion.

Glaser scored midway in the third period from the 15 after failing to find a pass receiver. He kicked the extra point to put his team ahead 20 to 0.

Applications for permits must be mailed to the Michigan Conservation Department in Lansing by October 10.

3. Applicant's deer hunting license number, including prefix letters and numbers;
4. Name and address of the dealer from whom the license was purchased.

Both local banks were represented at the meeting. E. D. Hawley and Robert Livingston presented a plan being considered by the banks to close at noon instead of 2 p.m. on Saturday. Since the banks serve the businessmen, the idea was presented to those present. After some discussion the proposed plan was approved. The plan will now be presented to the boards of directors of the banks for their approval.

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

HAD A REAL nice little visit recently with some old friends . . . the William Smith on Petoskey ave. . . . Though they live in our neighborhood we seldom see them because they don't get around much anymore . . . And we've sure missed them . . . especially Mr. Smith who used to cross our yard on his way to and from town . . . Visiting with them brought back memories . . . of when they lived on South Bridge st. in one of two houses on the east side of the street a block or two south of St. Mary's school where we first learned that two and two make four . . . That's hard to imagine now but it's true . . . Mr. Smith had a draying business then and no one was in a hurry . . . and all the trunks and express and what have you was toted by horse and wagon . . . And then they moved to the Boals farm in Hayes township and their daughters drove to school every day . . . because school buses were unheard of in those days . . . And lot of times the girls or Mr. Smith would give us a life . . . It was good seeing them again . . . We enjoyed every minute of it.

DID YOU HAPPEN to watch the football game on TV Saturday? . . . a number of people did without realizing that the Missouri team is coached by Danny Devine . . . former East Jordan coach (just 10 years ago) who went to MSC as an assistant before going to Arizona State in Tempe where he racked up a fabulous record before accepting his present job . . . It was good just getting a glimpse of him . . . and seeing one of his teams in action.

• • •

AND THEN THERE was a game at Kipke field Friday night . . . Those little ole Rayders of ours went wild . . . Former games with Rogers City had been toughies and we think the Rayders were looking for that kind of competition Friday . . . They sure were surprised when they had everything their way . . . One of the things we got the biggest bang out of was the touchdown by Kenny Wojan . . . who's had a yen to be a back but who did such a splendid job in the line that he was doomed to be a tackle . . . But his teammates devised this plan and now Kenny's had the privilege of luggin' the pigskin into the end zone . . . We remember a few years ago when a couple other linemen did the same thing.

Young Americans To Assist Civil Defense Program

On Saturday, October 11, a young American, a Cub Scout, Boy Scout or Explorer, will knock on the door of every home in Charlevoix.

He will be joining with 4,000 other Scouts in the Scenic Trails Council and more than 3½ million across the nation in delivering a Federal Civil Defense "Handbook for Emergencies."

According to Leonard Burns, chairman of Health and Safety for the Northern District, the Handbook for Emergencies gives the basic rules of protection — five steps to safety in the home. It is designed to help prevent needless suffering and to save lives in times of disaster by outlining a family preparedness plan with basic first aid.

In delivering the handbook, the Boy Scouts of America will perform one of the biggest, most valuable Good Turns of the year on a nation-wide basis. The organization is able to muster the resources of boys for this service through the support being given through Community Chest drives and independent Scout fund drives.

Beef Breeders To Hold Annual Sale at Gaylord

The Northern Michigan Beef Breeders Association will present its thirteenth annual feeder sale at Gaylord Thursday, Oct. 9.

Approximately 2,000 head of feeder stock will be offered for sale by more than 80 consignors including several from the Upper Peninsula.

Shanahan of the Birchwood Ranch who will send 64 head to the sale, James Gallagher and Willie Schmidt of Beaver Island, Mark Saunders, Clayton Healey, Ash Stewart and William Gallop all of Charlevoix county.

For the past three years the Association sale at Gaylord has brought the top prices of any similar sale in the state. The reasons for this are because the Association accepts only those feeders which are predominately of a beef type; only those animals whose wounds are completely healed and only those calves which have been weaned and are without horns.

City Ordinance Regulates Meat Processing

The Charlevoix city council, at its regular meeting Monday night, adopted a special ordinance regarding meat inspection, voted to purchase small flasher lights for use on the cars of volunteer firemen and to advertise for bids on insurance and issued a building permit.

Meat Ordinance No. 276 was adopted at the request of the Beaver Packing Co. located in Charlevoix township. The request for the ordinance was made to the city council as the nearest governing unit. The ordinance was drawn up under the guidance of the local health officer and the health department sanitarian.

The council also gave its approval to a resolution to purchase 14 small flasher lights at the cost of $7.12 each to be mounted on the cars of volunteer firemen. The flashers, however, will remain the property of the city.

The council will accept bids for comprehensive liability insurance and fleet insurance until 8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 13.

Bills amounting to $27,148.22 were approved and ordered paid. Included in the amount is an $11,337.50 Diesel bond payment.

Smash Window to Burglarize Store

The Williams newstand and cigar store was burglarized early Wednesday morning and a small amount of money taken, according to Joseph Williams, proprietor.

Entry was made by breaking the glass in the front door and releasing the night lock. Aside from the money nothing appeared to be missing according to Mr Williams. State Police and city police are investigating the case.

This is the second time in less than two months that there has been an attempt to burglarize the store. The first attempt failed when the intruders tried to enter by the rear door but did not force entry through the second door into the store.

Fire Damages Weathervane Inn

Dr. G. G. Mallinson To Be Speaker at First P. T. A. Meet

"The Importance of Science Education in Today's Schools" will be the subject of a talk Dr. George G. Mallinson of Western Michigan University will present at the regular meeting of the PTA to be held at the high school band room at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

In order to have Dr. Mallinson, who will be in northern Michigan to fill another engagement, as a speaker the October meeting was set ahead to Tuesday, Mrs. E. D. Hawley, president of the PTA said.

"Science is becoming more and more important in our way of life. If we are to train the scientists of tomorrow we must begin the job in the classrooms of today. I am certain that Dr. Mallinson who is professor of psychology and science education at Western Michigan University can offer us many constructive ideas which could be adopted in our school system and in the home. It is for this reason that I am urging everyone who can possibly do so attend Tuesday's meeting and hear Dr. Mallinson who has consented to talk before the PTA while in our area,' Mrs. Hawley said in announcing the meeting.

Tuesday's meeting will open the PTA activities for the year. All residents of the school district who are interested in schools are invited to not only attend this meeting but to join the PTA.

Beaver Island To Entertain Dawn Patrol

"America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, will be host this week end to the second annual Dawn Patrol Day. Between 400 and 500 private planes from Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan and their passengers are expected to fly over Lake Michigan to the island resort community Sunday for the event which last year attracted nearly 300 planes and approximately 800 passengers.

Entertainment for the plane tourists will include a choice or combination of color tours, fishing and hunting. The annual tree color change and fall perch run will be at their peak for the plane meet. The ferry boat, Emerald Isle, from the mainland at Charlevoix to the island will be stationed in St. James bay for the day for use by fishermen.

Other activities planned for the visitors include guided tours of the island's lakes, beaches and historic places and horseback riding.

Prizes will be awarded for the first, the 100th and 200th planes registered Sunday, for the crew coming the farthest distance, the plane crew with the largest fish and the crew with the most partridge.

Baby sitters will be provided for both the children of visitors and for those whose parents will be hosting the visitors. Special church services will be held at two centers.

Beaver Island, rich in historic lore because it was ruled in the early 1850's by a self-styled Mormon king and popularly known as America's Emerald Isle because of its Irish residents, is 25 air miles northwest of Charlevoix in Lake Michigan.

• Walter Taylor left Sunday for Bay City where he plans to spend several days with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelley. He will also visit in Flint and Tecumseh before returning home later this month.

Ask Fair Share Giving To Community Chest

The 1958 Comunity Chest fund drive to raise $9,996.06 will officially get underway Monday when workers start the canvas of the business, professional and industrial sections, Mrs. James Coleman, fund chairman ha announced.

The drive in the residential district will open Monday, Oct. 13.

A special program by the Charlevoix high school band directed by C. A. Odmark during the halftime festivities of the Charlevoix - Gaylord football game Friday night will serve as a kick-off for the 1958 drive.

Agencies included in the 1958 fund drive are Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Community Nurse, City Recreation, Charlevoix hospital, Charlevoix Association to Aid Retarded Children, Michigan United Fund, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Charlevoix Service Organization and the Emergency Fund.

In order to meet the 1958 goal everyone is going to have to give to the best of his ability, Mrs. Coleman said in announcing the start of the drive. This is where 'Fair Share' giving comes into the picture

What is "Fair Share" giving?

The government recognizes the need for Fair Share contributions to health and welfare agencies and provides a 10 per cent tax exemption for your fair share gift.

To find your fair share, it is important to break down the 10 per cent deduction allowed for tax purposes. You subtract five percent for church obligations, two percent for church missionary programs, one percent for other charities and one percent for dependency situations (aged mother, etc). This leaves only one percent. Your fair share, if you make less than $5,000 a year, is ¼ of this remaining one per cent. If you make more than $5,000, it is ½ of this one per cent.

In other words, your fair share gift is one-quarter or one-half percent of your yearly income.

The stability of Fair Share giving is one of its important advantages. The giver cannot be 'rated up' because the campaign goal increases. "Fair Share" is your insurance that you will not be asked to give more until you are financially capable of increasing your contribution.

Like the American economy, Fair Share giving is based on installment buying. Through installment payments it is possible to enjoy many things which would be impossible to purchase for "cash." You can enjoy the advantages of health and welfare services in this very same manner because the Fair Share plan is an equitable standard of giving based on income. It does not put a sudden drain on your pocket book as you experience in a "cash" campaign. You pay a portion of your income, and you pay it as that income is realized, thru payroll deduction or personal pledge. If income is reduced or cut off, the Fair Share pledge is automatically adjusted.

All in all, the Fair Share plan incorporated in united giving is the best way yet devised to meet that health and welfare obligation to your fellow man.

Keep all this in mind when your united campaign worker calls.

Do We Want A Theater?

During the winter months last year visitors to Charlevoix were surprised to find the local theater closed and local residents were disturbed because Charlevoix had no movie.

Operating a theater is fundamentally the same as operating any other business. There must be at least enough revenue to pay expenses along with a reasonable profit. It is probable the Palace Theater would operate during the winter with an unreasonable profit providing there was sufficient patronage to cover expenses because closing completely also involves certain costs.

Over the years the management of the Palace has done a commendable job in its selection of entertainment suitable for the entire family. By so doing the theater has been an asset to the community. There is only one way to keep the Palace operating during the winter—local patronage. Recent concern by the Chamber of Commerce and other local groups can do little more than focus attention to one important fact. If enough people want to go to the movies, the Palace theater will be showing them here.

It's National Newspaper Week

Co-operating with thousands of newspapers throughout the nation in observing National Newspaper Week (Oct. 1 to 8) seems like the opportune time to thank the entire community for its gracious acceptance of the Courier as ITS NEWSPAPER. It also seems appropriate this week to call attention to the service your newspaper tries to render the community.

Loyal subscribers are invaluable to any newspaper and we sincerely appreciate the loyalty of our readers. They have been generous enough to overlook our shortcomings and tolerant enough to accept our differences of opinion. It is the aim of the Courier to assemble and print all the news of the community with unbiased honesty. Editorials may appear biased to those who do not hold the same views but it should be remembered an editorial is only the writers views, presented with sincerety for the principal purpose of stimulating public interest. It should be remembered, too, that the Courier also has a column for any individual who cares to express constructive criticism or suggest proposals for the benefit of the community.

Our advertisers, too, play a most important part in publishing a newspaper. Without them the cost of a year's subscription would jump to an unreasonable figure. Courier advertiser are doing a two-fold job. First they are keeping our readers acquainted with the merchandis they stock to serve their needs and keep them informed on price trends. In fact, it is the advertising in the Courier that makes it possible for your community newspaper to exist. We appreciate their loyalty and believe our readers are no less appreciative.

We can not overlook the contributions of the community correspondents who so faithfully write the news of their respective communities each week. We realize, and we hope our readers do, that our correspondents must necessarily put personal tasks aside and give unselfishly of their time in order to get the news and meet the deadlines for publication.

Throughout its 63 years the Courier has contributed generously to the promotion of community activities. We believed that during National Newspaper Week is the proper time to pledge the future support of the Courier to every cause and project for the betterment of Charlevoix and the surrounding community.

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

AND ANOTHER month is gone . . . And despite the rain and the wind September wasn't such a bad month this year . . . It featured a bit of everything, weather-wise . . . One thing was missed and that's snow . . . There've been many years that we've had a bit of real nasty weather with a sprinkling of snow . . . Do you suppose it's a good sign? . . . We sure hope so because we'd like some weather we can enjoy for a while . . So keep your fingers crossed and hope that the weather of last week . . or at least the good part of it . . . will continue thru the football season which ends Nov. 7.

* * *

SPEAKING OF November . . . that reminds us . . . The big general election is coming up Nov. 4 . . . and you have until Monday to register if you want to cast your ballot . . . Voting is a privilege so if you haven't signed your little Sam or Sara Scratchit to the registry sheet, let's get with it so you can exercise that privilege . . And don't put it off because days have a habit of getting away from you before you know it!

* * *

THIS IS THE big weekend for Beaver Island . . . when the Irish of America's Emerald Isle roll out the welcome mat to the dawn patrol . . . Last year they had close to 200 planes, as we remember it, whose occupants increased the population of the island by several hundred . . , Everyone had a whale of a time and from what we hear there's even a bigger weekend panned for this year . . . Sounds like great fun and we're sure that the visitors will have the time of their lives . . . 'cause nothing is quite as warm as Irish hospitality.

* * *

THERE'S ALL sorts of activity going on in our neighborhood . . . or perhaps we should say 'planned' for it . . . Right now there's a lots doing over at the Beach Hotel where there's a swimming pool being built . . . where there's buildings being torn down and lots of work underway inside the hotel too . . . And over on the corner of Michigan and Dixon is where the new motel will be built . . . As this is written the work hasn't started but we understand it soon will . . . You know, as long as we can remember (and that's quite a while), that corner's been an eyesore . . . Not that it's looked too bad in recent years because it's been leveled off, a few old trees cut and the grass mowed occasionally . . . But it's such a grand location it seemed a shame to have it just lying there idle . . . But now it's going to be the site of a beautiful motel that's sure to be attractive . . . and certainly well kept . . . So we're anxious to have work start on it . . . So it can be ready for next year.

* * *

IT WILL BE the swan song for the great American sport of baseball during the week . . . The nine inning stuff that's cluttered up the airlanes since mid-April will end with the World Series now being played off . . . between the New York Yankees (who else?) and the Milwaukee Braves . . . Not that we won't be listening or watching along with the rest of you . . . but we'll be glad when it's over . . . and football can come into its own . . .

* * *

AND SPEAKING of football (as you'll hear us do often from now on 'cause we love it), the Rayders sure did a bit of alright against Mancelona Friday night . . . We didn't see the game but we hear that the Ironmen were sure over-rated . . . which comes of comparing teams on the basis of returning veterans and lettermen . . . We're glad that one's behind them . . . And now for another big one this weekend . . . when Charlevoix hosts Gaylord Blue Devils . . . Gaylord was not supposed to have much but thus far they've done OK . . .

Bowling News

BY DES

The bowling league tightened up quite a bit as some of the lower place teams made their move. Brown Motors took over sole possession of first place as they won 3 points from Puff's. The big men for Browns was Kenny Balch with a 213 game and a 530 series and Ken Empey with a 205 game in a 511 series. Poor Puff was trying all the way with a 587 series and a 212 game, but the next highest man was 458.

* * *

Neff stayed right in the running only a ½ point back by taking 2½ points from Swanson. H. Struthers and "Big" Bergmann fought it out for high honors with Howard winning total by 7 pins 561 to 554. However "Big" had the big game of 206. Swanson didn't do too much, and I mean exactly what I said. Every man on the team had the same name — Swanson, and Ron was high with 465.

* * *

Sinclair Oil moved from the number 10 spot up to 4th by winning all 4 points from Freedman No. 1. The Oilers had a good one-two punch in Riley and McKenzie (and that's all they had). Tip was high with a big 555 series and Louie finally came around and rolled a 209 game in a 543 series. Freedmans hit a little slump and dropped to third position as the best they could do was a 498 series. 200 game by John Swanson.

* * *

The Airport dropped into a 4-way tie for 6th even after taking 3 points from Lake Construction. The Inn had a big series of 2622, high for the season, as 4 of 5 men hit over the 500 mark. Des 522, Hank 528, Soupie 549 and their sleeper Dick Harju who led the way with a 213 game, 550 series and Dick only married a little over a month! It was big John Wojan who helped Lake to their lone point with a nice 555 series and a 200 game. Ron Wojan rolled a 205 game. Al Smith was determined — never once did he get under 90 — in fact he ended up 56 pins over his average.

* * *

Hess Furniture snapped out of their losing ways as they took 4 points from Browe. Herb Moore was again high for Hess with a 535 series. Bill Novotny was a close second with a 210 game in a 525 series. Its a good thing Ralph Jr. is his own sponsor as he only had a 106 first game—probably seasick. Browes didn't look too strong as their high man was Nat Harriman with 416. Ted had a big fat 91 last game. No comment!

* * *

Moonlight almost took 4 points from Freedman No. 2 but they lacked 1 pin as they tied the last game. Jim Lawyer led Moonlight to their 3½ points with a 490, while Gordon Bartlett and Dick Edwards were playing the game "See. Who Can Hit The Fewest Pins." Guess what? They ended up in a tie, 373 apiece. L. Smith was high for Freedmans with a 393. This teams liable to be rough later on. At the end of each month we'll put in the season highs and the 5 top bowlers in the league.

Justice Court News

It's Your Newspaper

★ The Courier is a private business, yet no other business is so public! The existance of the Courier is justified only by the service it renders to you — the subscribers, the advertisers and the community as a whole.

★ The Courier is a public service—serving our community with local news, inspirational and informative articles, advertising and commentary. It is devoted to the promotion of every project that will mean the betterment of the community.

★ And most important—the Courier is a 100 per cent home institution. It's a manufacturing plant operating 52 weeks every year, converting raw material—paper, ink, metal and power into a finished product — your newspaper. Its employees own their own homes in the community and contribute their full share to the support of the community in every way possible.

A Touch of Greatness

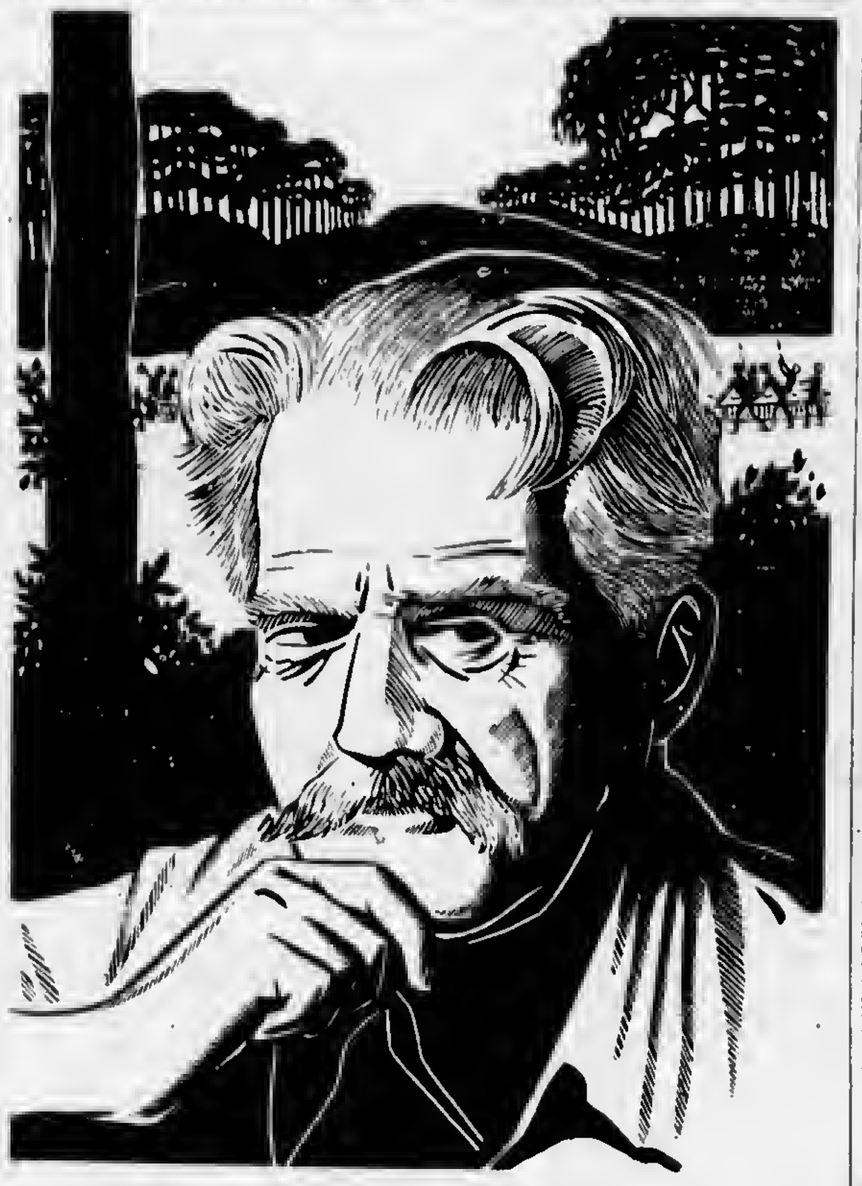
By Harold E. Kohn



DR. ALBERT SCHWEITZER

The Measure of A Man

Among the characteristics that distinguish human beings from the rest of the animal kingdom is the extent to which man is capable of distributing his concern, sympathy and love. A grizzly bear mother will imperil her life to protect her cubs. She will rush an armed hunter, if she feels he threatens the welfare of her young. Even after being mortally wounded she will continue to defend her cubs. But a female grizzly will not hazard her life to protect the cubs of some other mother grizzly, nor those of a black bear mother, nor will she risk her life to guard the fawns of a neighboring mule deer. Her concern is narrowly restricted.

Occasionally there are reports of a female dog with suckling pups adopting motherless baby skunks that are given her to nurse, and, it is thought that some whitetail does will care for another doe's abandoned or orphaned fawn. But even in these exceptional, newsmaking instances, concern is narrowly restricted. The adopted infants are not sought out, but forced upon the foster mothers, or else she chances upon forsaken youngsters, and an opportunity for expression of her natural instincts is ready-made.

But human beings, at their best, will seek out occasions for expressing sympathy, concern and love. And men and women have been known to lay down their lives voluntarily for total strangers and for people of other races.

One evening a professor of philosophy was about to go to work on his lectures for the following day, and was tidying his desk before commencing his study. Among the papers he picked up was a magazine published by the Paris Missionary Society. He was about to throw the magazine aside when the title of an article caught his eye — "The Needs of the Congo Missions." The philosophy professor read the article, and then noted in his diary "My search is over." The professor, Dr. Albert Schweitzer, had been seeking a place where he could invest his remaining years in some meaningful service to mankind, and the missionary report pointed to a place of need that demanded a rare degree of consecration and hard work. Dr. Schweitzer began the study of medicine and surgery and went to French Equatorial Africa where he labors to this day. There this scholar, who has doctor's degrees in philosophy, theology, music and medicine, lovingly spends his energy to bring healing to the bodies and minds of black men.

Early in life Albert Scheitzer demonstrated his expansive interest in humankind. As a boy he was healthy, rugged and strong, and he loved to wrestle with other boys who attended the village school. One day he threw a neighbor boy, and the youngster complained, "If I could have broth to eat every day as you do, I'd be so strong you couldn't throw me." Young Albert was so impressed that he went home and told his parents that as long as the neighbor's boy could have no broth, he would take none. He later discovered that other lads in the village were wearing old shoes that could not keep their feet warm. Albert's shoes were good, but he reported to his parents that he would not wear good shoes unless the other boys could have them. The Schweitzer boy was a problem to his parents because he refused to live up to his social status. He preferred to identify himself with the poor and the needy.

Later in life, he explained his philosophy of missions, saying, "If there is any ethical thinking at all among us, how can we refuse to let these new discoveries benefit those who, in distant lands, are subject to even greater physical distress than we are? ... Whoever among us has, thru personal experience, learned what pain and anxiety really are must help to insure that those who are out there in bodily need obtain the help which came to him. He belongs no more to himself alone; he has become the brother of all who suffer."

Sympathy, the capacity to suffer with and for other people, is one accurate index to character. The expansive, all-inclusive interest, concern and love that goes out beyond the people who live under ones own roof is the measure of a man like Schweitzer. He is as big as the world is large.
